New Witch Broth.
Wales Will Remember.
The Terraplane Mystery.
The Deaf Man Shouted.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

"Eye of newt, and toe of frog,
"Wool of bat, and tongue of dog."

Also, you remember the baby's finger, fillet of a fenny snake, adder's fork, and blind-worm's sting.

All that is nothing to the "stop Roosevelt" broth now being concocted in Chicago. Every baleful ingredient is mixed in that strange soup.

If the New York Governor escapes the dish prepared by the "stop Roosevelt" crowd, he will prove himself an able politician.

WHICH OF the following happenings would be called "news?"

In Chile Socialistic and Communistic experimenters inaugurate a curfew that stops everything at 10 p. m. Theaters close at eight-thirty.

A new comet has been found near the South Pole, of tenth magnitude, visible to the naked eye. If it wishes to keep out of the depression it should STAY near the South Pole.

VON PAPEN, Germany's new chancellor, proposes privately a military alliance between France and Germany.

Some Americans, veterans and others, will exclaim:

"What do you know about that?"

We do not know anything, except that it is not improbable.

THE PRINCE OF WALES was thirty-eight years old yesterday and looks back over a busy year. In it he took up fast motor boating, book collecting, motorcycle driving.

Two of his barns in Canada were burned, he was ill several days, got a new dog to replace the old one, played Santa Claus with white whiskers on Christmas, set the fashion for spotted ties and turned down soft collars, even with a "morning coat" and stovepipe hat.

He met Amelia Earhart, discussed flying with her, installed a radio in his airplane, attended the Doumer funeral.

These things he will forget. But never will he forget that in his thirty-eighth year he made a hole in one.

WHAT IS "terraplane?" It is a mysterious word that certain energetic makers of automobiles and Arthur Kudner, who looks after their publicity, have been muttering and whispering mysteriously for some time.

News from Detroit, whither Mr. Kudner has just flown in his two-engine Sikorsky, reports that the mysterious "terraplane" has to do with the launching of a new automobile.

Newspaper publishers will greet the information pleasantly since it means important advertising.

It takes courage to start anything new just now, more particularly a new automobile. But there is always room at the top, and opportunity, for there is no crowd there to impede your movements.

LAST NIGHT in Dublin's Phoenix Park, well known as the scene of a great political tragedy, a scene very different was arranged. Two hundred and fifty thousand men, in military formation, sang before a high altar, in the presence of Cardinal Lauri, papal legate, who presided at the great outdoor demonstration.

A special choir of men led the singing of the great army of 250,000. Microphones and amplifiers added to the volume of sound.

ONCE, GOES the story, it was suggested that all the earth's inhabitants unite in a great shout at the same moment, that men on the moon, if any, might hear it. When the moment came, all but one man kept perfectly silent, waiting to hear the great noise. The one man that shouted was stone deaf.

WE WHO WORRY about small things, ought to remember our blessings, including the usual quietness of the world's big oceans. Mexicans are reminded of it by an earthquake four hundred miles out in the Pacific, west of Cuyutlan. The floor of the ocean, rising, sent a great tidal wave inland, killing thirty-four in Cuyutlan, carrying many out to sea. We should be grateful that oceans and lakes behave so well, making tidal waves so rare.

The slightest check in the earth's turning on its axis would send waves a mile high all over the earth, sweeping away everything that men have done. That would cause a real depression.

MUSSOLINI DOES what he undertakes. He knew that millions in gold lay at the bottom of the sea in the British steamer Egypt, and sent divers to get the gold, at a depth hitherto accounted hopeless.

Two good ships with 15 able seaman were lost. But such things do not stop Mussolini, and yesterday the first million dollars worth of gold bars came up from the Egypt's hold.

First the Italian crew danced with joy, then knelt to pray for comrades drowned. Today they will resume bringing up gold bars.

SENATORS INVESTIGATING the market have invited "lambs" that lost in stock speculation to tell their sad tales. No senator could live long enough to hear the stories that "lambs" have to tell.

However, when the next boom comes, with the "ticker running behind the market" and "ten million share days," and call money up around fifteen per cent, the same "lambs" will come back "looking for more."

WOMAN, 3 MEN ACCUSED IN RANKIN BLAST

SMITH CHIEF HINTS 'DEAL' ON NOMINEE

'Al' May Quit If Roosevelt Does; Tammany Joins N. Y. Governor's Foes

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS

Mark Shields, political editor, wires from Chicago a discussion of Pennsylvania's influence for a Democratic candidate. See First Page, Second Section.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

Everything now points to this Democratic national convention witnessing a fight just as intense and bitter as that of eight years ago, although probably it will be settled in less rounds.

Developments that plainly indicated this were:

1—A blunt warning by Al Smith, speaking through his floor manager, Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, that Franklin D. Roosevelt cannot win in November if nominated. The statement characterized Roosevelt as "the weakest man" before the convention and was construed as an offer by Smith to withdraw if Roosevelt does.

2—A decision by the Roosevelt managers to attempt abrogation of the two-thirds rule, followed by a Tammany Hall decision to fight such a move and warnings by other candidates, including a third-party threat by Gov. Murray.

3—Co-ordination of all the anti-Roosevelt forces into a last-ditch battle to prevent his nomination either by the two-thirds rule or the majority rule.

SPLIT ON RULE

The movement for abolition of the ancient two-thirds nominating rule created a major eruption, and divided even the Roosevelt camp itself.

Opinion was badly divided over whether the Roosevelt managers can force the rules change through the convention — or whether, in the long run, they will dare attempt it for fear of causing such a bitter split that the nomination might be worthless to anyone.

The proposal itself had the effect of rallying to the defense of

Democrats Think Party Is Fete For Birthdays

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The various Democratic candidates seem to think that a party means something in celebration of their birthdays.

They would all rather hang alone than stick together.

Put all their ante-mortem statements in a hat, shake them up well and you have the perfect oath of allegiance of the composite Democratic candidate:

"My first choice is me. My second choice is me.

"My third choice is also me. I am for the people if they vote for me. I am for the American flag if they wave it over me. When I put on my hat it covers the entire situation.

"Give me a New York decision and I'll retreat like Sharkey and back into the White House on all-fours.

"I'm the nation's choice, the dark horse and the spare tire.

"I'm the sugar in your coffee, I'm the coffee in your saucer and I'm the spoon in your eye.

"Gentlemen, you thank me."

Board Ignores Fans' Protest Over Sharkey

By SID MERCER

NEW YORK, June 24.—(Universal.)—Although the integrity of their officials has been publicly impugned in the storm of protest still raging over the decision that made Jack Sharkey heavyweight champion last Tuesday night, the New York State Athletic Commission is sitting tight and complacently ignoring the general demand for an investigation of the processes whereby Max Schmeling was deprived of the title.

A regular commission meeting is scheduled for this afternoon at the State Building, but nothing except routine business is contemplated. Joe Jacobs, who yelled "robbery" over a nation-wide radio hookup Tuesday night and followed up with a strong indictment of the officials, has not been summoned nor have the referee and two judges been asked to appear. The attitude of the commission is that nothing will be done unless somebody files formal charges.

PROTESTS POUR IN

Meanwhile the flood of telegrams, cables and letters protesting against the decision continues as a backwash of sentiment from all over the world—sentiment aroused by the radio report which had Schmeling winning all the way and Sharkey getting the decision.

Garden officials were bombarded with complaints and it was

COOPER LEADS IN OPEN GOLF

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y., June 24.—Harry Cooper, Chicago professional, who lost to Tommy Armour at the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh, in a play-off for the 1927 title, paced early finishers of the second 18-hole round in the United States Open golf tournament here today.

Cooper today added a 73 to his 77 of yesterday for a 36-hole total of 150. Clarence Clark, of Bloomfield, N. J., shot a 72 total and was second with 151. Tom Creavy, national pro champion, had a second round 71 and was tied with Charles Guest, Deal, N. J., at 154.

Two Pittsburgh district entrants, Peter O'Hara, of Westmoreland, and Sam Parks, Jr., of Uniontown, rallied today to card 76 and 78, respectively. Their totals of 159 each probably will give them places with the low 60 who will continue play tomorrow. Rader Jewett, of Wheeling, W. Va., carded 85 for a total of 166, and Jack Thompson, of Youngstown, O., 82 for 169.

PROBE BARES BIG UTILITY PROFITS

Heads of Duquesne Light And West Penn Power Appear Before P. S. C.

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The first of a series of meetings between representatives of the Duquesne Light Company and the West Penn Power Company with the Public Service Commission with a view to reduction in rates, disclosed that utility earnings for the last several years have ranged from 8 to 10 per cent, according to well-informed officials.

After preliminary conferences, those participating adjourned to meet again in two weeks.

A sub-committee of the commission, which is studying electric rates, went over the reports of the two companies today with the officials of each. These reports, compiled from data supplied by the utilities firms, are said to have revealed excess earnings, although a considerable cut in receipts was shown for the first quarter of 1932 compared with previous corresponding periods. The legal return is 7 per cent.

C. K. Robinson, counsel for the Duquesne Light Company, prior to the conference, said:

"We have come here in a receptive mood to find out what the commission has in mind."

The West Penn Power Company was represented by H. L. Mitchell, president; W. H. Swinney, secretary, and D. I. McCahill, counsel.

Eads, Tax Board Veteran, Quits Job

Samuel Eads, dean of employes in the office of the Allegheny County Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes and employed by the county for the past 35 years, today tendered his resignation in a letter to George E. Meyers, chairman of the board. Eads is understood to have been dissatisfied with the methods of the new administration. He was chief clerk of the board for many years.

Legless Paper Man Falls Dead at Work

While selling papers at Liberty avenue and Seventh street, his stand for several years, this afternoon, Robert (Butch) Myers, 45, legless, fell off his wheel chair to the sidewalk unconscious. Patrolman John Kelly had him taken in a taxicab to the Allegheny General Hospital where he was pronounced dead presumably from a heart attack. He lived at 110 Anderson street.

Explosion Preceding Fire Felt for Miles; Trolley, Auto Traffic Blocked

A woman and three men were arrested early today following a terrific explosion and fire which wrecked two buildings at 311 and 313 West Braddock avenue, Rankin, shattered windows in numerous adjoining houses and injured five persons, two seriously.

Flaming embers showered the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks nearby and fired the West Braddock Bridge, spanning the Monongahela River, tying up trolley and automobile traffic.

HEARD FOR MILES

The explosion was heard for miles.

Suspected of having conspired to fire the dwelling at 311 West Braddock avenue, Frank Getz, his wife, Rose, and John Adrina, 37, of Burton street, and John Mihalchick, 32, of 1809 Hanover street, Swissvale, were arrested by County Detective Joseph Bednar and Chief of Police Michael Jordan, of Rankin.

Detectives said Mihalchick implicated Mr. and Mrs. Getz, Adrina and a fourth man, who is alleged to have instructed them how to fire the building.

FOUR INJURED

The blast rocked the neighborhood, hurling many persons from their beds. Chester Johns, Jr., 15, of 315 West Braddock avenue; Eston Williams, 39, Negro, of 313 West Braddock avenue, his wife and daughter, Ursel, 17, were injured.

Mihalchick, in his alleged confession, said that the gasoline was brought to the house in five-gallon cans. Mihalchick led the officers to Frick Woods, where the cans were retrieved.

The destroyed building was insured for $8,000, police said.

Coyne Denies Break With Kline Threatens

"Poison Shooters!"

So spoke Senator James J. Coyne today in description of those who, he said, are trying to cause a political split between him and Mayor Kline.

With unmistakable emphasis and accent the Oakland political boss gave the lie to reports that Mayor Kline is about to establish a new political machine which will ignore Coyne. He added:

"For six years poison shooters have been trying to make the Mayor and me enemies. But we're still friends and we're going to be friends."

LOUNGES IN FARMHOUSE

Hornbostel on Honeymoon, Secret Marriage Revealed

Henry Hornbostel, nationally famous Pittsburgh architect, and his bride of five weeks, Miss Mabelle Sylvester Weston, Peabody High School teacher of typewriting, today are motoring to the Hornbostel family home in Harwinton, Conn.

Announcement of their marriage on May 14 in Pittsburgh were received by friends about the time the couple departed from the Hotel Schenley today. They will be at home at the Elms, in Connecticut, until fall and then, according to friends of Mrs. Hornbostel, will sail for Europe.

Intimate friends of Hornbostel were surprised when it was announced that he had been married last month. They had been led to believe that he would be married in Greensburg today.

Hornbostel is noted for his designing of the Harding Memorial, at Marion, O., and Westinghouse Memorial in Schenley Park, the buildings of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Grant Building, Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Hall, Schenley Apartments and University Club.

At the Schenley Apartments, where Hornbostel resided, it was said he had shipped his furniture to Connecticut.

At Schenley Hotel it was said Mrs. Hornbostel had been registered there for some time.

SON JOINS EX-KAISER IN PARLEYS ON RETURN TO THRONE

SECRET TALKS HELD WITH BANKERS

Monarchists Scan Prospects Of Restoring Wilhelm to Power; Consult for Hours

LONDON, June 24.—(AP.)—Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, of Germany, joined his father, the former Kaiser, at Zandvoort, Holland, the Daily Herald said today in a dispatch from Amsterdam.

The former crown prince's visit, the first he has made to Holland in seven years, the paper said, is to attend a conference of former members of the German royal family and monarchist politicians on the possibility of restoring the Hohenzollerns to the German throne.

The former kaiser is spending a short vacation at Zandvoort.

CONSULTS BANKERS

The Herald said the former kaiser's secret talks with German bankers and politicians began last week at Zandvoort and were interrupted by his decision to return to Doorn for the week-end.

Early yesterday, it said, he returned under cover of darkness to the palatial mansion of Baron Von Heidt at Zandvoort and was joined a few hours later by the former crown prince, who had arrived there after a dash across Germany from East Prussia. The Herald's account said:

"With the arrival of the former crown prince, the gathering was complete for hearing reports on the situation in Germany and developments in the monarchist movement. The private talks between the bankers and politicians and the secret emissaries continued until late last night."

Von Papen Lays Plans For French Alliance

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

LAUSANNE, June 24.—(INS.)—The first definite step toward a Franco-German "understanding"—with a political and military alliance the ultimate aim—was taken by Chancellor Franz Von Papen, of the Reich, today during a private meeting with Premier Edouard Herriot, of France.

It provided Von Papen with his first real opportunity to develop with the French premier his idea of an all-inclusive Franco-German union.

Chancellor Von Papen himself today furnished final and authentic confirmation of his unprecedented plan. He made it clear that he firmly intends to develop his idea, but he has too delicate a diplomatic hand to force the issue in any way and thus incur the risk of "bruising France's war memories."

It may be stated with absolute authority that the basis of the new German chancellor's foreign policy is a political and military alliance with France.

But he intends to progress by easy stages, approaching the topic by delicate routes to see how the idea "takes" with France.

It was in this connection that he held today's conference with Premier Herriot. While the talk ostensibly concerned economic cooperation between the two traditional enemies of Continental Europe, International News Service learned that before the conference ended, Von Papen entered on what might be termed "delicate ground."

Hitler Makes Demand For Martial Law

MUNICH, Bavaria, June 24.—(AP.)—Adolf Hitler, in a public declaration issued from Nazi headquarters today, demanded establishment of martial law throughout Germany as a result of continuing political clashes which this week have cost 10 lives.

Furthermore he demanded that the Communist party be suppressed and that the police, especially those in Prussia, be purged of Socialist and Centrist members. He warned:

Poland Criticizes Hoover Arms Plan

WARSAW, Poland, June 24.—(AP.)—Pro-government newspapers today subjected President Hoover's proposal for a one-third reduction in the world's armaments to severe criticism. Kurjerporanny, a morning paper, called it "an American election maneuver," adding:

"Woodrow Wilson contributed to the creation of Poland, and Hoover kept her from starving. Therefore, the American nation has no right to expose her now to German bayonets."

King Hears Hoover Disarmament Plan

The King received first-hand information on the Hoover plan late yesterday from Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, who returned to London from Lausanne and Geneva to confer with the Cabinet.

DELAY ACTION ON ARMS CUT

GENEVA, June 24.—(INS.)—The private disarmament conversations which the American, British and French delegations have been holding here were postponed today until Monday.

The action came at the request of the British and French statesmen, who said they wished to await official reaction from their respective countries to the Hoover arms reduction plan before continuing the present negotiations.

Specifically, they desired to await the return of Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, who was in London today explaining the bold American proposal to the British cabinet, and of Joseph Paul-Boncour, French minister of war, who likewise was in Paris to lay the plan before the French cabinet.

U. S. Thanks Italy For Arms Cut Accord

ROME, June 24.—(INS.)—United States Ambassador John W. Garrett today delivered to Premier Mussolini a message from Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson expressing the American government's appreciation of Italy's prompt and total acceptance of President Hoover's disarmament proposal.

British Pacifists Score Arms Trade

Judge of Election Cleared at Retrial

On a retrial, W. C. Stewart, judge of election in the Fifth District, Twenty-fifth Ward, today was cleared of charges of violating the election laws by Judge Elder W. Marshall. Stewart had been found guilty of permitting 21 persons to register whose names had been ordered stricken from the books. Judge Marshall said he quashed the case after reconstruing an opinion by Judge James R. Macfarlane.

Suspend Sentence Of Bank Cashier

Judge Elder W. Marshall today suspended sentence on Bernard A. Friedmann, 28, former cashier of the Pennsylvania Deposit Bank, McKeesport, who had pleaded guilty to embezzling $14,000, pending final settlement to save the bonding company from loss. If settlement is not made, the court said, Friedmann would be sent to jail.

DENIES BRIBERY IN JAILBREAK

BOSTON, June 24.—(INS.)—Denying reports that he might have "bought" his way out of Pittsburgh Central Police Station, Ernest H. Abbott, alias Donald Doane, 23, of Madison, Ill., Boston and Pittsburgh, was returned here from Oklahoma today.

Abbott, a short, frail-looking youth, escaped with two other inmates from Charlestown State Prison a year ago after nearly beating to death a prison guard.

His two companions were captured the same day, bbut Abbott eluded the law for nearly a year. He was captured in Pittsburgh, but escaped with a saw he had smuggled into his cell, visited his mother at Madison, Ill., hid while police raided the home, went on to Oklahoma and was arrested in Muskogee on a charge of being a "suspicious person."

BLEDSOE PLEA THRILLS COURT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 24.—For three hours today Attorney E. J. McDaniel, counsel for R. C. Bledsoe and Cosmo Stengoni, held a crowded courtroom spellbound as he made his argument to the jury which will decide the fate of the pair, accused of the murder of Constable Jack Donohoe in a racket murder three years ago.

Denouncing Tony Bell as a "liar" and Donohoe as a "pirate," he shouted:

"The parade of perjurers has never been equaled in the history of Fayette County."

This afternoon the state was to make its closing argument, and after a charge by Judge E. J. Morrow the case was expected to go to the jury late today.

Wholesale arrests for perjury are indicated since the court ordered an information be made against Tony Bell. District Attorney Wade K. Newell declared today that no perjury action would be taken until the termination of the present trial.

Although Bell is immune from punishment for participation in the Donohoe murder, he faces 10 to 15 years' imprisonment.

JOBLESS 'ARMY' AID REFUSED BY PINCHOT

Governor Denies Plea for Food and Lodging for Delegation to Legislature

HARRISBURG, June 24.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today declined to provide food and lodging for a delegation of 200 representatives of unemployed councils and labor unions in the state who desire to present an "adequate" relief program to the Legislature Monday night.

The Governor today received a telegram from John W. Parks, Philadelphia, secretary of the State Unemployed Council of Philadelphia, advising him that the 200 delegates would arrive here Monday night when the Legislature convenes in extraordinary session to consider unemployment relief measures. Parks asked for food and lodging for the delegations and arrangements to have it present its "adequate" program on the floor of the Legislature. The Governor wired Parks:

"Any arrangements for presenting program to Legislature must be handled through officials of Legislature. The administration can make no arrangements for food and lodging."

Parks' telegram follows:

"State unemployed councils have considered 14-point program. We are definitely convinced proposed measures will mean practically nothing to unemployed. Delegation of 200 representing unemployed councils and labor unions from Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and anthracite Lehigh Valley will arrive at Harrisburg Monday night to present adequate program for unemployment relief appropriation. We request that arrangements be made for delegation to present program to the floor of Legislature. Also food and lodging be arranged for delegation."

Beechview Trestle Endangered by Fire

A Pittsburgh Railways Company trestle over Cape May avenue, Beechview, was threatened today by flames that destroyed a one-story garage at Cape May and Kenberena street. Firemen who responded to an alarm reported that some of the timbers supporting the bridge were in flames upon their arrival. A truck, owned by Frank Kelleher, was burned. Damage was estimated at $1,500 by firemen.

Broken Wire Causes Beadling Gas Blaze

Flames from a leaking gas main, shooting high in the air, awoke residents of Beadling, near Mt. Lebanon, early today when a 32,000-volt light wire broke and sparks ignited gas, seeping from a connection leading into the Beadling Presbyterian Church.

Mt. Lebanon firemen extinguished the blazing light pole. Duquesne Light Company employes later shut off the gas and repaired the wires.

South Hills Picnic Being Held Today

Dormont and Mt. Lebanon communities are holding outings at Kennywood Park today. The Mt. Lebanon picnic is under the auspices of the Lions Club, and the Dormont outing is being sponsored by a group of citizens. Bell, Oakwood, Windgap, Obie, Troy, John Burroughs and Reserve Township public school children are picnicking at West View Park.

NO MOTHER'S HELP

LADY CAVENDISH . . . PRESENTED AT COURT OF ST. JAMES

The newlywed wife of Lord Charles Cavendish, 27, presented at England's court by the Countess of Airlie and not by her qualified mother-in-law, the Duchess of Devonshire, mistress of the robes who pleaded indisposition and raised conjecture as to a rift between them. Lady Cavendish is Adele Astaire, 33, star of musical comedy.

DUCHESS SHUNS ADELE IN BOW

LONDON, June 24.—(INS.)—While eight more American women prepared to make their bows before King George and Queen Mary at the season's fourth royal court tonight, society circles today buzzed with conjectures as to why Adele Astaire, American dancer, was not presented by her new mother-in-law at last night's court.

The American girl, the six-weeks' bride of Lord Charles Cavendish, was presented to their majesties by the Countess of Airlie despite the fact her mother-in-law, the Duchess of Devonshire, also is mistress of the robes.

In this latter capacity her presence at the royal courts is virtually mandatory, while the custom of so prominent a mother presenting her son's bride is as old as the courts themselves.

The statement that the duchess was "indisposed" failed to quiet rumors of a rift between her and her new daughter-in-law who, at 33, is five years older than Lord Cavendish, who at the time of his marriage, was considered one of England's most eligible bachelors.

Miss Joan Diehl, of Pittsburgh, was presented last night.

COYNE DENIES RIFT LOOMS

that the Mayor is planning to dismiss large numbers in the police and fire departments.

The Senator guessed that as many as 200 in these departments will be pensioned. But he explained:

"That is because of economy. The budget calls for reducing the payroll.

"If all we hear about these shakeups were true, we wouldn't have a cop left on the streets, neither would we have a fireman."

Senator Coyne does not expect to see Inspector James N. (The Ump) Hoey, one of his earliest proteges, dismissed, although he admits Hoey is under somewhat of a barrage. He appeared to agree that Inspectors Charlie Faulkner, on the North Side, and Joe Elsner, in the Strip, were being put on the political spot.

DOUBTS SHAKEUP

But it will be a genuine surprise to Coyne if the political system the Mayor has built up in six years is suddenly overthrown simply to establish another machine with, as the reports have it, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh a virtual dictator, usurping the power of the chairman. Said Coyne:

'L'ook at the Mayor's record and you'll find he's never made any shakeup such as they're talking about. It takes him a long time to decide to fire any man. And you can say those poison-shooters who have been trying to split up the Mayor and me won't be successful."

2 Women, Man Hurt When Auto Crashes

Two women and a man were injured today when their automobile crashed into a parked American Reduction Company truck at Forbes and Gist street, according to a police report. The injured, taken to Mercy Hospital, were Mrs. Marie Stewart, 45, of 5842 Center avenue; John Heitinger, 27, of 925 Letche street, and his wife, Katherine.

Oakland Chinese, American Girl Wed

The marriage of George Wah, a Chinese, to Miss Barbara Sholting, an American girl of Greek parentage, in New Cumberland, W. Va., was revealed today.

Wah was formerly employed in a Chinese laundry at 3600 Bates street. The couple expects to live in California.

House, Senate Conferees To Meet on Measures; Veto by Hoover Hinted

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A compromise jobless relief program, carrying at least $2,300,000,000 to stimulate employment and provide food for the needy, loomed today as the Garner-Wagner programs were sent to a Senate-House conference.

The Senate and House had each adopted its own relief program, but leaders in the fight for legislation were confident a compromise can be reached.

The prospect for early agreement was enhanced by the Senate's action in passing the Wagner program as an amendment to the Garner bill, thus permitting the measure to go directly to conference.

VETO THREAT

A presidential veto, hinted by administration leaders, appeared to be a more formidable threat.

Both the Garner and Wagner programs carry bond issues for public works to create jobs, a plan that has been attacked by President Hoover as unsound and a menace to the government's financial position.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, author of the Senate measure, was confident it would meet White House approval. The Senate vote on the bond issue feature of the Wagner bill indicated it could be passed over a veto.

The principal features of both measures are:

The Garner program provides $100,000,000 for direct relief to be administered by the President; the Wagner bill authorized $300,000,000 in loans to states for unemployment relief, the states in turn to loan to cities.

HOUSE MEASURE

The House measure provides a billion dollars and the Senate a billion and a half for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, but the Garner bill gives the board wide discretion while the Wagner bill restricts loans to self-liquidating projects of public or semi-public bodies.

The Wagner bill provides a bond issue of $500,000,00 for Federal public works, $200,000,000 of which has already been provided in appropriation bills. The Garner program provides for a $1,200,000,000 federal public works program to be financed by a one-fourth of one cent a gallon tax on gasoline.

Both the Senate and House measures total about $2,300,000,000 and are estimated to provide employment, directly or indirectly, to a million men. These estimates of friends of the legislation were disputed by administration leaders. Senator Moses, (Rep.), of New Hampshire, said the funds for highway purposes would employ but 100,000 men.

ECONOMY BILL NEAR PASSAGE

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—Though distasteful to many Senators because of provisions they fear will impose cruel hardship on government employes, the national economy bill appeared due for Senate passage today and final enactment.

Were the measure's savings of $150,000,000 to $175,000,000 not vital to the government's plan of running on a balaced budget next fiscal year, there was every indication that the Senate would not accept the changes made in conference with the House. But with the session almost over, many of the objectors were disposed to let it pass, seeking to correct inequalities later.

Principal savings in the ball are based on reduction in the federal payroll, obtained through a month's compulsory payless furlough for the majority of the workers, and flat pay cuts for those who are indispensable. One provision is that where man and wife, living together, are working for the government and a personnel reduction is necessary, one or the other must be discharged before any other employes. This, said Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, was "busting up homes," compelling couples with children to support to separate.

Washington Fete Marks Allegheny Graduation

One hundred and eighty-nine seniors of Allegheny High School will receive diplomas at the fifty-third annual commencement exercises in the Heinz Auditorium tonight.

The pageant will be enacted by all of the 120 girls and 69 boys of the class.

The pageant was written by Ralph Elliot Blakeslee, teacher of English, and is directed by Miss Elizabeth Howe, chairman of production. Miss Clara Scott is the general chairman of the pageant, and Miss Ella Hazlewood, director of art, is in charge of the decoration.

Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Howard Kicster, and George Emminger has charge of lights and sceneries.

Vernon S. Beachley, principal, will present the graduating class to Dr. Ben Graham, superintendent of the city schools, who will make the presentation of diplomas.

Two students, Misses Lilian Louise Baltzer and Helen Elizabeth Nied, will graduate with highest honor, 12 with high honor and 19 with honor.

Hepburn Walker, Society Leader, Sued by Wife

Mrs. Eleanor Scott Walker, prominent society matron of Lark Inn Fields, Shields, today filed suit for divorce against Hepburn Walker, scion of one of the old families of the Sewickley Valley.

Mrs. Walker and her husband are members of the Allegheny Country Club and leaders in the social activities in the exclusive set of the valley and Pittsburgh. The suit was filed by Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay. The Walkers have two children.

REVOLUTIONARY SONS DENY SPONSORING ALL-NATIONS FETE

RADIO ADDRESS BRINGS SHARP REPLY

Steering Committee of Pageant Cites Heroism of Foreign Born in War of '76

Announcement that the state section of the Sons of the American Revolution was sponsoring the proposed all-nations festival to be held in Schenley Park, July 4, was denied today by Col. Franklin Blackstone, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter. Blackstone said State President W. H. Rogers had referred the whole matter to the Pittsburgh group. A meeting of its executive committee will pass on the question Monday.

Following criticism of the festival as "old world fantasies" by John G. Toth in a radio address Wednesday, Josephine Naly, secretary of the steering committee of the festival, today gave out the following statement for the committee:

"Outstanding heroes of the Revolutionary War included such men as Von Steuben, Pulaski, Col. Michael Kovacs, Count Maurice Benyowsky, Lafayette and Kosciusko. It is their descendants who are making this festival possible in the interest of Americanization of all foreign born within our shores.

NAMES SPONSORS

"Organizations that are sponsoring the festival include the American Legion, American Citizenship League, state section of the Sons of the American Revolution, Civic Club of Allegheny County, Boy and Girl Scouts, Congress of Women's Clubs, Irene Kaufmann Settlement, Kingsley House, Sara Heinz House, Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., International Institute, Harriet Tubman Congress of Women, the City Bureau of Recreation, Rotary Club, Monarch Club, Lions Club, Co-operative Club, Exchange Club, Tuesday Musical Society, Oakland Board of Trade, Goodwill Industries, Parent-Teacher Association, Chamber of Commerce and the Stephen Foster Memorial Association."

BACKED BY LEGION

Attorney Emanuel Amdur, head of the Americanization committee of the American Legion, following yesterday's meeting at which the statement was prepared, said that his organization was back of the festival movement "100 per cent."

Col. Blackstone, in announcing his executive committee meeting for Monday, said:

"I have read the article in the Sun-Telegraph quoting the opinion of John G. Toth, whom I know to be one of Allegheny County's leaders in the patriotic development of good American citizenship among the Magyar and Hungarian races. His attitude would indicate a strong sentiment of opposition to the All-Nations Festival."

PRISONED GIRLS IN RIOT

DETROIT, June 24.—(AP.)—Police reserves were summoned to the juvenile detention home today to quell a disorder in which 90 girls between 14 and 17 years old fought for more than 15 minutes in the second floor dining room of the home.

The girls fought with table knives, dishes and other implements. Dresses were torn or jerked entirely off, hair was pulled and faces were scratched. The first policemen who entered the dining room also came out with scratches and bruises.

Four of the girls were taken to receiving hospital. The disorder started at a table at which seven girls were sitting, apparently over dissatisfaction with discipline.

Bebe Daniels, Mate Plan European Trip

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(AP.)—Bebe Daniels and her husband, Ben Lyon, film stars, yesterday obtained passports and said they would leave within a few days for Europe by way of New York. They said their trip will last three months.

royal family, the Minister of Interior and the chief of the police were seized and held at Throne Hall under guard.

The actual leaders of the revolt were not known.

Potter said it was rumored that a demand will be made for the establishment of a constitutional monarchy under the present king.

No opposition to the revolt was reported by Potter. Up until 2 p. m. he said the streets in Bangkok were quiet, but one officer was said to have been shot for refusal to join the movement.

MARTIAL LAW

Potter added that circulars were issued stating that martial law was established and that opposition would endanger the royal family.

Economic conditions have been considered serious in Siam for some time. On April 25 a large group of poverty-stricken farmers presented petition to the government demanding loans.

In an effort to balance the budget heavy taxes were imposed on salaries and land, which were reported to the State Department to have caused much distress.

From April 4 to 8 Siam celebrated the 150th anniversary of the Chaki dynasty in Bangkok. At that time there were no indications of trouble.

ABSOLUTE MONARCHY

Siam, in the native tongue is Thai, which means land of the free, but it is an absolute monarchy and King Prajadhipok, who recently visited the United States, is the supreme power of the land.

King Prajadhipok spent some time in the United States in the spring of 1931 and underwent an operation for cataract at White Plains, N. Y. With him were Queen Rambai, her parents, Prince and Princess Svasti, an uncle and aunt and several servants.

Prince Subba Svasti, brother of the queen, is in the United States now, having arrived this month to make a study of the American political system and of American police methods.

HUTTON FEARS TROUBLE IN BALM SUIT

Aimee Won't Pay, He Insists; Girl Tells of Mixing Salad And Kisses at Bungalow

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—"Smiling" David Hutton was worried today about the possible outcome of Myrtle Hazel Joan St. Pierre's heart balm suit against him.

Hutton, husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist of Angelus Temple, declared:

"I don't know what I'll use for money if she happens to win.

"I haven't been making any money lately, and it's a cinch Aimee isn't going to pay her off."

Hutton's statements were made after a torrid court session in which Miss St. Pierre described in detail how Hutton had wooed her on a divan in her Hollywood bungalow.

Myrtle and Dave mixed salad and kisses frequently, she testified, and admitted that she had kissed Dave at the same time he had kissed her.

Meanwhile mystery surrounded the summoning to court of Victor McLaglen, the film star, and Pietro Gentile, opera singer, as defense witnesses for Hutton.

Gentile greeted Miss St. Pierre in the courtroom with the words:

"I kiss your hand, madame."

He did, and Miss St. Pierre exclaimed:

"Oh, Mr. Gentile, isn't it just terrible? Every man I ever knew in my entire life is being called by—by—that man. I think it's simply outrageous to bother you."

Miss St. Pierre denied there was anything irregular in the nightly visits to her Hollywood bungalow of Edgar Eben, a handsome radio entertainer.

WOMEN RALLY AT EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Ceremony Follows Immense Mass Meeting of Men; Children's Day Tomorrow

DUBLIN, June 24.—(AP.)—Overshadowing all else on the program of the Eucharistic Congress today was the mass meeting of women to be held this evening in Phoenix Park.

For the thousands of women attending the congress it marked the climax of their special activities and, except for a difference in hymns and sermons, was a counterpart of last night's mass meeting of men. Except for the clergy, only women attended.

The service included singing by a picked choir of 500 voices. Presiding was the papal legate, Cardinal Lauri.

CHILDREN'S DAY

During the day the sectional and national meetings continued in halls and this morning a solemn pontifical high mass was celebrated in the pro-cathedral.

Tomorrow will be children's day. At noon the children will assemble in Phoenix Park for a meeting similar to that of their parents.

U. S. PRELATE TALKS

Archbishop Glennon, of St. Louis, speaking in English, said:

"Other nations have lost the faith and kept their cathedrals, but Ireland has lost her cathedrals but kept her faith."

Cardinal Lauri said he brought a "very special and a great benediction" from the Pope, continuing:

"I welcome this opportunity to speak to you and to congratulate you on the wonderful demonstration of faith and of profound and genuine piety and devotion which you have given during this congress."

AVIATRIX FREE ON BOND

MIAMI, Fla., June 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Jessie M. Keith Miller, Australian aviatrix, was released on $1,000 bond last night pending a hearing on charges of entering the country illegally. She had been in jail since last night.

The aviatrix, a figure in the mysterious fatal shooting of Haden Clarke, her fiance, at her home April 21, was to be given a preliminary hearing today. She is charged with illegal entrance into the United States from Nassau May 27, 1931.

She said she entered by boat, but that her entrance was prior to exhaustion of the number of British subjects allowed to come into the country.

Mrs. Keith Miller was placed in a cell on the floor above that of Capt. W. N. Lancaster, her flying

White Says Dry Law Cannot Be Enforced

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—(AP.)—Supplementing his recent pronouncement in favor of "good beer" and submission of an amendment to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, Gov. George White today declared that federal prohibition cannot be enforced "at the present time."

His statement was issued, the Governor said, because of numerous inquiries as to his belief in the possibility of enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment.

Pope to Listen in On Dublin Congress

VATICAN CITY, June 24.—(AP.)—Pope Pius XI will listen in on the radio broadcast of the closing ceremonies of the Eucharistic Congress at Dublin next Sunday afternoon. He will hear the broadcast in his private library.

Whether the Pope will speak during the program depends upon the success of experiments now being conducted between Dublin and the Vatican station.

Cardinal Hayes Christens Baby

MARKET PROBE OFF TILL FALL

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—No more hearings in the Senate stock market investigation are planned until next fall unless unforseen developments arise.

Chairman Norbeck, of the Banking Committee, told newspapermen today this had been agreed to by his group. Investigators, however, will be kept at work during the summer amassing data.

Norbeck said that if any evidence should be produced that requires immediate action he could call a meeting to determine whether a hearing was necessary.

GIRL DROWNED, SISTER SAVED

Lucy Toth, 10, of Acmetonia, was drowned while her sister was heroically rescued by a companion after they were seized by cramps while swimming in the Allegheny River at Cheswick last night.

The drowned girl's sister, Margaret, 15, was pulled to shore by Margaret Sabo, 16, while scores of companions looked on.

WOMAN BEATEN, SEEK ROBBER

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., June 24.—State police and constables scoured the woods near Atlasburg today for one of two men alleged to have beaten and robbed Mrs. Paul Sellers, of Atlasburg, yesterday, of $3,000, a 50 per cent dividend from a closed Pittsburgh bank.

One of the suspects was captured last night when he emerged from the woods for food and to escape by train, after a battle with Deputy Constable John Kucera. Lodged in the Burgettstown lockup, he said he was Nick Bacbak and said he was a Communist of Proctor, W. Va. He told police, they said, that his fugitive accomplice had the money.

Mrs. Sellers, suffering from bruises and head lacerations, was confined to her bed today.

A friend of Mrs. Sellers' husband was welcomed Wednesday, police said they learned, and stayed overnight. After the husband went to work yesterday, a stranger appeared. He and the supposed friend attacked Mrs. Sellers, she related, robbed her of her money, then fled into the woods.

A police dog was sent into the woods by neighbors. Two shots were heard later and the dog did not return.

6 BARRYMORES TOGETHER

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(AP.)—The Barrymores, members of the noted theatrical family, found themselves together in one city today for the first time in as far back as most of them could remember.

The talented circle was completed with the arrival here of Ethel Barrymore Colt, vivacious, brown-haired daughter of Ethel Barrymore. She was met by her mother and two brothers, Samuel Colt and John Drew Colt.

Disclosing that she expected to appear in a picture which will feature Ethel Barrymore and her brothers, John and Lionel, she remarked:

"I'm looking forward with anticipation to this talkie experience."

But more than pictures, she said she was anxious to see her uncle and aunt, John and Dolores (Costello) Barrymore, and their newborn son, John Blythe Barrymore. Then she would like a close up of Jackie Cooper, juvenile star. She said he was her film favorite.

'Trains' in Icebox For Atlantic Flight

LONDON, June 24.—(AP.)—J. D. M. Gray, Toronto aviator, who plans to fly from here to New York next month by way of Greenland, sat in a refrigeration chamber for half an hour today in preparation for the cold weather he expects to meet.

It was a test of a specially made cold-resisting flying suit. He emerged from the ordeal "as warm as toast," he said.

Dry Agent Slays Prisoner's Brother

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 24.—(AP.)—A federal prohibition agent shot Tom McComb in the back and killed him today as they engaged in a dispute over the arrest of his brother for selling liquor.

Agent S. R. Posey said his fellow officer, W. L. Hutto, fired the shot as McComb aimed a rifle at them.

QUIZ SUSPECT IN MURDER

LOGAN, W. Va., June 24.—(AP.)—Investigation of the death of Mrs. Mamie Thurman, wife of a city patrolman, shifted today to Williamson, where Clarence Stephenson, Negro odd-jobs man, held in connection with the slaying, was taken after threats of violence had been made in Logan.

State troopers who moved Stephenson from Logan remained in Williamson to question him again about the slaying which was discovered when the woman's body, her throat slashed and two bullet holes in her head, was found on a mountain top.

Harry Robertson, president of the Logan City Commission, meanwhile was held in the Logan County Jail. Both he and Stephenson, his odd-jobs man, deny all knowledge of the slaying.

Robertson, questioned by state police, admitted having known Mrs. Thurman for several years. Mrs. Robertson, also questioned, corroborated his statements and said he was at home asleep at 11 o'clock on Tuesday night. Physicians said Mrs. Thurman had been killed in the early hours of Wednesday morning.

State troopers meanwhile said they were working a number of theories, one of which, if it develops, would completely exonerate Robertson. Trooper Hampton, handling that phase of the case, declined to say toward whom the lead pointed.

Wife of Walker Gaining Rapidly

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. James J. Walker, wife of the Mayor, was reported today to be continuing in excellent condition at the Polyclinic Hospital, where she underwent an operation on Tuesday.

Wilson, Methodist Leader, Faces Crash Trial

PORTLAND, Ore., June 24.—(AP.)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, is scheduled to go to trial here next week on a charge of reckless driving.

A warrant for Dr. Wilson's arrest has been on file at police headquarters since February 23, two days after his motor car collided with another driven by L. F. Welch, of Portland.

Although Dr. Wilson is in Portland, police had not served the warrant. They explained Bert E. Haney, Dr. Wilson's attorney, had agreed to a trial Tuesday or Wednesday.

Welch charged the dry leader was speeding and failed to stop before entering a through street. Dr. Wilson said:

"If the driver of the other car had been as strong a believer in prohibition as I am the accident wouldn't have happened."

SMITH LEADER HINTS 'DEAL' FOR HARMONY

the century-old two-thirds rule every other candidate and his supporters. The anti-Roosevelt people — whether they favored Smith, Garner, Ritchie, Baker, Byrd, White, Traylor, Reed or Murray—all had the same answer to the Roosevelt proposal.

In effect, it was this:

"To abrogate the rule is all right for the future. But you can't change the rules during the game to benefit one particular player."

As the day wore on, the division in the Roosevelt camp itself over the proposal became more and more apparent.

The southern leaders, most of whom are for Roosevelt, were particularly dismayed. For the two-thirds rule has been maintained for 100 years for their especial benefit—to prevent the North from shoving down the South's throat some unacceptable candidate.

GLASS OPPOSITION

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, for example, declared the abolition proposal "outrageous" and his friends said he would take the platform and lead the fight against it, if proposed.

Gov. Murray, of Oklahoma, went so far as to voice openly threats of a third party movement if the two-thirds rule is abrogated.

John F. Curry, the boss of Tammany Hall, who finds himself in the embarrassing position of having two New York candidates for the nomination on his hands, served notice on the Roosevelt managers he would fight their proposal "to the last ditch."

Forces back of Speaker John N. Garner's candidacy rallied grimly in opposition to changing the two-thirds rule.

Representative Sam Rayburn, of Texas, national campaign manager for Garner, arrived in Chicago and promptly issued a blast characterizing the latest Roosevelt strategy as the move of a "desperate" man. He said Roosevelt would lose respect if he undertook to upset a time-honored rule solely because in no other way could he obtain the Democratic nomination.

Al Smith himself had nothing to say—for the present. But late today he plans to speak his mind freely about the move proposed by the Rooseveltians.

ROOSEVELT CLAIM

The Roosevelt managers claim they can see 691, but they frankly do not know where the balance up to the 700 mark could be obtained.

The anti-Roosevelt forces concede Roosevelt only 570, which is just eight short of a majority.

The Smith-Hague statement was as spectacular as any ever issued on the eve of a national convention. Rival candidates have been bitter in other conventions, but even at Madison Square Garden Smith did not proclaim from the housetops that his rival, William Gibbs McAdoo, could not be elected if nominated.

Mayor Hague said he deemed it his duty as vice chairman of the party and as the leader of New Jersey to call to the attention of the delegates and leaders "that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, if nominated, has no chance of winning at the election in November."

Although there was no mention of Smith's elimination in this contest, his manager's statement amounted virtually to an offer to withdraw if Roosevelt would, for it said:

"I have always been an advocate of former Gov. Smith. Entirely aside from my personal desire to see him given the leadership, I want to call attention to the fact that there is a wealth of material before the convention—Gov. Ritchie, Melvin A. Traylor, John N. Garner, Newton D. Baker, Gov. White, Gov. Murray, Senator Reed, Gov. Byrd and Senator Lewis, any one of whom meets the present situation better than the Governor of New York."

That sounded about as plainly as anything could the Smith toesin:

"Anybody but Roosevelt."

ROOSEVELT "WEAKNESS"

"It is commonly known that Republican leaders are hoping that Gov. Roosevelt will be the nominee and some have publicly expressed themselves that their only hope for victory lies in the possibility of Roosevelt becoming the candidate."

One result of the opposition's bold move was to renew the wavering determination of the Roosevelt leaders to stage a fight to put Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, their man, in the permanent chairmanship instead of Jouett Shouse, who was agreed upon months ago.

Meanwhile, steps were being taken to obtain general co-ordination of the anti-Roosevelt forces so as to present a united front in the convention.

M'ADOO VISITS SMITH

And William G. McAdoo called on Al Smith.

The two great antagonists of 1924 spent some time together last night, and later McAdoo called at every headquarters on candidates' row in the Congress Hotel, bespeaking the qualifications of Speaker John Garner, of Texas.

McAdoo was reticent about what he and Smith talked about. He admitted that they "jollied each other" about Madison Square Garden, and added:

"It's too bad if you can't have a sense of humor after eight years."

The Congress Hotel, headquarters for all the candidates, became the traditional bedlam. Into this picture at noon marched the biggest candidatorial display the assembling convention has yet seen—the entrance of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland.

Other candidates and near-candidates rather eased into town, but the Ritchie specials from Baltimore brought hundreds of loyal Ritchie supporters, and they marched from the station to the blare of band music.

Speedy Dry Repeal Urged by Darrow, Ex-Senator Reed

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, June 24.—Former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, a contestant for the Democratic presidential nomination, and Clarence Darrow, the famous criminal lawyer, agreed today that Congress should immediately repeal the Volstead act, turning prohibition instantly back to the states under the Eighteenth Amendment.

Reed and Darrow disclosed their views on the prohibition problem to each other during an unofficial debate in the former senator's apartment here. An International News Service reporter was a member of the privileged audience.

The "debate" follows:

REED—Clarence, that was a great speech you made against prohibition down in Kansas City. I'll never forget one pungent statement you made.

DARROW—What was that, Senator?

REED—You said there was one thing about prohibition you liked—it couldn't be enforced.

DARROW—Well, it can't be. What do you think we ought to do about it?

REED—We Democrats ought to adopt a straight-forward, plain-spoken platform demanding repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. We ought to preface that with a statement about the economic losses of prohibition and the crime it has saddled upon our people and declare it a failure. Because it never should have been placed in the Constitution. We should revert to state's rights and let the states control the problem. We should demand, courageously, its repeal.

DARROW (slowly)—But, Senator, neither you nor I will live to see it repealed. It will take 40 or 50 years to get it out of the Constitution.

REED—I don't agree with you, Clarence. I think it's possible. I used to think as you do, but the other night I sat down and marked a map as I thought the states would vote on repeal. I put down all the irremedially dry states and all the irremedially wet states and all those I thought were wet. And Clarence, I had only 14 dry states.

DARROW—You'd only need two more, then, to repeal it.

REED—Yes, sir. Now, if the Democratic party would adopt a real plank, advocating state's rights as the party has upheld that doctrine from the days of Thomas Jefferson down to adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment—putting the problem of liquor control directly back in the hands of the states, where it should have remained—we can repeal it.

DARROW—I hope you're right. But what can we do in the meantime? I have advocated immediate repeal of the Volstead Act. If Congress did that and refused to appropriate any more money for enforcement, the problem would be returned to the states under the Eighteenth Amendment, which gives the states concurrent power to enforce prohibition. The federal government isn't really under any obligation to enforce a law that can't be enforced.

REED—Of course, if Congress repealed the Volstead act, the whole question of the control of liquor would be thrown back into the laps of the states. And if Congress were to levy an excise tax upon liquor, which it defined as non-intoxicating, the government would receive a tremendous revenue. At the same time, the states could secure a revenue by adopting a scheme, which might be described as a negative enforcement act. To illustrate, the state of Iowa passed a law imposing a fine of $1,000 every 90 days for violations of the prohibition law. It was imposed only once in 90 days. That sort of law did not recognize the validity of the business. It was thought by the prohibitionists that it did not make the government a partner in crime. Nevertheless, it permitted regulation of the liquor traffic and secured revenue to the state.

DARROW—That's exactly what I had in mind.

What Chief Democratic Candidates Are Doing

Associated Press.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Still at Albany, he considers a rush journey to Chicago in case of prolonged deadlock; he conferred last night with John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who will place him in nomination.

ALFRED E. SMITH

After burying hatchet with old rival, William G. McAdoo, he received many callers at his Chicago headquarters including "Chief Man of the Heavens," Chippewa Indian, who gave him a five-pound bass, fresh from the stream.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE

Huge crowd cheered Maryland governor as he started from Baltimore for convention with party of nearly 300. Shortly before a hotel elevator dropped five floors with him, but he was unhurt.

JOHN N. GARNER

The Speaker of the House sat in the Senate and saw the Wagner $2,300,000,000 relief bill approved. It goes to conference for compromise with a relief bill sponsored by the speaker.

NEWTON D. BAKER

Arriving home in Cleveland after a trip to the East, he wouldn't say much about Chicago. "I am hoping for wisdom and candor there, but I have no long distance advice to give them."

HARRY F. BYRD

At Chicago, he urged the convention pledge itself for an international conference on tariffs. "Prosperity can only be captured by an adjustment of tariffs to encourage other nations to buy and consume our exportable surplus."

JAMES A. REED

The former Senator from Missouri was the center of a large crowd at his headquarters. Asked who was Missouri's "second choice" for the nomination, he said: "I did not know there was a second choice so far as Missouri is concerned."

WILLIAM H. MURRAY

Oklahoma's Governor, "Alfalfa Bill," protested a move to delay naming of a platform sub-committee, saying it was to allow the arrival of congressmen. "We had an example last week of a convention dominated by postmasters."

Norris Asks Action On Veteran Interest

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—A motion was entered in the Senate today by Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, to discharge the Finance Committee from further consideration of a bill to reduce from 5 to 3 per cent the interest on loans on World War adjusted service compensation certificates. Norris said:

"It seems to me that under the existing law the government is making a profit on money loaned to veterans."

Red Cross May Aid In Mexican Disaster

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—The Red Cross today cabled the Mexican Red Cross for a report on the need for outside assistance in caring for the injured and homeless in the Colima, Mexico earthquake and tidal wave disaster.

If the situation warrants, the American Red Cross will consider the question of giving some aid. The tidal wave is estimated to have killed 100.

Ex-Senator Allen Hoover Press Agent

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—At the request of President Hoover, Henry J. Allen, former senator from Kansas, today agreed to handle publicity for the Republican presidential campaign.

Ban Against Smith Urged by Delegates

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 24.—(AP.)—J. M. Gardenhire, a delegate to the Democratic national convention, announced today that he would sponsor a resolution to deny former Gov. Alfred E. Smith the privilages of the convention floor and to declare him ineligible as a presidential candidate, "unless and until he assures the delegates that he will abide by the action of the convention and support its nominee."

3-Story Fall Kills Hospital Patient

Marko Casanovic, 59, of Wall, died early today in McKeesport Hospital of injuries suffered when he plunged from a third-floor fire escape at the hospital yesterday, according to a Coroner's report.

Casanovic, said by relatives to have been suffering from melancholia for the last two years, had been a patient at the hospital since June 10.

DEMOCRATS GET THIRD PARTY THREAT

Chicago University Head Demands 'Unequivocal' Stand on Economic Issues

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP.)—A threat of a third party was voiced before the Democratic resolutions committee today by Robert M. Hutchins, president of Chicago University, in demanding a "clear, unequivocal stand on economic issues."

The youthful university president told the Democratic platform makers that the "Republican platform brings no response in our hearts" and asserted unless the Democrats "meet the issues a third party will arise."

The Democrats enthusiastically applauded Hutchins, who had only two minutes in which to speak. Senator Hull, of Tennessee, and William G. McAdoo, of California, joined in obtaining an extension of time for his remarks.

'GREAT OPPORTUNITY'

Hutchins asserted:

"The Democratic party has its greatest opportunity in this election if it asserts itself on the economic issues in clear and unequivocal terms. If it does not, a third party will surely arise. There is a youth movement in the United States and it is prepared to assert itself politically."

The college professor opened the second day of hearings before the resolutions committee, which will go into closed sessions on Monday to write the 1932 Democratic platform.

The platform makers are trying to set a record. Their goal is the shortest and most concise declaration of party principles ever written. In this they have the full support of Gov. Roosevelt.

A tentative limit of 1,000 words has been imposed by the Roosevelt leaders.

Senator Dill, of Washington, one of the Roosevelt spokesmen, believes the controversial prohibition plank can be written in 25 words. It will call for submission to the states of the questions of retention, modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The forces of Gov. Roosevelt control the resolutions as well as all other committees of the Democratic convention. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, the chairman of the resolutions committee, is the choice of the Roosevelt forces. Senator Wheeler, of Montana, a Roosevelt leader, has joined the platform-making committee.

A fight is in prospect to commit the party to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, led by such Democratic stalwarts as Alfred E. Smith and James A. Reed, of Missouri, the leading contenders of the 1928 nomination.

However, the dominant Roosevelt forces are determined to confine the prohibition declaration to a simple pronouncement in favor of submitting to the states the question of retaining or repealing the Eighteenth Amendment.

BARUCH URGES JOBLESS AID

CHICAGO, June 24.—(INS.)—An appeal to the Democratic National Convention to adopt a platform assuring "emergency legislation" for relief of unemployment, agricultural and repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was made today by Bernard M. Baruch, noted New York financier and Democratic leader.

Declaring the country needs only "wisdom and courage" to lift it out of the present period of economic adversity, Baruch said:

"I hope the Democratic convention will give consideration to what I call emergent legislation, which we can enact without reference to the rest of the world and which will bring greater comfort and peace of mind to our people.

"This means legislation assuring more employment, a sound and honest fiscal and monetary policy, relief of agriculture and relief from the ills of prohibition."

Cheswick Firemen Award Fete Prizes

A street aparade and presentation of cups to winning teams closed the three-day annual celebration of Cheswick volunteer firemen last night.

Cups were awarded Greentree Borough for the most men in line; Vandergrift, best apparatus; Arnold, best music, and to Yukon for the company coming the greatest distance. Honorable mention was given to Natrona for appearance and music. Twenty-two companies participated.

Walker Hires Private Car, Takes Dog to Convention

NEW YORK, June 24.—(INS.)—Because Admiral Togo simply couldn't miss the Democratic national convention, Mayor James J. Walker was speeding Chicagoward today in a private railroad car.

Admiral Togo is the Mayor's dog, and dogs, not even those of the Mayor, are not permitted on ordinary passenger cars.

Before leaving, the Mayor explained he himself was paying for the private car, an allusion to testimony before the recent Hofstadter legislative committee when Samuel Seabury, chief counsel, brought out one of the Mayor's trips to Europe was paid for by others.

Walker was in high good humor, and between remarks on the political situation, quipped with those about him.

A photographer asked him to step away from the crowd, as he couldn't see very well. The Mayor wisecracked:

"Did he say I can't Sea-bury well?"

Told the city would be without a mayor since both Walker and Aldermanic President McKee, who otherwise would be acting mayor, will be at the convention, Walker retorted:

"What a swell break for the city."

WALL ST. LISTS FAVORITES

NEW YORK, June 24.—(INS.)—Wall street's preference for presidential candidates on the Democratic ticket was reported to have been forwarded today to leaders gathered at Chicago for the party's forthcoming convention following a meeting here of financiers.

The meeting was presided over by the head of one of the largest banks in Wall street and closely identified with the J. P. Morgan interests. Two Morgan partners were mentioned as sitting on the board of directors of this bank.

The group was reported as having registered its approval of the following candidates, in this order:

Newton D. Baker, Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Ritchie, and Owen D. Young.

The meeting was said to have taken the attitude that Wall street did not want Herbert Hoover in the White House for another term but would rather see him re-elected than have Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt win the election.

Of the 160 financiers reported attending the meeting, only 20 indicated any willingness to support financially a Democratic ticket headed by New York's Governor.

ROOSEVELT MAY GO TO CHICAGO

ALBANY, N. Y., June 24.—(INS.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt had nothing to say today about the assertion in Chicago of Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, leader of the "Stop-Roosevelt" forces, that the New York Governor was certain of defeat if nominated.

Guernsey T. Cross, the Governor's secretary and a member of his cabinet, said:

"The Governor intends to stand on his record. He is letting his friends at the Chicago convention fight for him. He is going to let the other fellows do all the talking."

Meanwhile, belief grew that Gov. Roosevelt may yet make a dramatic last-minute appearance on the Democratic battleground at Chicago.

The Governor several times has stated he does not intend to go and that his time will be taken up all next week with state business. Despite these assertions it has been noted that he has not definitely closed the door on the possibility of his going and that he still has a suite of rooms reserved in the Congress Hotel.

Many Signatures On Campaign Hats Of Garner

CHICAGO, June 24.—(INS.)—The hat that's going to be tossed into the ring in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, made its appearance in Chicago today in the possession of Ed Hickey, of San Antonio.

It is a 20-gallon affair with a two-foot brim spread, and bears the signatures of 432 members of the House of Representatives.

A subsidiary hat contains the autographs of all 96 Senators and every member of President Hoover's Cabinet. Hickey said:

"I'm going to toss them in after all the other hats have been thrown. They will cover the others."

HOOVER, AIDES STUDY FUNDS

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—The White House today stirred with political activity as President Hoover and his aides engaged in a busy round of conferences.

Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, conferred with White House aides and reported later he felt more optimistic over the collection of campaign funds.

Nutt said he believed the prohibition plank would aid in obtaining contributions.

He mentioned Silas Strawn, of Chicago, as possible chairman for campaign contributions in Illinois, and said he hoped to obtain the services of Jeremiah Milbank, of New York, as Eastern treasurer.

Little effort will be made to collect funds in the South, he said.

MURRAY HINTS THIRD PARTY

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP.)—Gov. William H. Murray predicted today that if the Roosevelt forces succeeded in abolishing the two-thirds rule a third party would be set up.

The Oklahoma Governor, one of the numerous contenders for the presidential nomination, said:

"If the Roosevelt people are successful in abrogating the two-thirds rule it will mean that Gov. Roosevelt cannot be elected.

"Why, we will destroy our party if we destroy the two-thirds rule. We might as well nominate poor old Champ Clark, long since dead. He was deserving of nomination.

"If the Roosevelt people put it over it will mean a third party."

HOOVER'S VOTE DRIVE STARTS

DETROIT, June 24.—(INS.)—Calling upon the American people to disregard "passion and prejudice, which must not enter into a contest the outcome of which may effect our destiny, not only for the next four years, but for a score or more," Senator L. J. Dickinson (Rep.), of Iowa, today fired the opening gun in the campaign to re-elect President Hoover.

Dickinson, keynoter at the Republican national convention which re-nominated the President and Vice President Charles Curtis, addressed the annual convention of the National Credit Men's Association. He devoted his entire message to plea for a Republican victory at the polls next November.

He prefaced his remarks by declaring the Republican party will fight the presidential campaign on its record and "make its appeal to reason."

No allusion was made in the Senator's speech to the prohibition question or to the plank his party adopted at Chicago on the Eighteenth Amendment.

DRYS, FOES LIST BATTLE COSTS

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(INS.)—More than $100,000 has been spent by organized drys thus far in their campaign to keep the Republican and Democratic parties dry, it was disclosed today in campaign fund reports filed with the clerk of the House.

Reports of the major anti-dry organizations, also filed with the clerk, revealed they are being heavily financed in their general program of converting the nation to the repeal of the prohibition amendment.

The campaign of organized drys to keep the big political parties on the water wagon was waged chiefly by the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, which campaigned among delegates, and the Allied Forces for Prohibition, which conducted a nation-wide drive for the avowed purpose of influencing the parties.

Roosevelt Partner Leaves for Chicago

NEW YORK, June 24.—(INS.)—Unusual importance is attached to the departure today for Chicago of Basil O'Connor, law partner and confidential adviser of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. O'Connor will board the Twentieth Century at Albany with the last instructions of Gov. Roosevelt for the management of his pre-convention campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Choice of Hollywood's Famous Stars

WE STARTED with an idea, and ended with a value that will be the sensation of the season! We thought of the Pacific Coast and its bathing beauties, and sought out the manufacturer whose product is the favorite of the movie stars out there. We told him our plan, and he jumped at the opportunity to introduce Hollywood fashions to Pittsburgh in a big way. He gave us 1200 suits, of his most attractive and best selling styles, for the event, at a price which is about half the usual figure.

The whole 1200 should go in a day at this price! Even if you never go near the water, see them tomorrow, if only to learn what Hollywood wears when it swims!

CHARITY GROUP APPOINTS PHILLIPS

Pittsburgher Will Head State Committee on Unemployment Problem

Announcement that Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the operating committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Fund, had been named chairman of the state committee on Unemployment Emergency, of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, was made by Dr. Charles R. Frazier, of Philadelphia, president of the association.

At the same time Dr. Frazier explained plans of the association in caring for charitable cases in the state.

PLANS ANNOUNCED

He said:

"The committee will stand squarely behind any constructive relief plans which come before the special session of the Legislature, and serve as a clearing house of information and a co-ordinating medium through which to develop and correlate the various programs now being proposed, not only for the special session, but also for the 'long haul' in social and economic planning which lies ahead of the state and country for an indefinite time.

"The Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania with a membership of more than 6,300, is undertaking the responsibilities in the unemployment emergency only after being urged to do so by numerous groups throughout the state who feel that since the Public Charities Association is state-wide and non-partisan, it affords a neutral ground, where all shades of conflicting opinions may be reconciled eventually in a widespread effort to meet the common crisis. The selection of Mr. Phillips as chairman of the State Committee means that the program and experience of Allegheny County will be made available to the entire state of Pennsylvania.

SIX COMMITTEES

"The committee will function through six sub-committees: Information and Publicity, Sources of Public Income, Strategy, Legislation, Methods of Administration and Promotion of Employment.

"The association for some time has been gathering facts and figures regarding the unemployment situation throughout the state which prove that conditions are growing steadily worse. During the past two weeks the association petitioned the Governor urging the calling of a special session of the Legislature to restore the recent drastic cut in the Mothers' Assistance Fund appropriation and to pass legislation to alleviate the unemployment situation."

MODERN BEACH FOR CHICAGO

The management of the World's Fair announced today it had taken over 1400 feet of the beach opposite the Downtown section. Work of erecting 700 bathing cubicles or cabanas will begin at once. The cubicles, or individual dressing rooms, will be of modernistic design, gayly painted like those used in Berlin.

A standard Olympic pool will be constructed with grandstands on three sides. It will be so equipped that it can be filled with salt water at will. Plans also call for a Swedish gymnastic green, a casino and restaurant, an indoor ice skating rink and an outdoor roller skating rink.

Pharmaceutical Body Picks Pittsburgher

Penna. Operators Attend Oil Meet

OIL CITY, Pa., June 24.—Operators and refiners of the entire Northwestern Pennsylvania district today attended the ninth annual meeting of Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association in Emery Hotel at Bradford. Fayette B. Dow was to address the meeting on the present economic situation confronting the Pennsylvania oil fields.

House Asks Hoover To Set 'Pulaski Day'

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(INS.)—The President is asked to designate October 11 as "Pulaski Day," in a resolution favorably reported yesterday by the House Judiciary Committee.

The date is the anniversary of the death of the Polish hero who was mortaly wounded in the siege of Savannah.

Auto, Truck Crash; Woman in Hospital

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 24.—Mrs. Lena Lones, 50, of Williamsport, is in City Hospital as a result of a crash between her auto and a truck. Her husband, George Lones, 52, driver of the auto, was cut and bruised.

Escaped Canary Prefers Cage to Freedom

WELLSBURG, W. Va., June 24.—The canary bird of Emery Jamieson today was safely back in its own cage because it chose to surrender freedom.

When Mr. Jamieson prepared to leave on a vacation trip, he placed the bird and its cage in his automobile to be taken to the home of friends. The cage door opened and the bird escaped. A short time later, the bird was contentedly singing from the inside of a roll of fence wiring at a nearby gasoline station, evidently mistaking it for his cage.

Rochester Bridge Work Authorized

ROCHESTER, Pa., June 24.—The American Bridge Company and Mike Manella, Pittsburgh contractor, have been authorized by the State Highway Department to begin construction of the Rochester-Bridgewater Bridge.

The bridge company bid $99,199.50 for the steel superstructure and Manella bid $82,964.97 for piers and other concrete work. Both companies promised to employ local labor.

STATE G.A.R. ENDS MEET

HARRISBURG, June 24.—(AP.)—A bare hundred of the remaining members of the Pennsylvania department of the Grand Army of the Republic are homeward bound from their sixty-sixth annual state encampment, after approving a proposal to make a national shrine of the Prince of Peace Church at Gettysburg.

Organizations affiliated with the Grand Army also ended their encampments, after discussing proposals for a more unified organization.

The Sons of Veterans elected G. Thomas Leisenring, of Allentown, as department commander for the coming year, and R. M. Ashcom, of Johnstown, junior vice commander.

The auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans indorsed Mrs. Gertrude Sautter, of Pittsburgh, as the Pennsylvania candidate for national president at the convention in Springfield, Ill., in September and elected Mrs. Daisy Heidman, of Johnstown, department president.

DAVIS TO AID MOOSE FETE

United States Senator James J. Davis will come to Pittsburgh Tuesday night to join with members of Pittsburgh Lodge No. 46, Loyal Order of Moose, in celebrating the twenty-fourth anniversary of their lodge. The meetings will be held in Moose Temple, where there will be speaking and vaudeville acts. Secretary J. H. Forrest is in charge of the celebration, which will be known as "Old Timers' Night."

Senator Davis will come here from Mooseheart, Ill., where he presided yesterday at the commencement exercises for the graduating class of 107 boys and girls in the Mooseheart High School. Among those who graduated this year are two from the Pittsburgh district, Miss Josephine Matuszak and Thomas Hendry.

DRIVER BLAMED IN KEARCHER AUTO CRASH

Inquest Witness Recalls Accident Over Which County Has Paid $25,000

Passing another automobile just before entering the curve from which they skidded over an embankment into a pole was revealed today as an underlying cause of the mishap for which Allegheny County has paid $25,000 to former Alderman John P. Kearcher, his family and friends. The cause of the accident was testified to by Ellsworth C. Bante, 221 Birmingham avenue, Carrick, at the Coroner's inquest nearly four years ago. Bante was an eye-witness.

Bante, driving along the Broughton-Library road in the same direction as the Kearchers, reiterated his inquest testimony in an interview. He said:

"The Kearcher car passed me on the road made slippery by rain, just before entering the curve. When the driver tried to straighten out, his car skidded and went over the bank."

Frank Flore, driver of the car, has disappeared since the accident. Suit was brought against him by the occupants of the car which included Mr. and Mrs. Kearcher and two children, Bertha and Eleanor; and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Dunlevy and their small child, Joseph, Jr. The Dunlevy child was killed and the other occupants injured.

Flore was insured by the Atlas Casualty Company, which has since been absorbed by the Public Indemnity Company, of Newark, N. J. Clayton D. Roche, of the Standard Insurance Company, Keystone Building, investigated the case. At the time blame for the accident was placed upon Flore. Suit was filed on January 21, 1930.

WCAE Artists Give Open-Air Broadcast Downtown Tomorrow Morning

Two broadcasts, marking the opening of Frank & Seder's Department Buyers' Sale tomorrow morning, are scheduled on WCAE tonight and tomorrow.

Three well-known Pittsburgh radio stars and a group of speakers prominent in the city's business circles unite to present an open-air broadcast from the lobby of the store and from the WCAE studios tomorrow morning from 8:30 to 9.

Stars heard during the program are Mrs. Laura Walters, Pittsburgh's "Girl With the Sweetest Voice;" Stephanie Diamond, hailed as the "most beautiful girl on the air," and Cyrilla Tuite, songster of the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air.

Special stages and broadcasting units have been installed to carry the program from the store lobby through WCAE.

Preliminary to tomorrow's gala program, Pete Weldy and his Band, well known to the WCAE audience, presents a half-hour of popular dance tunes from WCAE tonight at 6:30.

A newly discovered incident in the history of Orville and Wilbur Wright, whose first known flight was made on December 17, 1903, after Samuel Langley's attempts to fly an "aerodrome" capable of carrying a man had met with repeated failure and ridicule from the press and public, is re-enacted during the "Today and Yesterday" dramatization on WJAS tonight at 8:30.

Tunes of today and yesterday by Don Voorhees and his orchestra, Mabel Jackson, soprano, and the quartet, comprise the musical portion of the program.

Abraham Oseroff, superintendent of the Montefiore Hospital of the Pittsburgh Conference, speaks on "Hospitals and the Sick Poor" from the studios of KDKA today at 5:10.

Program Pointers

Zinaida Nicolina, Russian beauty and gypsy soprano, is presented as guest artist with Nat Shilkret's Ensemble during the Week-end Hour over a Columbia network, including WJAS, tonight at 9. Included on her program are "Two Guitars" and "Clavelitos." She is the exiled daughter of a Russian jurist and has been acclaimed in Paris, Istanbul, Greenwich Village and on the New York musical stage. The Salon Orchestra, a male quartet and Thelma Kessler, youthful soprano, also are heard.

Mme. Nicolina

Bobby Andrews, blind Pittsburgh tenor, entertains with a quarter hour of semi-classical and light opera selections at 4:15 from KDKA.

Developments of the second day's play in the national open golf tournament are discussed by Alex J. Morrison, golf authority, on WCAE at 5:45.

Gus Van revives "Mandy and Me" over WJAS at 9:45.

Dinner dance music by "Sleepy" Hall and his orchestra, playing from the Willows, is scheduled on WWSW at 8:30. A late dance program is heard at 11.

Mexican folk songs and popular current German musical comedy selections are featured by an orchestra directed by Leon Belasco and Tito Guizar, Mexican tenor, on WJAS at 9:30. Singing in German, Belasco offers "Frag Nicht Warum."

Aden Lowther, tenor, accompanied by Ruth Ley, pianist, presents a program of semi-classical songs including Cadman's "I Hear a Thrush at Eve" and Kountz' "The Sleigh" from KDKA at 4:45.

* * *

Fan Fare

The words to Leon Belasco's tunes are frequently provided by blonde Vivian Janice . . . She was "discovered" by Ben Bernie in Chicago, and recently made her debut as a featured vocalist . . . Within a few weeks, Freddie Rich will present his Columbians Orchestra in a symphonic jazz work of his own composition, called "Penthouse 54" . . . The family of Mr. and Mrs. John Carey numbers one more member . . . A 9¼-pound boy was born June 15 . . . The proud father is service supervisor at NBC. . . Frank Luther's boyhood ambition was to be a baseball pitcher.

Miss Janice

Jack Benny usually wears a straw hat while dispensing wisecracks before the microphone . . . When Cab Calloway sings "Minnie the Moocher's Wedding Day," he wears a Chinese mandarin's cloak . . . Jessica Dragonette is always in glistening evening dress when she broadcasts . . . Walter Winchell pushes his derby back on his head.

Ward Wilson has slipped an engagement ring on the finger of Betty Lou Webb . . . She does impersonations in vaudeville, and they met five weeks ago backstage in a Paterson (N. J.) theater.

Arthur Tracy's 16-cylinder specially-built car was used during the Amelia Earhart Putnam parade in New York recently.

WABASH TU BE HEARING ENDS

There will be no further hearings on the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company's tunnel and bridge which the County Commissioners are considering for a traffic artery to the South Hills.

After a hearing yesterday in which C. C. Hamilton, real estate man, told the Commissioners that the railroad cannot deliver a clear title to the property, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern made a motion that no further hearings be held.

Hamilton asked F. E. Taplin, president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway, if any agreements had been made by his company to pay commissions on the deal. Taplin denied that there have been.

A letter from J. F. Haley, whom Hamilton represented in submitting a lower price than the $3,000,000, asked for the railroad property, was read at the meeting. Haley's letter stated:

"I assumed too hastily the authority which later it develops I am not supposed to have, and must now withdraw, as also must Mr. Hamilton, as I have thoroughly explained the matter to him and he has agreed to do so."

Seek Dead Man's Son And Daughter Here

A son and daughter of William King, 53, who is dead at Hawthorne, N. J., are being sought by the Missing Persons Bureau. The police chief of the New Jersey town asked that they be notified, but gave no details of the death.

WALKER, STEEL PIONEER, DIES

John Walker, 88, the last of four pioneer industrialists who blazed the way for Pittsburgh's greatness in the iron and steel industry, was dead today at his home at 1231 Western avenue.

In 1872, Mr. Walker helped organize Wilson, Walker & Co., which acquired the lower mill of the Union Mills Company. Later the company purchased the business and patents of Berry, Courtney & Wilson and began manufacturing bar iron, railroad car forgings and plates. Fourteen years later this company was sold to Carnegie, Phipps & Co., a forerunner of the Carnegie Steel Company. Mr. Walker was made chairman, a position he held until 1888, when he retired. He was also a director of the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

Born in old Allegheny, Mr. Walker was a son of Hay and Janet Charters Walker. He was married in 1871 to Amelia Phipps, who died in 1887. In 1888 he married Susan Cooper. He leaves his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Davis; a son, Henry Phipps Walker, and five grandchildren, Mrs. Frances Graham Holister, Miss Amelia Phipps Davis, John Walker III, Daniel Henry Wallace, Jr., and Frank Ward Severance, Jr.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. from the home, followed by burial in Highwood Cemetery.

Poale Zedeck Club Picnic on Sunday

The Poale Zedeck Men's Club will hold a picnic at the Dells, at Wildwood on Sunday afternoon. Dancing, entertainment and athletic contests have been arranged by Jerome A. Edlis, who is in charge of arrangements.

Men . . Your Last Chance!

Emergency SALE of FINTEX CLOTHES

Men of Pittsburgh —We Thank You

The purpose of our Emergency Sale was to dispose of an overproduction stock of 25,000 garments. We felt confident that you men of Pittsburgh would realize what it meant to buy Fintex Clothes at sale prices.

We were confident, yes. But your response was overwhelming. You have done your share in helping the Fintex Corporation to clean up this surplus and WE THANK YOU! BUT—we announced that the sale would continue thru until tomorrow night — AND IT SHALL!

In order to keep faith with you and show our appreciation, our stocks are being replenished. 2,000 more garments have been rushed from our factory —brand new merchandise— and tomorrow we offer it to you at Emergency Sale prices. Monday this same clothing goes back to the established prices of $18.50 for the Fintex Standard Quality and $23.50 for the Fintex DeLuxe Quality.

The first—and probably the last sale in Fintex history will have ended—a great success, thanks to you!

Men, tomorrow is your one last chance to buy Fintex Clothes at less than the actual cost of manufacture. Tomorrow is your last chance to stock your wardrobe with quality clothing at enormous savings. Grasp this opportunity without fail! This sale was planned to dispose of a surplus production of 25,000 garments and our goal has been reached. But we're continuing the Emergency Sale as we promised, even though we've had to rush fresh new merchandise from the factory for the last day. DON'T MISS IT, MEN!

PLEA FOR FLINN ROAD MADE

A petition was presented to Gov. Pinchot for completion of the improvement of Route No. 8, Pittsburgh to Butler, yesterday by Mayor Joseph Heineman, of Butler, vice president, and Eugene L. Connelly, secretary of the William Flinn Highway Association. A letter from Joseph C. Trees, citing reasons for an early start on the work was given the Governor by Mayor Heineman, while Connelly presented one from Ralph E. Flinn, son of the late Senator Flinn, in whose memory the highway was named, and another from George R. Hann.

Gov. Pinchot said he was greatly interested in the completion of the route, but that the state has no funds for it now. He suggested, that if the Warner bill becomes law, it might provide funds which would be available.

After the hearing Mayor Heineman went to Washington to confer with Senators Reed and Davis.

JAPS BOMBING MAH TROOPS

HARBIN, June 24.—(INS.)—Japanese aviators today began a heavy aerial attack upon the forces of Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, dropping scores of bombs in an attempt to capture the Manchukuo government's most antagonizing rebel leader.

It was rumored here that Gen. Mah, a Chinese commander who for a time professed allegiance to the independent Manchurian government, had been wounded or killed in heavy bombing of the village of Li Chin-Tun, between Hailun and Koshan. It was known 100 were killed in the attack, one of several in the northern districts.

The Japanese were strengthening their drive against the northern rebels by rushing cavalry forces to the front. One unit, direct from Japan, arrived at Tsitshar and rushed on to Koshan to join in the effort to capture Gen. Mah.

The rebel leader has been pushing southward lately, supposedly in an attempt to obtain food and ammunition from the Heilung-Kiang army of the Manchukuo government, which was reported to be wavering in allegiance to the young state.

STRIKERS BEAT W. VA. MINERS

WHEELING, W. Va., June 24.—(AP.)—Two Negroes, seeking work, were rescued from a crowd of 50 striking miners, on picket duty at Powhatan, O., late last night, Sheriff Howard Duff, Belmont County, said.

The men, Joe Hill, of Georgia, and George Caldwell, of Ohio, started for the mine to ask for jobs when they were stopped by the pickets and informed there was no work to be had, the sheriff stated.

As the men retreated the crowd followed and commenced beating Hill and Caldwell. Deputies and National Guardsmen arrested six of the mob.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 24.—(AP.)—Voting unanimously for a strike at all non union mines in northern West Virginia, June 28, unless their wage demands are met, members of the United Mine Workers of America last night concluded a convention of District 31.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 24.—(AP.)—Scale committees of Illinois miners and operators were unable to reach an agreement on Gov. Emmerson's request that they refer wage negotiations to a board of arbitration here yesterday. Instead, both sides asked more time to study the proposal.

Stolen Auto Safe After Hill Plunge

An automobile, stolen last night from Penn avenue and Main street, was found in Junction Hollow today, undamaged after, police say, it apparently had been abandoned and left to run down a 200-foot hill. The car was reported stolen by W. R. Lee Barton, 4610 Friendship avenue.

VET INSURANCE BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—Awaiting President Hoover's approval at the White House is legislation to enable 97,000 World War veterans to renew their five-year government insurance contracts for an equal period without further medical examinations.

On such renewals, premium rates would be fixed according to the attained age, which the Veterans' Bureau estimates will average 41 years in July, when most of these five-year policies expire.

Present law demands that upon expiration, these policies may be converted to higher-premium policies.

HOSPITAL FUND CUT TOPIC OF RADIO TALK

Montefiore Head to Discuss Crisis Threatened by Reduction in State Aid

Abraham Oseroff, superintendent of the Montefiore Hospital, will discuss the proposed cut of 25 per cent in state aid to hospitals in a radio address over station KDKA at 5:10 o'clock this evening.

Oseroff has stated that shrinkage of hospital revenue already has carried scores of hospitals to the brink of financial disaster and if the cut is put into effect it will seriously impair the service hospitals give destitute sick.

Oseroff is vice president of the Hospital Conference of Pittsburgh which includes 36 hospitals in the district. The hospital heads and board members see no solution except to urge the cut be restored at the earliest possible moment.

FUNERAL RITES FOR PASTOR

Funeral services for the Rev. John K. Howe, retired Methodist Episcopal minister, who died yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of his sister-in-law, Miss Charlotte Bennett, 912 Lock street, Tarentum.

Mr. Howe, who was a son of the late Preston and Jane Kennedy Howe, was 65 and was graduated from Allegheny College in 1893. His first pastorates included Evans City, Harmony, Zelienople and Mt. Pleasant. The last few years were spent on a ranch in Wyoming.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Mollie Bennett Howe, and four children, Mrs. Stanley Peters, of Wilkinsburg; Miss Frances Howe, at home; Mrs. A. S. Lawson, of Arch street, in whose home he died, and Dr. W. Preston Howe, of Chicago. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. J. W. Rutherford, of Green Springs, Fla., and a brother, Charles P. Howe, of Tarentum. The interment will be made in Prospect Cemetery, Tarentum.

ROTARY STUDIES ECONOMICS

SEATTLE, June 24.—(AP.)—Formal expression of its attitude on world economic conditions held the attention of closing sessions of Rotary International's twenty-third annual convention here today. The 1933 meeting will be in Boston.

Consideration of the resolution on economic conditions was postponed from yesterday, when numerous amendments were offered to the resolution committee's draft.

A substitute resolution declares "Rotarians favor every effort to effect an equitable solution of the serious economic problems confronting the people of the world, which effort may be made by governments, either individually or in concert."

The substitute carries no mention of "influencing" governments, which aroused objection yesterday.

Misquoted Prof. Corrects His Slang

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP.)—What Prof. Manly Phelps was reported to have said when he caught a 35-pound fish up in Wisconsin, was all a mistake, he says.

Students at Phelps Institute of Speech have been chuckling over reports that the professor said:

"Ain't it a honey."

But the professor explained yesterday that he didn't say that at all. What he said, he insisted, was:

"Oh, boy, what a honey!"

He made the correction by way of guarding his reputation as a grammarian.

"Every month I was in bed two or three days. I was a nervous wreck and could hardly do my work. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done wonders for me. I have two little boys, three and five years old. They used to get on my nerves but now their noise doesn't bother me at all. I never felt better in my life."

Mrs. Jennie M. Massey
137 Summer St., Lynn, Mass.

"I could write volumes on what your Vegetable Compound has done for me after being in poor health for nine years. After my daughter was born I was a physical wreck. Three bottles of the Vegetable Compound restored me to health. I took it again before my second child was born and had a very easy confinement. I am now over fifty and do all the work for a small rooming house."

Mrs. Allan Martin

SAVES INJURED WIFE FROM FIRE

A woman suffering from a fractured leg was rescued from her home at 427 College avenue yesterday afternoon, when fire started on the roof of the two-story frame house.

Her husband, John Baring, who was working in the yard when the fire started, rushed into the house and carried his wife from a room on the second floor to safety. Battalion Chief Fred S. Beckett said that the fire was caused by a spark from a passing locomotive. The roof of the house was destroyed.

Dancers Pass 424 Hour Mark at Noon

The marathon dance now in progress at Motor Square will have passed the 424 hour mark at noon today. Fourteen couples and three girl soloists remained in the contest. One of the girls Marie Mahoney has been dancing alone for the past nine days.

PEABODY HIGH CLASS PICKS DEMOCRAT

Graduates Name Roosevelt As Winner Over Hoover; Will Rogers, Cantor Even

The next president of the United States will be a Democrat, according to opinion of Peabody High School graduates who assumed a worldly role yesterday in answering a questionnaire.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York and Democratic contender for the presidential nomination, was chosen as our next president, with a backing of 142 votes. President Hoover, Republican nominee, received only 67 votes. Most of the remaining votes were given to the two other Democrats who are being pushed strongly for the Democratic selection. John N. Garner, speaker of the House, and one-time Texas cowboy, roped in 54 votes receiving three less votes than Hoover. Alfred E. Smith had 36 backers and Will Rogers and Eddie Cantor got 11 votes apiece.

Asked what they would do if $5,000 was suddenly given to them, some graduates said they would use it for traveling, a car and for education. Others would be more conservative and bank it or buy bonds. Several girls agreed with Elizabeth Lochrie, who said she would buy a horse, three complete riding habits and a dog.

The class accorded Thelma Beerbower, 6901 Thomas boulevard, the title of most beautiful. Second honors went to Marian Stennett, 586 East End avenue. Ralph Hamilton, football and track star, was picked as the best athlete, while Justus Belville was second choice.

The 311 graduates proved that the high school student of today is vitamin-conscious and that the much malingned spinach is a tasty dish. Supposing that they were stranded on a desert island which abounded in but two foods—spinach and pie, the Peabody graduates chose spinach. Only 23 said that they would live on pie.

LOOT BREWERY OWNED BY U. S.

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP.)—A lesson in government may be coming to five men who are alleged to have made the mistake of taking things from a brewery which is owned by the United States government.

Undoubtedly they had heard that the government demolishes illegal breweries.

But the one they are accused of getting into isn't illegal. It is making no beer. The government merely got it because nobody else seemed to want it. It used to belong to Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake. But they went to prison because they didn't pay their income taxes. A lien was placed on the brewery for $150,000, and the government took it for that amount when it was placed on sale and nobody else would pay that much.

The five, John Cook, Robert Touman, Don Fedoulik, Tom Baleski and Peter Backowski, are to be arraigned before a United United States Commissioner. They are charged with embezzlement and purloining and stealing equipment from the brewery. They face the possibility of sentences of five years each and fines of $5,000.

Pittsburgh Woman G. A. R. Chaplain

Mrs. Anna Kresge, Bethlehem, was named to head the group Wednesday. Officers elected yesterday were: Senior Vice President, Mrs. Emma Wallace, Brookville; junior vice president, Mrs. Julia Golden, Ridgway; secretary, Mrs. Laura Willow, Johnsonburg; treasurer, Mrs. Jane Lewis, Scranton; chaplain, Mrs. Ella Woodrow, Pittsburgh.

$2,000,000 Will Contestants Lose

WHEELING, W. Va., June 24.—Circuit Court Judge J. Harold Brennen today refused to set aside the jury verdict and grant a new trial in the settlement of the estate of the late James L. Hawley, millionaire real estate operator, in which proponents of a will executed in 1930 sought to have a will executed by Hawley in 1903 declared void. Approximately $2,000,000 is involved in the estate.

Trolley Line to Halt Pottsville Service

The extensive trolley system, representing a $1,000,000 investment of the Pensylvania Power & Light Company is to be abondoned under a ruling of the Public Service Commission to permit work on several new paving contracts to proceed at once.

Bank Cashier Found On His Farm Shot

DOVER, Del., June 24.—(INS.)—George C. Davis, 33, cashier of the Camden-Delaware branch of the Baltimore Trust Co. here, was found shot to death in a field on his farm yesterday by a farmhand. Near his body lay a revolver.

PEACE IN THIRD WARD SHOWN IN COURT

Aldermanic Feud Ended, Pleas to Drop Vote Cases Result; Two to Be Tried

The political hatchet has been buried after the hot aldermanic contest at the last election in the Third Ward, it was evidenced in Criminal Court when prosecutors in several cases asked that the suits be nol prossed.

Judge William H. McNaugher, after listening to stories of prosecutors being unable to find their witnesses, and other excuses, refused to nol. pros. two of the cases, and ordered them tried. He held up another case after directing that county detectives search for the witnesses. Three cases were nolle prossed, but in two the judge placed the costs on the prosecutors.

TRIALS ORDERED

The cases ordered tried were against Arthur Dula and W. H. Smith, election officers in the Seventh District of the Third Ward, and A. B. Poole, vote machine inspector, charged with permitting people to vote who had not made affidavit that they required assistance; and a case against Lillian Wilson for electioneering in the polls of the Tenth District of the ward.

The case against Tony Siano, charged with giving $5 to a voter to vote for James Lavoula for constable, was ordered investigated by the detectives.

The case against Joseph Forte, Vincent Vonzacci and Giovanni Adams, charged with driving a McGovern watcher from the polls of the Third District, was nolle prossed for insufficient evidence.

COSTS ON PROSECUTOR

A case against Walter Rainey, charged with intimidating voters in the Seventh District, was nolle prossed, and the costs placed on the prosecutor, W. H. Smith.

The costs were put on Rainey when a case he had brought against Policeman William Burke, charging assault and battery, was nolle prossed. Rainey said he had hit the policeman and that the latter had only shoved him.

DEMOLAY WILL HONOR 12

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 24.—Twelve young men from the Pittsburgh section will be honored here tonight with the award of the Legion of Honor of the Associated Chapters of the Order of Demolay of Pennsylvania. The Legion of Honor service will be held in connection with the annual state conclave of the organization.

Among those to receive the honor are Charles P. Farr, of Braddock; John A. Eckel and James A. Watchom, of Crafton; C. A. Leeming and Harry C. Lewis, of Homestead; Joseph C. Black, of Jeannette; Victor E. Geltz and Charles P. Schmidt, of McKeesport; Jay J. Haggerty, Ross A. Lahr, Thomas A. Hook and Moreland Ernest, all of Pittsburgh.

The annual election of officers and selection of a place to entertain the 1933 convention were to be the principal items of business today. Neal R. Anderson, of Pittsburgh, state junior councilor, presided yesterday at the annual memorial service for deceased members of the order. A total of 270 delegates from various sections of the state were registered.

Hardware Dealers To Honor President

Hugh F. McKnight, recently elected president of the National Retail Hardware Association at the convention in West Baden, Ind., will be honor guest at the June meeting of the Pittsburgh Retail Hardware Association in the Roosevelt Hotel tonight. While the convention was being held in the Indiana city Mr. McKnight was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in Chicago. He is president of the Samuel McKnight Hardware Company, of Pittsburgh.

Church of God Opens Meet at Somerset

SOMERSET, Pa., June 24.—One thousand delegates were registered for sessions of the annual state convention of the Church of God, being held in Edgewood Grove here. The annual state Young People's Service was one of the features of last night's session. The Rev. H. Flowers, of Portland, Me., national overseer of the church, presided. The session will close Sunday.

Duquesne to Close Summer Class Lists

Registration for the annual summer session at Duquesne University will close tomorrow. Classes will begin Monday morning in seven schools of the university. Only the school of pharmacy and the law school do not have summer work. Classes will be conducted on the uptown campus and in the downtown division of the university in the Fitzsimons Building, Fourth avenue.

Franklin Y Cuts Dormitory Rentals

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 24.—Franklin's Y. M. C. A. directors slashed dormitory rents, minimum being fixed at $2.50 per week instead of $3.50 and $4. Overnight rents will be 50 and 75 cents, against $1 formerly.

Boy 'Hitching' Ride On Trolley Killed

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 24.—Leopold Ogrodny, 16, Filbert schoolboy, was killed when he jumped or fell from a trolley car on which he was "hitching" a ride.

DIVORCE OVER COOKING CLASH

His wife refused to cook for him and frequented roadhouses, and when he asked her late one night where she had been, she threw a coffee percolater at him, O. J. MacMurray, 1905 Yale street, North Side, testified in Common Pleas Court. Judge S. J. Snee granted him a divorce from Gertrude MacMurray. MacMurray said she once told him if he did not like her conduct she would poison him. They lived in Florence avenue, Avalon.

On the grounds that her husband was convicted of a felony, Roberta McCrea Prophater, 325 Reifert street, asked a divorce from Sidney C. Prophater in Common Pleas Court. The suit said Prophater was recently sentenced to the county jail for three and one-half to seven years.

Divorces were granted John M. Hysmith from Mary Hysmith, James G. Reed from Henrietta Reed, Martha Snellbaugh from Henry Snellbaugh, Eleanor Kropf from Frank J. Kropf, Bernice Klugh from William T. Klugh, Fern Rhodes from Ruby S. Rhodes, Elizabeth Corbett from Earl Corbett.

Minnie Koehler, 1728 Howard street, asked a divorce from Lawrence Koehler, of Howard street, for cruelty and indignities.

16 Street Showers Placed in Service

The first allotment of street showers to be inaugurated this summer were in operation in scattered sections of the city today. This allotment includes 16 of the 70 provided for by the Department of Public Works, and connected by the city firemen. Those placed in service today are located as follows:

Forty-fourth and Calvin streets; Commerce street; Library road, Overbrook; Baldwin street, Thirty-first Ward; Shiloh street; Holmes and McCandless streets; Lemington avenue; Penn avenue and Fifteenth street; Arch street and Lane way; Aliquippa and Wallace streets; Winterburn street; Fulton and Goebel streets; Lafayette and Federal street extension; Madison avenue and Phineas street; Lowrie and Branch streets, and Liberty avenue and Twenty-third street.

Pymatuning Lake To Exceed Conneaut

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 24.—A lake larger than Conneaut or Chautauqua will be created by construction of the Pymatuning Dam, R. L. Rodgers, of Erie, told Franklin business men at dinner. The present swamp, he said, like Conneaut, Edinboro and Stoneboro lakes, is a relic of the waters which in prehistoric times covered the section. The dam is to be 2,400 feet long and over 50 feet in the highest place. The shore line of 70 miles will be lined with state game preserves and public recreation grounds.

IMPRISONMENT HELD WASTE OF MONEY

Association Leader Here Advocates Extension of The Probation System

Declaring prison confinement in many cases is an unwarranted waste of public funds, Attorney Cornelius D. Scully, of Pittsburgh, of the National Probation Association, stated municipal, state and national budgets can be cut and crime and delinquency reduced through a more effective use of probation.

Explaining the work of the National Probation Association, Scully stated:

"Crime causes an annual loss to the nation of from $6,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000. Neither of these figures, however, take into account what the army of crime would mean to the productive forces of the nation if those engaged in criminal activities or confined in penal institutions were useful, economic producers in their communities.

"The Wickersham Report on Penal Institutions, Probation and Parole, contains evidence gathered from cities and states in our country and strongly supports the value of probation in saving both men and money.

SEES WASTE OF MONEY

"The cost of probation as against imprisonment for individuals is so much lower that when it is possible to avoid a prison sentence without injury to society, it should be done. Prison confinement in many cases is an unwarranted waste of public funds.

"The present period of depression has brought before our judges, for the first time, many discouraged human beings. Some are wearied with attempts to gain an honest living, some dangerously embittered against society. A large number of these first offenders could be readjusted and made into self-respecting, useful citizens if given the right assistance.

"Many of the courts in the United States now need more probation officers and better trained workers. The situation in Pittsburgh is duplicated in hundreds of cities. Our judges realize the present dangers and their helplessness unless given adequate probation staffs.

INDORSED BY JUDGES

"The National Probation Association, whose appeal I am sponsoring in this city, has undertaken to develop the probation system in the United States so that courts everywhere may meet the present conditions. This association has the indorsement of our leading judges because of its practical service to the courts.

"I have no hesitation in asking for funds for this work even in this crisis for the reason that the extension of probation work has a very positive effect in the reduction of governmental expenditure."

IOWAN NAMED TO DAWES POST

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—An Iowa publisher—Gardner Cowles, Sr.—was appointed yesterday by President Hoover to fill the vacancy on the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Cowles, publisher of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, will fill the Republican vacancy left at the directors' table by the resignation of Charles G. Dawes.

As the appointment was forwarded to the Senate, however, it was said at the White House that Dawes' additional post as president of the corporation would not yet be filled.

Tax Transcribers Make Many Errors

So many errors have been made in the transcribing room of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes that they are to be tabulated, and those responsible for them will not be considered for reinstatement when the Commissioners re-employ transcribers.

A motion to this effect was made by Commissioner Charles C. McGovern after a number of exemptions and refunds were passed on at the Commissioners' meeting yesterday.

Mother Ill, Haines Rushes to Bedside

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. George A. Haines, mother of William Haines, film actor, is in a serious condition in a hospital, while her son and a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Stone, are en route from the East to be at her bedside. Haines, who was nearing Boston, cut short his trip on being informed of his mother's illness and started for Los Angeles.

Guilty in Fraud, Boy Must Work on Ranch

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 24.—(AP.)—Bartow Crocker, Jr., 18, student at a private school here, and son of a Massachusetts paper manufacturer, must work five years on a ranch for obtaining a motor car under false pretenses. He was paroled to R. P. Lamont, Jr., son of the Secretary of Commerce, who has a ranch at Larkspur, Col.

Cannon's Son Enters Congressional Race

SUMMER COURT SYSTEM TO BE TRIED AGAIN

Prisoners Held on Trivial Charges Will Be Freed Pending Trial in Fall

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today announced that prisoners sent to jail on trivial charges during July and August will be released on their own recognizance with the approval of the judges, who will sit in Summer Court during those months.

This arrangement was entered into between the judges and Park who discussed the subject, since no jury trials will be held in Criminal Court during July and August.

SYSTEM SUCCESS

The purpose of this move is to keep the jail as free of prisoners as possible during the heated period. Park said:

"Each individual case must stand on its own merits as far as the release of a prisoner is concerned. We partly tried out this plan last summer. Not one person released them failed to keep his word to appear in court in September. Of course, only those cases of a more or less trivial nature will be considered under such procedure."

Release of prisoners on their own recognizance, it was stated, will not apply to those accused of the higher misdemeanor charges or with felonies.

THURSDAY PLEA DAY

District Attorney Park has arranged to recall the June grand jury on July 20 to clean up the jail calendar. By this arrangement, in co-operation with the judges, he believes the jail will be kept fairly free of cases.

Thursday will be plea day in Criminal Court and if it is necessary to hold court oftener in that tribunal, it was indicated that it will be done. Common Pleas Court will be in session Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Judge Frank P. Patterson will preside in Criminal Court in July and with him will be Judge W. Heber Dithrich. Judge George V. Moore will preside in August. His associate will be Judge Thomas M. Marshall.

ADMITS HOAX IN KIDNAPING

LANCASTER, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—Malcolm A. Reiser, jewelry store manager, confessed last night, police said, that he concocted a story of a kidnaping plot against his five-year-old son.

Previously police announced that a "local business man" was being detained for investigation in connection with the case that has occupied their attention since June 11.

Reiser was arrested on charges of false pretense, sending threatening letters through the mail, and misinforming the police department.

Lincoln Bodyguard, Scientist, Dies at 93

His activities varied from soldier-of-fortune in the Civil War and bodyguard to President Lincoln to collecting specimens throughout the world for scientific institutions. He was a native of Saxony and a graduate of Leipsic University. He had been associated with the Rothschild Museum in London, the American Academy of Science and the Smithsonian Institution.

W. Va. Welfare Head Praised for Work

ELKINS, W. Va., June 24.—A boost for Calvert L. Estill as state welfare director came from Dr. B. I. Golden, superintendent of Davis Memorial Hospital and former president of the State Hospital Association. Following criticism of the welfare department by the West Virginia Medical Association, Dr. Golden sent Estill a message saying "there are many of us who believe you are admirably qualified and doing excellent work. Don't be disturbed by certain opinions."

Jury Deadlocked In Mute's Slaying

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—(AP.)—Trial of Norman D. Hunt, 59, deaf mute charged with murder for the slaying of Louis D. Coleman, 34, another deaf mute, over attentions paid Mrs. Hunt, ended last night in the discharge of a deadlocked jury.

Louisiana Defeats Dry Law Repeal

BATON ROUGE, La., June 24.—(AP.)—A bill by Representative Claude W. Duke, New Orleans, to repeal the Hood act, the state prohibition law, was defeated last night in the Louisiana House of Representatives, 51 to 36.

Farm Bureau Head's Son Killed by Train

CITY FILES SUIT FOR DEPOSIT

The City of Pittsburgh filed suit against the United States Casualty Company, a New York corporation, in Common Pleas Court, seeking to recover $45,709.85 on account of a city deposit of $100,000 in the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company at the time of the bank's failure September 26, 1931.

The suit indicated that the city will look for the remainder of its deposit to a number of corporate bonds delivered to the city by the bank as security for the deposit and having a market value June 26, 1931, of $148,000 and September, 1931, of $120,366.25. Interest of $698 accumulated at the time of closing at 2¾ per cent and 6 per cent interest since is asked by the suit. The amount claimed in the suit is 1000/2203 of the total deposit and interest, pro-rated on the double security of corporate bonds and the surety bond aggregating about $220,300.

Secretary of Banking W. D. Gordon, through his representative, once sought to have the city return the corporate bonds because of the security under the surety bond but the city refused to do so.

Denies Greek Beauty Invaded Monastery

PARIS, June 24.—(AP.)—The manager of Miss Alice Diplarakou, Greek beauty who as Miss Europe of 1930 toured the United States last year, said she did not visit the monastery of Mount Athos in Greece in men's clothing.

The manager, P. L. Weiller, issued a statement today denying reports from Athens that Miss Diplarakou and a girl companion had invaded the monastery, where everything female is forbidden, even to domestic animals.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 24.—State highway continuations in New Castle will not be repaved this year owing to the city's inability to provide money to match money alloited by the state, members of City Council intimated today to H. E. Kloss, district engineer. The allotment amounted to approximately $69,000.

SEEK TO VOID CITIZENSHIP

A suit was filed in Federal Court seeking cancellation of a certificate of naturalization granted Frank Kenkela, of Windber, in the Somerset County Court, August 4, 1930, because of alleged fraudulent statements made before naturalization examiners in his examination for citizenship.

The bill of complaint avers Kenkela did not reveal that he had a child born in Italy in 1920 or disclose making a trip to Italy in 1927 and 1928. He was alleged, according to the complaint, to have admitted being the parent of only three children, all born in this country. In his examination he was said to have claimed he lived continuously in the United States from September 2, 1923.

Judge Nelson McVicar directed that a subpena be issued on the defendant to appear in court December 1, to answer the bill of complaint.

HEARING ON CITY PENSIONS SET

The Chamber of Commerce which recently in a public statement assailed Pittsburgh's pension system, and characterized its operation as unsound, has been granted a hearing by City Council for Wednesday morning, to present its criticisms.

The chamber charged that payments under the present operating plan have grown from $360,000 to $800,000 per annum in six years, and demands that an immediate investigation of the fund be authorized by council.

In the chamber's public report of the committee's investigation, it was predicted that unless a new system be devised that would place the pension funds on a sound actuarial basis, payments to the fund would amount to $2,000,000 per annum in another six years.

WALLINGFORD, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances Morgan Swain, of Wallingford, and Dr. John A. Miller, director of the Sproul Observatory at Swarthmore College, were married yesterday. Mrs. Swain was the widow of Joseph Swain, who was president of Swarthmore.

Two Vesta Mines Lose Safety Records

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 24.—Records of operating 69 and 67 days without a lost time accident at the No. 4 and No. 5 mines of the Vesta Coal Company, have been shattered by minor accidents. At the Vesta No. 6 mine, no lost time mishaps have occurred since April 7. The three mines employ 1,700 workmen.

Dead Lion in Square Frightens Parisians

PARIS, June 24.—(AP.)—Passersby quaked when they saw Caesar, a huge lion, crouching in the Place de la Concorde. Police approached with revolvers drawn, only to find Caesar was dead. He died in a traveling circus. Not knowing what to do with the carcass, his master had dumped it in the historic square.

Benedum Cites Hopes for Penna. Going Democratic

By MARK SHIELDS

CHICAGO, June 24.—The Democratic enthusiasm of M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh oil man, runs to a high level of optimistic belief that Pennsylvania in the November election may go for a Democratic candidate for President.

Mr. Shields

All tradition and the precedents are against such an overturn, yet there are certain contingencies which Mr. Benedum advances that are worth consideration, whether or not they induce conviction. Mr. Benedum, a Democrat, is back in the party fold after a defection four years ago to President Hoover, and truly repentant for the aid he gave the great engineer.

Four years ago Pennsylvania went for Hoover by approximately a million votes. To overturn a majority such as that seems an insurmountable task, but here is the way Mr. Benedum argues:

In round numbers there are a million men out of work in Pennsylvania. Heretofore they have voted under the guidance of employers and foremen of the plants, mills and industries from which they drew their wages. Now they have no wages, reason sufficient to turn them against the party in power, whether or not that party is responsible for their plight.

Furthermore, they are not under the supervision of any employing bosses because they haven't any employment. Their votes will not be controlled.

* * *

Pinchot Is Hoover Foe; Mellons Likely Cool

Additionally, Gov. Pinchot will not back the Republican candidate. It may be that he will not bolt the party, but his job-holding following either will give the Democratic candidate—particularly if it is Roosevelt—some assistance, or just watch the parade go by.

Either alternative is a gain for the Democrat, particularly in view of the fact that the Hoover majority in the state four years ago was assisted by the energetic direction of the state administration, then headed by John S. Fisher, a real Hoover enthusiast.

Continuing, how enthusiastic will the Mellon family be for Mr. Hoover? There no longer can be much denial that when A. W. Mellon was made ambassador to England, the motive behind the Hoover action was a desire to get the Pittsburgher out of the Treasury Department and open the way for the elevation of Ogden Mills. Fair words passd between Mr. Mellon and the President, but they were transparent to any one who read between the lines.

It may be argued that since this episode James Francis Burke and Senator David A. Reed have been energetic workers in the Hoover vineyard, and that both are loyal to Mr. Mellon. That may sound like contradictory reasoning but it hangs together at many points.

The political guile of Mr. Burke and the oratorical ability of Senator Reed will be of little avail to Mr. Hoover if there is not forthcoming some Mellon money for the campaign chest. That is not apt to happen in any substantial amount. In view of the attitude of bankers and financiers toward invesiments these days it is not probable that such canny bankers as the Mellons will care to make much of an investment on the political collateral now available for deposit by the administration.

At any rate, and in view of all of these considerations, Mr. Benedum believes there is a chance that Pennsylvania will go Democratic.

I believe Mr. Benedum will not find his hopes fulfilled, so far as Pennsylvania is concerned, but his attitude is indicative of a trend of though spreading throughout the state.

Roosevelt Opponents Spending Freely

If the various candidates now based in Chicago have not some pretty firm foundation for a belief that Roosevelt will not be nominated, and that the prize will fall to one of their number, then they are wasting a lot of money. It costs money to maintain such layouts as they have in practically every hotel in Chicago.

It doesn't seem reasonable that this money would be gambled on a hopeless chance, and this is one of the reasons a great many observers here think that, while Roosevelt has a tremendous edge, he eventually will fade from the picture. One argument being used against him is that he is the Democrat the Republicans most want nominated, being the one they contend they would have the fairest chance to defeat.

No longer is there a doubt that the Roosevelt people are in the humor to crash the archaic and undemocratic two-thirds rule. A bit of strategy which was exclusively reported in the Sun-Telegraph last Sunday, lies behind the effort to make Senator Thomas J. Walsh, pro-Roosevelt, rather than Jouett Shouse pro-Smith and Raskob, the permanent chairman of the convention.

The Georgia delegation, it is understood, has been instructed to vote against the two-thirds rule. Despite the fact that the South has always desired this protection, Georgians feel that it would be unfair to use it to beat Roosevelt. If the rule is not abrogated at the start of the convention it cannot be changed later.

A majority of Pennsylvanians, it seems assured, would vote to do away with the rule.

BOARD THANKS TEACHERS FOR PAY ACTION

Acceptance of 10 Pct. Cut Praised; Three Principals Appointed; Hilty Fired

Approval of the Public Board of Education was set upon the appointments of Superintendent Ben G. Graham for next term with a resolution of appreciation for the teachers action in voluntarily accepting a 10 per cent salary reduction for 1932.

Three new principals were included in the list of appointments; one principal was transferred, two vocational directors, one supervisor, one vice principal, three principals, and 24 teachers were retired and 11 teachers resigned. The name of Marlin E. Hilty, recently arrested on complaint of his wife and the parents of a girl student, was cited by Supt. Graham for dismissal. The report was adopted unanimously.

NEW PRINCIPALS

The new principals named are:

E. R. Carson, teacher South Hills High School, to principal of the Andrews and Woolslair schools; Audley B. McClure, vice principal South Hills High to principal, Thaddeus Stevens and Westlake schools, and Charlotte C. Truby, teacher Peabody High School, to principal Humboldt School. Carrie D. Patterson, principal of Knox School, was transferred to the Linden School.

A commendation of the teachers acceptance of a voluntary salary reduction, which is to take the form of a 10 per cent return, was read by Marcus Aaron, president of the board. The board adopted the statement as a resolution. It read in part:

"Never in all history, so far as we know, in private business or public life, has so large a group, of its own free will and accord, without a single person dissenting, voluntarily and in such spirit given up 10 per cent of its wage protected either by law or contract. Here we have an object lesson in community co-operation which should never be forgotten and for which we are deeply grateful."

BIDS APPROVED

Bids for summer work in schools were approved over the objections of representatives of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America and the Employing Painters' Association of Allegheny County. The organizations representatives opposed three successful bidders on school contracts.

These firms are the Walter F. Hartman Company, E. J. Sullivan & Sons, and the Snively Joseph Company.

Unanimous appreciation was expressed to Dr. George Gerwig and the Frick Foundation Commission, which presented a check for $25,000 of the $50,000 fund to feed undernourished children during the vacation period.

NEARLY 2,000 JOIN FORCES IN CAPITAL

Many Reminders of Scenes Here in Evidence; Shacks Built for Extended Stay

By JOHN P. COWAN

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Western Pennsylvania's contingent in the "Bonus Army" encamped on the flatlands in the shadow of the National Capitol approximates 2,000 men. Of this number probably 90 per cent are from Allegheny County.

These figures, which may be surprising in their magnitude in the estimate of the people of Pittsburgh, are vouched for by James J. McGrath, commander of the warriors of '32 enlisted from "the Strip." In substantiation of his claim Commander McGrath points to squads of recruits which are treking in daily from Allegheny County and its environs.

A stroll through the camp has many reminders of familiar landmarks in Pittsburgh. Here a sign improvised on the side of a rude shack proclaims that the thoroughfare is "Penn avenue," and the intersection mud trail is "Butler street."

ALL GROUPS IN CAMP

Over yonder is the South Side—and its overflowing with South Siders. Ex-members of the 28th and 80th Divisions are here along with former engineers, M. P.'s, "rough guys" from the tank corps, old Regulars and Marines. And ex-Navy men are here aplenty.

Because the North Side is not so largely represented in the "army" here, several of the men from north of the Allegheny have taken up their bivouac with the South Side bunch. The explanation given is that one of the best cooks in the camp, David Tucker, prepares the South Siders' stew.

Equal in numbers with the veterans from the "Strip" and the South Side are those from East Liberty, and they are not lagging in comparison with their Pittsburgh neighbors in providing themselves with comfortable quarters. In this billet are many members of Trees-Carlisle Post, No. 166, Veterans of Foreign Wars, G. M. Huey is commander-in-chief.

80TH HEADQUARTERS

Up on the hill is the headquarters of the Eightieth Division. These Blue Ridgers are quartered in squad tents and the surroundings have a suggestion of a regular army camp on inspection day. Many of their comrades of the Eightieth are down on the flats and thither the headquarters company longs to be also.

McKeesport's recruiting detail has been busy since the first of the Tube City contingent arrived two weeks ago and new arrivals are reporting almost daily. Many are members of Post No. 514, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jeannette, Irwin, Ambridge, Johnstown, Butler and towns in the Beaver Valley are represented by ever-increasing squads of bonus advocates.

TWO WEST BRADDOCK AVE. BUILDINGS DESTROYED BY EXPLOSION TODAY . . . . NOTICE BEDS, RADIATORS IN WRECKAGE

VETS MAKE NEW SENATE PLEA

More than 400 veterans marched to the Senate Office Building today to plead with Senators for a reconsideration of the cash bonus question. The veterans halted at the door, received permission to enter and split into groups to present their case.

Meanwhile, the first test of strength between the bonus army and the Washington police department began today.

The next two or three days will prove the immediate truth or falsity of broad assertions of the marchers' leaders that their ranks will stand firm under active efforts of police to evacuate the 20,000 odd veterans encamped here.

The whole army was remaining here today heedless of the advice of Supt. of Police Pelham D. Glassford to start homeward, and a portion of it—that group encamped in quarters known as Camp Meigs—remained in localities which police have repeatedly ordered evacuated in the name of sanitation.

GIRL PROMOTES BONUS MARCH

CANONSBURG, Pa., June 24.—The 1932 "Bonus Expeditionary Forces" laying seige to the national capital will be reinforced next week by a contingent of Washington County wives and daughters if the plans of 19-year-old Delphia Burgh, daughter of Lawrence Burgh, wounded war veteran of Canonsburg succeed.

Miss Burgh set herself up here today as a voluntary recruiting officer for the women's legion of the bonus army. She hopes to enlist between 50 and 100 mothers and daughters for the march which is scheduled to leave here Saturday morning.

With the aid of Sarah Jeffers, only two years her senior, Miss Burgh hopes to captain her army of fair reserves into the bonus camp at Anacostia by Monday. Both girls are experienced hitchhikers. Miss Burgh said:

"We'll get there somehow. Sarah and I got to St. Louis and back and we didn't have a bit of trouble. We met more gentlemen on the road than we ever met at home.

"Dad doesn't know a thing about it, and I'll bet he'll be surprised when we get there. We're going to help him and his buddies."

More Chicago Vets Leave for Capital

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP.)—Another contingent of Chicago ex-service men last night departed for Washington to join the veterans there seeking immediate bonus payment. Two hundred and seventy men were given transportation in box cars by the New York Central Railroad.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 24.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Hoover issued a splendid disarmament program, but he was unfortunate enough to issue it on the same day the "square deal" boxing commission disarmed Max Schmeling. So naturally nobody paid much attention to Mr. Hoover's plan. It was the New York plan that attracted all the attention. Poor Sharkey. Nobody feels that he was in any way responsible for it. And of course Max has gained by it. Make it clear to foreigners, that in the Olympic games no boxing commission has anything to do with 'em. And ask the radio announcers, if the next fight is not so "hot" to tell us so. Sounded like Dempsey and Fitzsimmons were battling it out at the height of their careers. Yours, WILL.

FAMILY DRIVE RECEIPTS TO BE USED

Funds from $800,000 Bond Sale Are Expected to Be Available in August

The last of the city's $800,000 appropriation from the Talbot bill was expected to be exhausted today, and funds from other sources must then be brought into use, members of the operating committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association announced.

A half million dollars, made available by the Family-Help-Family Plan, will be used to provide for the city's unemployed. This will last until about the middle of August, it is believed, and by that time the Emergency Association hopes to have available receipts from the $800,000 bonds which City Council authorized Wednesday.

CITY CASH RETURNED

Early this year the city made an emergency appropriation of $260,000 for the association, but two days later the first of the Talbot funds was provided. The Emergency Association spent less than $2,000 of the city's emergency appropriation, and the remainder has been returned to the city.

Emergency association members said they would not touch the city's appropriation unless it was necessary, as the money comes from an emergency fund. It would be preferable, they declared, for bonds to be issued for the needed amount.

The city today has available $3,000,000 in direct relief and $2,000,000 for emergency work. This money will be raised in the bonds authorized by the people at the last election. The $800,000 bonds ordered sold are the first of the $3,000,000. At the present rate of expenditures, the $3,000,000 appropriation would provide relief for about a year.

MATHEWS DISSENTS

Maj. Philip Mathews, a member of the operating committee of the Emergency Association, today disagreed with Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, vice chairman of the State Committee on the Unemployment Emergency organized by the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Warburton said there was practically no money for unemployment relief in the 14 point program for the special session of the state legislature.

Maj. Mathews believes the program, as far as it goes, is praiseworthy, and said he looked forward to its adoption in the legislature.

Bonus Army Seizes Texas Rail Yards

EL PASO, Tex., June 24.—(AP.)—More than 1,000 members of California's bonus army took possession of the Texas and Pacific Railroad yards yesterday and prepared to board a freight train that was ready to depart for Fort Worth. El Paso police refused to take action, saying they wanted the army to get out of town as quickly as possible.

VET'S WIFE WILL FLY TO CAPITAL

Cyrus A. Davis, flying attorney, will take off for Washington early tomorrow with a "bonus wife" and her son. Mrs. George Huey, of 5445 Penn avenue, and George, Jr., 7, the passengers, will constitute the vanguard of women and children of veterans who plan to join in the bonus appeal.

A telegram from leaders of the bonus veterans today notified the local committee that a reception was being prepared for Mrs. Huey, her child and their pilot.

Mrs. Huey's husband is a leader of the Trees-Carlisle Post members who have been in the Anacosta camp three weeks.

Davis, called upon by local bonus advocates to conduct a "bombing" expedition by air against the capital, consented, provided permission from the aeronautic authorities be granted.

His "bombs," if the attack is executed, will be circulars supporting the demand for the bonus.

Wheeling Permits 'Bonus Army' Meets

WHEELING, June 24.—(AP.)—Efforts to recruit a second "bonus army" to join soldiers' bonus seekers in Washington can continue here. Permits to address a mass meeting were granted to two speakers.

Carnegie Institute Building Model of Parthenon

The Parthenon, the culmination of Greek architecture and the ancient home of the goddess Athena, will rise in the center of the hall of architecture at Carnegie Institute. It will be a plaster reproduction of the famious temple, made to a scale of one-twentieth.

The model, which was begun early in April, will be completed in October, according to present plans of its designer, Laurance W. Hitt, architect, who is being assisted by Ross Polis and other members of the staff of the fine arts department of the institute.

It will consist of thousands of plaster casts of columns, statutes, doors, ceiling pieces, pediments, metopes and even minute decorations for the doors measuring less than a quarter of an inch.

Hitt had this to say about the original temple:

"The Parthenon is a perfect piece of pure design. That is why it should be better known. It is a beacon to guide us whenever we tend to deviate too far from the truth."

The model, when completed, will be three feet high and five feet six inches by 11 feet six inches in area. It will rest on a base five feet above the floor.

VOTE MACHINE JAMMING BALKED

County Experts Perfect Model for General Use; 'Cheating' Still Possible

The county law department has one voting machine that will not jam, that has stood every reasonable test put to it, and from which all mechanical "bugs" have been eliminated, according to Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank.

Expert mechanics in the employ of the law department have been working for several weeks on the machine, Frank said, and the result of their work will be used as a model for the changes to be required in all of the county's 1,100 machines.

CONFERENCE HELD

The jamming has occurred in voting of straight party tickets on the machines.

Representatives of the Commercial Equipment Corporation, subsidiary of the Commercial Credit Company, of Baltimore, conferred with the County Commissioners, County Solicitor J. P. Fife and Frank yesterday. Robert Gladstone, representing the company, left for the Poole Engineering and Machine Company plant at Baltimore last night with the modified parts which Frank said will eliminate all possibility of jamming the machines.

That the machines are not immune to vote cheaters was demonstrated by Frank yesterday. By cutting a slot in the celluloid strips covering the ballot labels of the machines, it is possible to register more than one vote for a candidate.

CHEATING POSSIBLE

The slot cut over the red marker that appears when a vote is cast, permits pushing down the marker with a knife blade, six additional times and registering seven votes for a single candidate instead of seven individual candidates.

Frank said:

"There certainly can be means devised for cheating any mechanical device. However there will be more people, for instance, election board officials and watchers and the voter themselves, watching for evidence that machines have been tampered with.

"Nothing has been shown to us whereby voting machines can be cheated which would not be easily detected during an election by alert observers and most of the tampering requires mechanical knowledge, tools and time to work on the machine. I believe that in the final settlement of the voting machine business we will have a workable satisfactory machine."

Youth With Gun Robs Chain Store

A youth she questioned concerning his age last night drew a revolver and menaced Miss Emma McFeeley, manager of a chain grocery at Moore and Knox avenues, Knoxville, escaping with $31. MAILING COMMEMORATIVE CACHET

POSTMASTER JAMES B. ANDERSON AND SOME OF 10,000 DUQUESNE-CACHETED LETTERS

FORT DUQUESNE CACHET SENT

More than 10,000 letters went through the Pittsburgh postoffice today bearing the commemorative Washington Bicentennial - Fort Duquesne cachet sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph. They were addressed to every nook and corner of the United States, and many went to foreign countries. Nearly 2,000 were stamped for air mail.

These letters were stamped and self-addressed by collectors from every state in the Union and forwarded to the Sun-Telegraph for remailing today—the anniversary of Washington's departure from Fort Louden, in 1758, to join forces with Gen. Forbes for a campaign against Fort Duquesne. This date was selected as one of the most important in Washington's many activities in the Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania area, and the Fort Duquesne cachet was planned as a fitting part of the nation-wide Washington Bicentennial celebration.

This year, more than usual, there is a boom among stamp collectors for commemorative covers, or envelopes, and the Pittsburgh Fort Duquesne envelopes, with hand-stamped cachet, will be an interesting addition for collectors who specialize in this line. Postmaster James B. Anderson has given the stamp collectors and the Sun-Telegraph complete co-operation in making the Fort Duquesne cachet a success.

1 DEAD, 8 HURT IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Homestead Merchant Dies Of Motorcycle Injuries; Companion Knocked Down

Frank Hanges, Homestead merchant, was dead today of injuries suffered when he was struck by a motorcycle driven, police said, by William Hipple, of 149 Flowers avenue, at Eighth avenue and Heisel street, Homestead. Clyde Collins, of 2 Tecumseh street, companion of Hanges, was knocked down and slightly injured.

Other persons injured in automobile accidents yesterday were: Anna Miller, 12, of 4 First avenue; Mrs. Annabella Weigand, 49, of 16 Park street, Dravosburg; her daughter, Katherine Weigand, 21, and Oscar Metz, 27, of Scott Haven, Pa.

Lillian Zinninger, 34, of 304 Chestnut street, was treated in Allegheny General Hospital early today for injuries received when the automobile, in which she was a passenger, ran onto the lawn of E. M. Smith, 2496 Perrysville avenue. The machine was out of control, according to police, who arrested Rex Barnett, 42, of 439 Water street.

Traffic in Forbes street, at Woodlawn avenue, was tied up nearly an hour early today when an automobile became wedged between two street cars. Roy Matthews, 31, a Negro of 6669 Frankstown avenue, and his wife, Lulu Matthews, were injured. They were taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

Officials Wonder How to Pay $1 Yearly Salary

TRENTON, N. J., June 24.—It was but child's play for the officials of New Jersey charged with disbursing money to pay $6,000 a year to Quartermaster Gen. E. Edward Murray.

But today they were stumped by the problem of how to pay him the $1 a year to which his compensation was reduced.

Woman Driver Held In Death of Boy

A woman driver, who, police say, had no operator's license and took her husband's automobile without permission, was blamed for the death early today in Homestead Hospital of John Kopriva, 12, of 513 East Third avenue, Homestead.

The boy was struck, police say, by the car driven by Mrs. Beatrice Wallace, 19, Negro, of 545 Third avenue, Homestead, when she lost control of the machine and it ran over the sidewalk in Dixon street.

West Park Crowd Hears Labor Debate

Six hundred persons in West Park, North Side, heard Attorney John M. Henry uphold the affirmative side of an open air debate on the question: "Is there any permanent solution under capitalism for labor's problems?" A. J. Muste, faculty chairman of Brookwood Labor College, Katonah, N. Y., argued the negative. The debate was held under the auspices of the League of Social Justice.

No Question About It

they are Milder!

This means Chesterfields aren't harsh. It means they're not strong or heavy.

Early in the day or late at night you'll find that Chesterfields are always pleasing. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

What's more they taste better, too. That's it . . . milder and better taste. These are the two outstanding merits of Chesterfield.

Plus . . . a third important advantage. Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink . . . as pure as science can make them.

RAIL EXECUTIVE CITES PLIGHT

Railroad conditions both in Germany and the United States were pictured as deplorable, and with little immediate change in sight, by David A. Lochte, president of the German Railways, who was visiting with friends at the Edgewater Steel Company today. Lochte said:

"Railroads in Germany, like those in the United States, are very low. In Germany 6,000,000 people are out of work and unable to feed another 6,000,000 dependents. I know of nothing that will help the people or the railroads."

The German executive arrived in the city last night on what he termed a vacation visit. He will leave tomorrow for Chicago, where he expects to see the "big fireworks" of the Democratic convention.

Asked about prohibition, he replied:

He then added:

Suspect Captured In Holdup on Hill

Three hours after a man held up Joseph Sikora, confectioner, of 68 Washington street, robbing him of $6, J. Guy, 32, of Wildwood, Pa., was arrested in a North Side restaurant as a suspect.

The arrest was brought about by the manager of the Manchester restaurant at 1711 Beaver avenue, who told police a suspicious looking stranger was displaying a revolver there. Frank Prentice, 47, of 1214 Metropolitan street, said to have been with Guy, also was arrested.

Horseshoe Pitcher Hurt by Other's Toss

A horseshoe tossed by a companion with whom he had been playing struck Thomas Nugent, 11, 2805 Larkins way, in the face, injuring him seriously. He was taken to South Side Hospital.

Jean Harlow Sets Wedding for July 2

HOLLYWOOD, June 24.—(AP.)—Jean Harlow, screen star, and Paul Bern, motion picture executive, plan to be married July 2. They announced the ceremony would be performed by Superior Judge Leon Yankwich, at the Beverly Hills home of Miss Harlow's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Marino Bello. John Gilbert will be best man.

E. S. Cooks to Mark 52nd Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Cook will celebrate their fifty-second wedding anniversary tonight in their home, 727 Berkshire avenue, with two children, several grandchildren, relatives and friends attending. They were married by the Rev. A. A. Miller in the old Methodist Episcopal Church formerly at Liberty avenue and Barbeau street.

Robber Gets $42 In Homestead Store

A well-dressed young man wearing a brown suit and straw hat held up George Walochik, manager of a chain store at McClure and Fourth avenues, Homestead, as he opened the place today. The robber escaped after taking $42 from the cash register. It was Walochik's first experience at being held up in 13 years as a store manager.

Schuck Funeral.

Funeral service for Jacob Schuck, 67, a pioneer retail hardware merchant of Pittsburgh, who served several terms in the old common council as representative of the Thirty-first Ward, will be held Sunday afternoon at his home, 744 Warrington avenue. Mr. Schuck was engaged in the hardware business for more than 50 years on Warrington avenue. He also served as a director of the Allen Public School and was a member of the Pittsburgh Retail Hardware Dealers' Association. He leaves two daughters, Miss Freda Schuck and Mrs. W. B. McVicker; a son, Frederick R. Schuck; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Droeger, all of Pittsburgh; two brothers, John A. Schuck, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Peter Schuck, of Pittsburgh.

Funeral Arranged For Justice Burns

Funeral services for George B. McClelland Burns, 66, of Imperial, Justice of the Peace in Finley Township for the last 20 years, who died at his home yesterday shortly before he was to have entrained for Chicago as a delegate to the Democratic convention, will be held at the home Sunday at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Burns was a lifelong resident of Finley Township, a member of Valley Presbyterian Church and Masonic groups. He leaves his widow, two sons and two daughters, all of Imperial.

Two Held in W. Va. For Auto Theft Here

City detectives planned to leave today for Aurora, W. Va., to bring to Pittsburgh two men detained there for the alleged theft of an automobile, June 21, from Edward Zimmerman, of 3440 Perrysville avenue. The men were arrested in Aurora while a constable was investigating them for an alleged traffic law violation.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

The time was, and not so very long ago either, when a bride always wore white satin, but within the past few years a few brides have chosen delicate shell pink satin or lace for their bridal gowns.

Tonight there'll be an all-pink wedding, with the gowns shading from the shell-pink of the bride's costume, the deeper pink to be worn by the bridesmaids, to a deep, deep pink to be worn by the maid of honor. And all the flowers forming the background for the ceremony will be pink, too.

The bride will be Barbara Ziegler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Ziegler, of Neville street, and the bridegroom, E. Alexander Hill, son of the Elgin A. Hills, of Fifth avenue.

Officiating at the ceremony tonight at 8 o'clock in the Ziegler home is the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, of Shadyside Presbyterian Church. Pink hydrangeas, gladioli and lilies against a background of ferns, will decorate the home.

The bride's gown of shell pink lace will have a bertha cape of the lace, bound in pink satin, and the floor-length skirt a flare below the knees of lace and satin. Her veil will be of shell pink tulle. Her flowers will be madonna lilies and lilies of the valley.

Gown of Pink

Chiffon gowns of deeper pink, trimmed with a still deeper shade of pink ribbon, will be worn by the bridesmaids. Katherine E. Stewart, of Butler, and Mary Louise Dicken, and a chiffon gown of the same shade as the ribbon on the bridesmaid's gown will be worn by the maid of honor, Mary Ziegler, sister of the bride. They will carry spring flowers. The mother of the bride will wear ombre lavender chiffon.

Samuel S. Scott will be best man, and Porter Sawyer Kier and Robert Pratt will be ushers. A buffet supper will follow the wedding. After an eastern and northern wedding trip, Mr. Hill and his bride will occupy his parent's home until fall. The Elgin A. Hills will be at their summer place on the Juniata River, near Huntington, Pa.

Rachel V. Rumble Is Married to Dr. Biddle

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Linden Rumble, of Clairton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rachel Virginia Rumble, to Dr. Russel Lee Biddle, son of the Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Biddle, of Brookline, which took place Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church. The bridegroom's father officiated.

Miss Ruth Rumble was her sister's only attendant, and Theodore A. Biddle, was his brother's best man. After the wedding dinner Dr. and Mrs. Biddle left by motor for New York, and will sail for Bermuda on the Monarch of Bermuda. Later they will reside in New York, where Dr. Biddle is a member of the faculty of New York City College.

Both are graduates of the University of Pittsburgh, where the bride, formerly a Latin teacher in the Clairton Senior High School, received her M. A. degree. Dr. Biddle received his M. A. at Columbia and his Ph. D. at the University of Southern California.

Miss Millie R. Haffner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Haffner, of Saline street, has chosen Sunday as the day for her marriage to Barnet I. Ginsburg, son of the Rev. and Mrs. L. O. Ginsburg, of Dinwiddie street. The ceremony will take place at 7 o'clock that evening in the Haffner home with the Rev. A. M. Sivitz officiating, assisted by the Rev. Ginsburg. Miss Lillian Maretsky will play the wedding music.

To Marry Sunday

Mr. Ginsburg and his bride will tour the Eastern states and Canada and after July 5 will be at home in Chester avenue, East Liverpool, O.

American Party To Sail July 6 For Paris

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Important questions are slated for consideration at the board meeting of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, July 14 to 17, in Paris. Twenty-seven American business women are sailing from New York on July 6 to attend the meeting at which affiliation with the Equal Rights International will be one of the measures to be voted upon.

The board will also determine whether to indorse a protocol drawn up by the Economic Sanctions Committee for presentation to the signatories of the Pact of Paris. Measures for which the committee specifically asks the Federations indorsement provide for a cessation of any shipment of arms or munitions or other absolute contraband during hostilities and for such further economic sanctions and concerted measures, short of the use of force, as may be deemed appropriate and practical.

Representation on the Consultative Committee on Nationality of Married Women of the League of Nations, will be discussed and a plan will be presented to the federation by its own commercial exchange committee for sending an international traveling exhibition of the work of members from country to country.

Women said— You can't have snowy white clothes without hard rubbing

BUT they hadn't tried the New Oxydol then

YOU'VE probably done it too—spent long hours over the washboard because you liked your clothes fresh and white. But there's an easier way now!

Try the New Oxydol, the soap that makes 50% more suds — creamier, quicker, longer lasting suds.

Those extra, richer suds are the secret of easy washing, of cleaner, whiter clothes. Suds that don't collapse and let the dirt fall back on the clothes—clean smelling suds that never ball up or leave a scum on the tub—suds that make clothes gleaming white without tiresome rubbing.

The New Oxydol's as easy on hands as it is on dainty things—and it makes rich suds in either hard water or soft water turned hard by dirty clothes or dishes. Ask your grocer today for a package—see how much it lightens all your housework.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 24.—There are still no fashions that have endeared themselves to all Paris as much as those which suggest the military. Coats with shoulders like the epaulets on an officer's uniform, capes in the dull pale blue worn by the French Army, gold buttons and anchors and other insignia that suggest the navy—all these are still the favorite fashions of young people in Paris.

* * *

SPORTS CLOTHES, especially, take frequently to military line and color. There is much blue and bright red, many combinations of red, white and blue, and many brass buttons about the suits and coats and dresses that are designed for golf, for yachting, for the beach and for general country wear.

* * *

ALTHOUGH THE military type of clothes have been showing in Paris for the last few seasons, this summer's dresses and suits are perhaps the first to borrow their styles from foreign armies. The Russians, the Persians, the English and the Chinese are all represented in the military fashions shown in dressmaking salons on the Rue de la Paix.

* * *

ONE OF the most amusing suits of the season, done by Madame Lyolene—herself a Russian—is a gold costume using the colors of the French armies and the decorations somewhat like those on pre-war Cossack uniforms.

* * *

THE JACKET and skirt—both cut on rather classic sports lines, and provided with correct fullness to allow for plenty of activity—are of a crepey wool jersey in the pale blue of the French Army. There is a red wool shirt for a blouse, and a red cravat appears on the collar of the jacket.

* * *

THE COSSACK effects, just above the pockets on the jacket, are not only for decoration, but serve a practical purpose: Each little line (and there are four) hold nine or so little wood golf tees, painted bright red.

ADDITIONAL CLUB NEWS

There's going to be one party for the debutante set this June that they can talk openly about, after all. On Wednesday, June 29, there'll be a dinner-dance at the Allegheny Country Club given for the debs of this year and last, and the younger men. Nancy Byers, Bertha Brooks, debs of this year, and Mary Franklin Robinson and Rebecca Doyle, recent debs, will be in charge for the evening.

Dance For Buds

The girls were appointed by Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr., Mrs. B. F. Jones III, and Mrs. H. C. Bughman, Jr., who have arranged a series of entertainments at the club.

For the school set will be guests at a dinner-dance and there'll be one for those past debutante age.

For the children there'll be the annual children's party on the Fourth of July, with Mrs. Alexander L. Robinson again in charge. The feature will be a circus. Aiding Mrs. Robinson will be Mrs. John S. Laughlin, Mrs. Eugene H. Kipp and Mrs. B. F. Jones III.

* * *

Mrs. Francis De Lacey Hyde is giving a luncheon today in Fox Chapel Golf for June Kennedy, who'll marry Louis Ellsworth Laflin, Jr., tomorrow. The Edward A. Montgomerys will give a breakfast tomorrow in Longue Vue Country Club for the bridal party.

Luncheon For Bride

Among those who've entertained for the bride-to-be are Mrs. Durland Suydam, the John Kings, Elsie Guffey, Louise Evans, Lorraine Taylor, Anne Sherrard.

* * *

Fifty tables were in play yesterday at the benefit bridge given by the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club at Mrs. David I. McCahill's home in Warwick terrace. The women, wandering through the gardens or at the tables indoors and on the terrace, made a colorful picture in their pretty frocks. Mrs. McCahill was assisted by her charming twin daughters, Marguerite and Marie, and by Dorothy Windsor, who has come from St. Louis to spend the summer with her aunt, Mrs. Arthur B. Lynn, of Brownsville road. The table favors were compacts, and the proceeds were augmented by a sale of candy, the gift of a local candy firm.

Sloan Benefit

* * *

Mrs. Raymond A. Marter will be hostess for the June benefit of the Bradford Woods Juniors tomorrow, when puzzles, bingo and other games will take the place of the usual bridge. Miss Jane Crumay and Mrs. William E. Marter are assisting the hostess.

The Juniors are to have a dinner at Perry Inn on Wednesday, instead of the scheduled business meeting.

* * *

Tuesday's luncheon meeting in the Schenley Heights Methodist Episcopal Church will close the season for Foster Women's Christian Temperance Union. The pastor of the church, the Rev. T. F. Chilcote, is to address the meeting, and the union quartet will sing.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

The tales they tell you in a day about one-time prominents who have been forced to give up their lofty perches to keep from getting too hungry depress me . . . Almost everyone you encounter has the miseries over lost fortunes and prestige, but few of them are as touching as those that come from the pretties . . . I mean the kids who managed well enough along Broadway until their respective shows melted and left them to shift as best they know how . . . Nearly all of them around now are so desperate—they go to any extreme for a place to slumber . . . And what makes it tougher is that the lads who were once liberal just can't be any more . . . Yet those Broadway boys who are supposed to be vultures reveal a spark now and then, and do what they can to help those distressed girls . . . Last night, frinstance—when one of them handed a desperate kid his bankroll, $20 . . . Then he told the restaurateur, where we all supped, that he'd owe him the tariff—and borrowed cabfare to get home . . . I remember when he tipped the cafe waiters a double-sawbuck—and here he was handing it to a doll, and leaving himself flat . . . And he neglected to leave a tip for the waiter . . . "Huh, cheap guy," snarled the lackey.

Too bad about Eileen Wenzel's sour luck—she is so lovely to look upon . . . The news of her motor crash shocked me no little. . . . For only that sundown she had spellbound some of us with her charm near the Ziegfeld stage door . . . Wonder if it is true that George White, the skillful producer, is having a time of it financially? . . . The theater industry certainly didn't dent his immense savings . . . His standing in the community as a producer will entice all kinds of money help if he wants to stage a show again. . . . The one novelette I can read over and over again is Wollcott's piece about the French cadet and the DeMaupassantish Lady in The New Yorker Scrapbook . . . Garbo's greatest defenders out there, they say, are the camera crews, who adore her because she quits promptly at 5 . . . Wonder if there is anything to the talk that she is really returning home to ask a Swedish editor just what's the Big Idea? . . . He keeps publishing photos of her that distress her . . . That lass with Samuel Shipman, the playwright, these midnights certainly looks like Greta from the mouth up . . . That unreported brawl at the smart spot in the Park has its humor, at any rate . . . Political giants, sore over a $30 couvert charge, took it out on the impresario of the place, who suffered great indignity. . . . Wish it were possible to print what happened.

Some people don't know there is a depression, at all . . . Among those to whom the depression is something they read about in the papers are the "Green Pastures" cast, who have had their pork chops regular—with but one week's layoff—since February, 1930. . . . You'd think some of the smarter theater men would clean up by giving the public a break, now that the new tax on amusements is in order . . . A dollar seat now will arouse managers to charge $1.10 for it—making the patron pay the tax, of course . . . The showman who announces that he will pay the tax probably will entice the heaviest trade . . . Or even split it . . . There I go dreaming again . . . Must be a legend about Otto H. Kahn being that bent that he is peddling his paintings, for while he may be selling some of them, he is also buying them . . . Of course they rarely let the newspapers know about such items, which is why there are columnists . . . I mean that incident that happened in one of our Municipal Courts the other day when a lawyer, fed up with the magistrate's sass, leaned over and punched him on the beezer . . . And the offender wasn't even punished . . . Thousands of attorneys are tickled pink over it—for they, too, have taken this "Honorable" one's tongue lashings for years.

If that Jack Gilbert-Virginia Bruce courtship is merely an exploitation trick, as some of the chatterers assert, it is a costly stunt. . . . For Gilbert's bracelets to her contain the sort of ice that never melts . . . It must be love . . . Phil Baker, who demands and gets $5,000 a week from the managers, simply can't work four and five shows a day for that money, he pouts . . . It is too strenuous and upsets his nerves . . . Therefore, he is risking a young fortune, backing his own show . . . As a matter of fact, Baker is sponsoring his own enterprise so that he can have a job . . . For there are not enough managers these days who can afford that wage . . . Imagine putting up as much as $50,000 to keep working . . . Well, I'll be a customer . . . Baker's nonsense never brings on ennui . . . And there are thousands of New Yorkers who are amused by his stuff, year after year, though it never changes . . . I like, too—the way Eddie Cantor makes his plea for Presidential honors . . . Eddie says that if he is elected he will keep his promise—as well as everything else . . . How humiliating. I mean what happened to that Boston gent, who was in a motor crash there and sued for injuries to his head . . . He was awarded damages of one cent.

Oh, I suppose you mustn't dismiss some of the stories you hear about Broadway—for then where will the paragraphs come from? . . . That one about the rich lunatic, frixample . . . An up-Stater whose domestic troubles scrambled his mind—and his physician hit upon the idea that perhaps taking his patient to what is left of the cabaret asylums might help him . . . And so the gent with the "nervous breakdown," as dippy people prefer having it named, was taken to Miss Guinan's place on Long Island before she shelved it recently . . . And accompanied by his doctor and a nurse they were diverted night after night until the doctor decided his patient was cured . . . Mebbeso, mebbeso, but it is difficult to understand how a madman can be cured in a madhouse!

That story which was rejected by a Chicago city desk floored me . . . I mean the one handed in by a reporter assigned to cover the hotel quarters of prominent Republican committeemen . . . And the scribe vowed that he heard a delegate say to a famous dry on the National Committee: "George, our delegation want three quarts of Scotch and three of Rye" . . . To which the famous dry responded: "Do you want to come up to the room with me and get it now?" . . . "No," said the delegate, "I'll send a boy down for it." . . . How've y'been? . . . Perhaps, that's what they call resubmission . . . Nice people . . . Funny how the drinking set is, anyway . . . One of the smarter spots catering to the better class, as they are erroneously christened, decided to offer its clientele only the best laughing soup . . . And managed to promote genuine American Rye, which costs no less than $146 a case . . . But the patrons, accustomed to the Canadian importations, all of them inferior to the $146 stuff, can't drink the costly juice . . . And so it is enjoyed by the help!

Jolson Picture Ready For Cameras

Al Jolson's first United Artists picture, "The New Yorker," will go into production within a few days. The story presents the comedian in the role of a happy-go-lucky vagabond of the city streets. This picture will mark the return to the screen of Harry Langdon, and two other comedians, Chester Conklin and Vince Barnett, will be included in the cast. Madge Evans has the feminine lead.

Dorothy Jordan Signs New Contract

Dorothy Jordan has been signed to a new long-term contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, according to an announcement from the Culver City studios. Miss Jordan appeared recently in "Shipmates," "Hell Divers" and "The Wet Parade." She also played in "The Lost Squadron" and "The Roadhouse Murder."

Culbertson Signed For Short Films

Ely Culbertson, bridge expert, has been signed by RKO Radio Pictures for a series of short motion picture subjects which, although of instructional value, will be presented as entertainment in dramatic continuity with humorous sidelights.

La Dietrich In Picture Of East

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 24. Another story of the Far East will be Marlene Dietrich's next picture for Paramount. Or at least that is the studio's idea. All that now remains is to convince Josef von Sternberg and the German star herself.

Marlene Dietrich

While Miss Dietrich has been filming "The Blonde Venus," Harry Hervey has written her new vehicle which goes under the tentative title of "Deep Night." In its early stages, the current picture went under the same name, but don't be confused. Mr. Hervey's story has a Himalayan background and takes place during the Tibetan New Year. In it, Miss Dietrich again will play a woman with a past, but a woman from society's upper strata.

She will be directed, as usual, by Von Sternberg, and the picture is scheduled for an August production. Obviously, then, the star will not visit her native land this summer.

BOULEVARD TALK

Here's disquieting news, Lilyan Tashman, one of Hollywood's style setters, will not get a sunburn this year. Just to make sure, she has imported a gargantuan straw beach hat from Germany . . . You'll envy William Bakewell, Russell Gleason and Ben Alexander. These lads will make a threesome on a European trip. They've their passport photos and will be leaving any day now . . . 50 books were written about Hollywood last year. Tomorrow afternoon, at Lucile Erskine's new Hollywood bookshop, Maj. Rupert Hughes will name the only person he considers to have caught the spirit of this land of make-believe . . . Mae Clarke visited the studio the other day for the first time since her illness. She's still accompanied by a nurse . . . Nightlife places here languish a little midweek but turn them away over week-ends. They were standing up waiting for tables last Saturday at the Club Airport Gardens . . . At the Frolics on Sunday were Evalyn Knapp and Don Cook (she's wearing his ring now), Peggy Morrow and Lloyd Pantages and Madge Evans and Tom Geraghty, chaperoned as usual by her mother . . . Irving Caesar has written a song about Agua Caliente. There's a little dancer down there, Grace Poggi, who'll be in Hollywood or on Broadway one of these days . . . How these studios change their minds! It'll be Sidney Fox, after all, in "Once in a Lifetime."

Mae Clarke

DURANTE HIRED

The new Marion Davies picture draws another important Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player. Jimmie Durante has been assigned to be the chief entertainer at a glamorous Broadway party sequence. The studio is having special music written for him.

This picture, you can write down as an important one. In addition to Miss Davies, it will have Robert Montgomery, Billie Dove, Zasu Pitts and several other big names in the cast. And Edmund Goulding is the director.

Devil

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Congress Dances," photoplay feature in the Fulton, is not, as might be inferred from the title, a picture of our national legislators doing some fancy stepping—or side-stepping—in Washington. It is not as completely diverting as such a spectacle would be, but is just as entertaining — perhaps more. The Congress referred to is one held in Europe to discuss disposition of Napoleon, but don't be frightened, politics are merely incidental to an adept handling of a musical comedy idea that has been used many times, especially in "The Student Prince," that being the romance between royalty and a commoner.

In this case the personage is His Majesty, the Czar of Russia, and the girl is not a barmaid, but a little salesgirl in a glove shop, an adorable little girl whom you'll love. Lilian Harvey. Her naivete is completely captivating, and her manner of catching the attention of every notable who comes to town—throwing bouquets — is an indication of a charming boldness that proclaims a certain knowingness beneath an innocent appearance.

The romance is mixed with comedy largely because the czar has a double, a servant, whom he uses to impersonate him in engagements which his majesty does not care to fill himself, and sometimes they are with impressionable ladies, even including our heroine.

Henry Garat is pleasing in the double role of the czar and his servant. Conrad Veidt gives a fine portrayal of a plotting prince, and Lil Dagover is more or less prominent as one of the prince's tools to lure unsuspecting diplomats to their political undoing.

Ralph Forbes, who recently returned to his first love, the speaking stage, under the direction of his wife, Ruth Chatterton, in "Let Us Divorce" is back on the screen. He was signed to play the role of "Wallie" in Norma Shearer's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, "Smilin' Through." With Frederic March, borrowed from Paramount, and Leslie Howard coming from New York, Miss Shearer is well surrounded with leading men. Forbes completes what probably is the strongest triumvirate of romantic male stars ever cast for a single picture. His role in "Smilin' Through" will be that of Willie.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Al Jolson

IN LOOKING over the current edition of Variety, I noticed that Al Jolson's second talking picture, "The Singing Fool," has grossed more money than any film produced since the advent of the talkies. It has taken in more than $5,000,000 to date and is still being shown in several sections of the world. No other film is even close to it.

That situation, I think, is only fitting. For some reason or other, with the passing of time, Al Jolson has not been given the credit that is rightfully his. True, his subsequent pictures did not maintain the standard that was set by "The Singing Fool." But that would have been pretty much of an impossibility. As I remember it, "The Singing Fool" still remains the last word in down-to-earth screen fare.

Curiously enough, in spite of the many reports and rumors, Jolson earned but $75,000 of the $5,000,000 that "The Singing Fool" grossed. He had been paid but $25,000 for the making of "The Jazz Singer," the picture that really turned the tide in favor of the talkies. And when it came time to make his second feature he asked for $75,000—in cash.

The Warners at that time were just emerging from a desperate struggle to make both ends meet. They didn't care to pay that amount for a picture, and Al could have had almost anything he wanted in the way of stock in the company or of a percentage of the gross.

But Jolson, having been in the Broadway branch of show business all his life, was figuring his time on a weekly basis. The film would take about five weeks to complete, and the star was asking $15,000 weekly for his time. The Warners finally gave in. And Jolson, never dreaming that he might have earned several millions on a percentage arrangement, thought he had done remarkably well in signing a contract that—at that time—was the highest sum ever paid a star for one picture.

The man, Jolson, is a strange figure. He has very few intimate friends, for the simple reason that he wants very few. The bitterness of an early struggle for existence left a mark upon him that time can never eradicate.

His eccentricities are many and varied. He once dropped $40,000 in a single wager at the Jamaica race track and then went for a swim as though nothing had happened. On another occasion he wagered $100 on a losing nag and went into semi-hysterics because he swore the jockey had pulled the race. He is kindly in his likings, but vicious in his dislikes. Petty things disturb him beyond all belief. An unfair line in a newspaper drives him to distraction, and I once saw him end a lifelong friendship with a man because the latter failed to send him a Christmas card. These things, I suppose, are the eccentricities of genius.

For Al Jolson has been, and is, a genius. Show business and the entire amusement world owe him a debt of gratitude that can never be denied. The Cantors, the Jessels and the Holtzes—all excellent comics in their own rights—are all outgrowths of the Jolson pattern. And even if they never admit it publicly, you can take it from me that—deep in their hearts—they bow to the head man.

With his Winter Garden shows, beginning back in 1911, Al Jolson brought a new type of amusement to the musical comedy world. From that time on, until he grew a trifle tired of continued success, Jolson was the greatest boxoffice attraction the world has ever known.

The man never had a failure on the musical stage. His Winter Garden appearances packed them in for as long as Al cared to stay in New York. And when he hit the road—ouch, mamma! It was he who, almost alone, made the Shuberts the biggest managerial combine in the United States.

Then, when the late Sam Warner had faith in the ultimate success of the talking picture and the rest of the picture business thought him just a trifle unbalanced, it took Al Jolson to show the world that Sam Warner was right. Previously afraid of the camera, Jolson listened to the first recordings of his voice in "The Jazz Singer"—and feared it no more.

Accordingly, just as his first starring engagement had turned the Broadway world upside down, so did "The Jazz Singer" revolutionize the film industry. Had the star been an actor other than Jolson, the effort might have been laughed from the screen. But the man, the voice and the performance commanded attention and respect. And the combined result was an overwhelming success—and the end of the silent picture ....

As long as I've written so much about Jolson, I might as well devote the rest of the column to him and make it a complete job. Perhaps at this point it might be well to tell a story about him.

Let's see, now. Oh, yes. Here's a pip:

Several seasons ago, while Jolson was vacationing at Palm Beach, he received a wire from one of the Shubert brothers who was then in Chicago. It seems that "A Night in Spain," a Shubert attraction, needed a great star to bolster its business—and Al Jolson was asked to step in.

The engagement was supposed to be for four weeks only—and the plea to Al was a simple and direct one. The Shuberts had always worked with him since the very beginning, and they needed him now. Wouldn't he step into the attraction for them?

So Jolson did it. He left Palm Beach shortly after, and jumped into "A Night in Spain," with little or no preparation. After the opening night Mr. Shubert was back in his dressing room.

"Everything was wonderful," he said, "but I'd like to know something. Nothing has been said about salary and I'd like to know what you want."

Jolson shrugged his shoulders and told the producer to pay him anything he wished. Shubert said that wasn't satisfactory: he had to know the amount Al wanted. Jolson refused him a definite answer.

Each night thereafter, then, the producer insisted on knowing the actual amount that Jolson wanted.

"Listen," said Jolson finally, "I told you I'd take whatever you gave me. But you don't want it that way. Now, since you insist, I want $10,000 a week."

Shubert looked a trifle staggered, but he walked away without replying. In an hour he was back.

"I'm sorry, Al," he asserted, "but I've been figuring things out. We can't pay you that salary."

The comedian wanted to know why not.

"Well," was the producer's amazing reply, "it just can't be done. If we pay you $10,000 a week, we'll only be able to make $6,000!" . . .

* * *

Jolson is now on the Coast and is about to make a new picture for United Artists. I hope it will be his greatest success. Because I want him to remain where he has always been—at the very top . . .

Sidelights of Title Bout Filmed

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Striking pictures before and after the world's championship heavyweight fight in which Jack Sharkey brought back the title to America by a decision over Max Schmeling, are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. As federal law denies the right to newsreels of showing the actual fighting, the pictures show the two contestants in the ring being introduced by Joe Humphreys and squaring off for the start of the battle, and in their corners during the rounds. Then follows the announcement that Sharkey has won and the attendant scenes of excitement in the ring. There are pictures of the vast crowd that gathered in the new Madison Square Garden Bowl in Long Island City, filling it to capacity. There are also pictures made of the contestants after the fight. Sharkey states he has at last achieved his life's ambition and believes he won fairly. Schmeling, to the contrary, opines that he won, "and most of the newspapers agree with me," he adds. There is a graphic description of the fight by The Globe Trotter.

Preparations for the opening of the Democratic national convention in Chicago are shown. There are scenes in and about the convention hall and then follows statements by the four leading candidates for the presidential nomination—Gov. Roosevelt, of New York; Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland; Speaker John N. Garner, of the House, and former Gov. Al Smith, of New York. There are also scenes of the Democratic national convention held in 1928 in Houston, Tex., that give some idea of the excitement to come.

For the first time in a century the running of the famous Ascot Stakes results in a dead heat, two horses, Sandy Lashes and Son of Mint, galloping over the line nose-and-nose. In addition to the thrilling race there are remarkable pictures of the British royal family, including the King and Queen, Prince of Wales and the Duke of Gloucester, who lead the procession of other members of the royal household to their box. Scenes of British society women in the latest fashions are also included.

The police force of Bucharest, Rumania, stage a sort of "ring-around-the-rosy" festival for King Carol. The King and his advisers seem to enjoy and appreciate the strange cavorting of the cops.

Amelia Earhart Putnam is shown receiving additional honors when she is presented with the National Geographical Society medal for enterprise in aviation by President Hoover on the White House grounds. Replying to the President's congratulations, Mrs. Putnam modestly says she feels she has done nothing to deserve such signal honor.

Emanon Players Bring Jolly Comedy

The Emanon Players, a dramatic organization that has been active in Baum's Evangelical Protestant Church, Bloomfield, for 33 years, last night presented a three-act comedy, "The Clay's the Thing," by Tom Taggert, with much success. Dealing with a beauty contest, in which a boy student tries to capture the prize for feminine pulchritude, it is very amusing without being offensive. It was well played by a company including Ruth Eberts, Betty Heron, Mildred Christman, Geraldine Conroy, Renedda Lehrian, George Ebken, Raymond Hohlweg, Harold Lehrian, Warren Austraw, George French and Martin Hohlweg. This dramatic club has a very convenient stage in a hall annex of the church, and is directed by Homer Elliott.

'Skyscraper' Cast Has Stars

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has selected another exceptional cast for the forthcoming Cosmopolitan production, "Skyscraper Souls." For more than six months writers have been working on the adaptation of Faith Baldwin's powerful story, "Skyscraper," which in its screen form will be known as "Skyscraper Souls." The story, originally published in Cosmopolitan Magazine and now appearing serially in the Sun-Telegraph and other newspapers throughout the country, contains a half dozen parts of stellar magnitude.

Edgar Selwyn, famous producer of Broadway plays, was selected to direct the picture after his success in the direction of Helen Hayes in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet."

Then began the task of finding players capable of doing justice to the many fine parts. Selwyn was given carte blanche to select the best players obtainable and to this end an arrangement was made whereby Warren William, whose recent success as the star in "The Mouthpiece" and "The Dark Horse," was obtained for the role of David Dwight, the banker whose soul was wrapped up in the greatest skyscraper in Manhattan which he had created, and in every new pretty feminine face that crossed his path.

Maureen O'Sullivan, who made a name for herself as the vivacious girl in "Tarzan, the Ape Man," was chosen for the role of Lynn Harding. In addition to Miss O'Sullivan, the beautiful and talented young dramatic actress of the New York Theater Guild, the many fine parts. Summer is to the legitimate theater what winter is to baseball. Although the stage has nothing comparable to the hot stove league, it does have a grapevine service whereby the reports and rumors about the theater take on importance that frequently diminishes to nothing when the leaves of autumn begin to fall. So there may be and may not be anything to a story from Cleveland that Pittsburgh will be one of 12 cities that will comprise a dramatic circuit. Robert McLaughlin, Cleveland stock impressario, is behind the idea, part of which includes a stock arrangement under which units will travel intact on a rotary plan. It is said the project would include one revue, two musical revivals and one opera company, the balance of the shows to be dramatic.

From the local offices of the American Theater Society in the Nixon Theater Building subscription blanks were mailed yesterday to all former subscribers of the Theater Guild and Professional Players as well as to others who had applied. Mrs. H. C. Bushman, Jr., and Mrs. T. M. Jones, III, are in charge of the subscription plays for next season, under a plan that will present all the productions of the Theater Guild, Professional Players, Shuberts and Erlanger in one theater in each city, the Nixon being the house selected for Pittsburgh.

Winners in the Budweiser MALT CONTEST

(which closed at 12 o'clock midnight, June 15, 1932)

Will be announced in the newspapers just as soon as the judges can make their 186 decisions from the thousands upon thousands of titles submitted.

We want to take this opportunity to thank all the entrants for the great interest they have shown in our contest.

Owing to the overwhelming number of entries we have received it will require at least 30 days for the judges to select and determine the winners.

Eggs Important for Growth and Repair of Body

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Formerly Health Commissioner, New York City.

The family budget must be wisely expended to guarantee the nutrition of a large family. The housewife must seek to include foods which will give a well-balanced diet. At this time of the year certain foods are comparatively inexpensive. Eggs have not been so cheap for years and years.

Eggs are included among those we call "complete" foods. They contain those elements of nourishment that are required for growth and development. Like milk, they supply the nourishment so necessary for the development of the young.

An egg is made up of one-third yolk and two-thirds white. The yellow color of the yolk is due to a pigment called "entin." The yolk is more valuable than the white of the egg. But there are important substances in the white of the egg and it should never be discarded.

GIVEN TO INFANTS

In the feeding of infants, however, the white of the egg is not given. Egg yolk may be given to the infant as early as the fifth month. The egg may be soft-boiled, coddled, hard-boiled or mashed.

When the egg yolk is first given to an infant, it should be in very small amount and gradually increased in quantity. Start by giving a quarter of a teaspoonful and gradually increase until the baby receives a whole egg daily.

Some infants, as well as children and adults, are unable to eat eggs. They have what is known as a "sensitivity" to this rich protein food. Individuals who show this should avoid eggs, as well as any other food which produces a similar reaction.

IMPORTANT FOR GROWTH

One of the many advantages of eggs is their great variety of use. Eggs may be served in several different ways and are easily prepared to suit different tastes. They are easily digested. Contrary to an opinion held by many, hard boiled eggs are as easily digested as soft boiled eggs. Scrambled and fried eggs show little difference in the ease of digestion. Cooking causes certain changes in the egg and makes digestion easier. Raw eggs are more difficult to digest.

Next to milk, the egg is the most important food for growth and repair of the body. This fact is too often overlooked. Everyone knows of the tonic value of eggs in the diet of persons convalescing from serious ailments. During health their nutritive value is often overlooked and too many persons regard them only as a food for the convalescent. This is a wrong attitude. This food should be included in the diet of every infant, the growing child and the adult.

Many children dislike eggs because they have never been trained to eat this nourishing food. Often a child will overhear a grownup tell of his dislike for eggs. The child will mimic his elder and refuse eggs. If you have a dislike for eggs or any other nutritious food, never voice your opinion in the presence of a child.

"Protective" foods, such as milk and eggs, help to keep down the household budget. In addition, they are valuable assets in maintaining normal health and nourishment. They are an indispensable part of a well-balanced menu.

Salvage of Gold From Ship Near End

BREST, June 24.—(AP.)—Divers of the salvage ship Artiglio, II, brought up more gold yesterday from the wrecked liner Egypt, off Brest, with a possibility that the last of the $5,000,000 treasure which sank 10 years ago will be recovered soon.

Working despite unfavorable weather conditions, the divers were reported to have brought up additional cases of gold ingots and bars of silver. The hulk yielded gold and silver estimated at about $1,000,000 in the first haul.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

YORKSHIRE PUDDING — 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, ¾ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt.

Beat the eggs slightly, add the milk, flour and salt, and beat until thoroughly blended. Pour the batter into a hot pan containing about a quarter of a cup of hot beef drippings. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 to 25 minutes. Cut in squares and serve at once with the roast.

* * *

FRUIT TRIFLE—Place slices of sponge cake in a deep dish or arrange strips of the cake in individual dessert dishes. Pour stewed fruit, slightly sweetened and cooked until quite thick, over the cake. Fill the dish with soft custard. Chill, and serve with whipped cream.

* * *

CREAMY CHOCOLATE RICE PUDDING—1½ squares unsweetened chocolate, 4 tablespoons rice, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups milk, 2½ teaspoons gelatin, ½ cup sugar, 1-3 cup nut meats, broken; ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup cream, whipped.

Add chocolate, rice, salt to 2 2-3 cups milk. Cook in double boiler 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cover and cook 1½ hours longer. Combine gelatin with remaining 1-3 cup milk. Let stand 5 minutes, add sugar. Add gelatin mixture to hot rice; stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Chill. When slightly thickened, add nuts and vanilla; fold in whipped cream. Chill until mixture thickens again. Serve in sherbet glasses with or without additional whipped cream. Serves six.

* * *

CHOCOLATE BREAD PUDDING—1½ squares unsweetened chocolate cut in 3 pieces, 3 cups milk, 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, slightly beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups ¼-inch cubes bread.

Add chocolate to milk in double boiler and heat. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Combine

Habit of Arguing Should Be Broken Before Marriage

Why do they nag at each other and squabble over "nothing at all" when they're madly in love; and what will become of their love if they keep it up?

Can they hope for a happy marriage; or will life together become a nightmare?

It all has Gordon badly frazzled.

"I can't understand it," he wails. "We aren't happy at all unless we're together, but when we are together we can't seem to be happy, either. The minute we see each other we start to argue. Do you think it can be real love when that is true?"

Can it?

"Dear Sally—

"I wonder if you can't figure out something that puzzles me. I don't seem to be able to make head or tail of the way things are.

"For the past year and a half I have been taking a girl out, and we have been engaged for six months. At first, when we were just good friends, we got along fine together; then when we began to fall in love we began to argue.

"I can't understand it at all. She can't, either. We really are in love with each other; at least, we just can't be happy if we don't see each other often. I miss her terribly if I don't see her for two or three days, which sometimes happens, because I have to work overtime on my job a good deal. She says she misses me, too.

ARGUE OVER NOTHING

She is willing to keep on being engaged to me and wait until I make good. The job I have doesn't pay so much now, but I am getting ahead in it and I think it has a future. She is willing to wait for that future.

"Yet, every time we see each other, first thing we know we are arguing over nothing at all.

"This all worries me, and makes me think sometimes that we are not really meant for each other, after all. I would hate like the deuce to give her up; still, I wonder what the future would be together, when we can't get along any better.

"What do you think? Do you think we really do love each other, when we argue like we do? If we do, why do we seem not to hit it off on so many subjects? GORDON."

What's wrong, that you wrangle so?

That's simple, son. You and the girl friend are staging a conceit bout. You don't call on her to enjoy her company. You call to brag, and she is on tiptoe to tell you how infinitely wise she is, so she begins to depreciate your opinions, and you begin to depreciate hers, and the battle is on!

MUST STOP WRANGLING

Then you go home in a slump, and she goes to bed in a grump; but you come back, and she is glad to see you—because both of you still have the itch to demonstrate your superiority. And so it goes, night after night.

You will have to decide for yourselves whether you "really do love each other" or not; but there is one thing sure—if you ever expect to marry, and to find anything but grief, you will each have to curb the desire to show the other up or to make the other over, and you'll each have to realize that you are both far from perfect and that neither of you has the right to nag and find fault and argue.

Marriage is a comradeship, not a mutual improvement society; and two people bent on changing or improving each other are going to live a mighty unhappy life, and each will be horribly unfair.

Are you willing to give each other a break, willing to be just a couple of humans trying to get along and live and let live?

If you are, then go ahead and marry. If you're not, then break while the breaking's good, for if you don't you'll mess up your lives plenty, and it will be your own fault.

Fay King Traces Some "Likes" and "Unlikes" of Famous Kinsmen

By FAY KING

Resemblance is very interesting, and it is amazing how much alike some persons who may be strangers can look, while their own brothers and sisters are not much alike at all.

Max Schmeling looks more like Jack Dempsey than Dempsey's own brothers do, and we all see so much resemblance to Lindy in Amelia Earhart Putnam that she could pass as his sister.

On the other hand, Dr. Walker, brother of Jimmie, is not enough like him to be taken for his brother if you did not know.

Yet there was not the slightest resemblance between the daughters of Anna Held, or Lillian Russell and their famous mothers.

It is very interesting.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Migraine Headache Is a Distressing Disease

"Migraine headache" is a distinct type of headache which seems to run in families. It is most distressing and causes untold suffering.

Dr. Copeland

This form of headache should not be confused with the common, every-day headache, which is not a disease but a symptom of some disturbance in the body, such as anemia, high blood pressure, kidney disease, sinusitis or defective eyesight. Simple headache is frequently seen also in cases of constipation, digestive disturbances, of faulty pc ture in walking and standing, and uterine diseases in women commonly cause headaches.

Migraine is rarely caused by any of these disturbances. It is a persistent headache in which the attacks occur at periodic intervals—on the same day every week, every two weeks, or about once a month. Usually the sufferer can gauge the time for attack with surprising accuracy. The attacks may be brought on also by powerful emotional disturbances of any type, severe mental or physical fatigue, or marked digestive disturbances.

Since it was believed that the disease is hereditary, and that children of parents suffering from migraine may develop this disturbance, every effort should be made to prevent the disease. These children are usually restless, irritable, sensitive and nervous. They should be given special care and kept happy and relaxed, and outdoor play in the sunshine should be encouraged.

The diet for children of this type should be simple and wholesome, free from salts, peppers, spices, condiments and fried or greasy foods. Drinking plenty of water should be encouraged, and if constipation is present, every effort should be made to correct it. Daily elimination is imperative.

Some sufferers from migraine are benefitted by a strictly vegetable diet and by taking alkaline waters. Excellent care should be taken of the general health, to diminish the severity and number of attacks, and to live a quiet and well-regulated life, avoiding all emotional excitement or severe exertion. Whenever possible, a daily afternoon nap should be taken, and every effort made to get out in the sun and fresh air.

At mealtime, disturbances and aggravation must be avoided. It is best not to eat if you are upset. Food should be taken at regular hours and chewed slowly and carefully. The evening meal should be the lightest of the day and eaten early. Alcohol, tea, coffee and other stimulating beverages should be omitted from the diet. Avoid the use of laxatives. Encourage a natural elimination.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hair brushing can be overdone. Fifty strokes are enough. Don't pounce down hard with the bristles on the little young hairs that are constantly appearing at the sides and temples. Give them their exercise by gentle massage, sending one finger about in small circles to stir up circulation.

Don't fill your sassy new hat too full of head, little flower face. The snug chapeau presses on nerves, makes the old bean ache. What's worse, it forces forward the flesh on the head, puts tucks into it which in time look suspiciously like wrinkles. A good reason for the loosely-fitting lid: it gives hair a bit of ventilation which is good for what ails it, especially when the ailing takes the form of excessive oiliness. In warm weather wear light weight millinery; the felt model blankets the scalp, excites sebaceous and sweat glands to start a competition and lowers the vitality of the glory crown.

Household Hints

Fail not to have new taps put on shoes that have run over at the heels. Worn heels throw the ligaments of the legs out of alignment, weaken ankles, play the dickens with the health and well-being of feminine pedals.

Various small ornaments of decoration for the library and sun porch may be made from pipe stem cleaners and dipped in various colors of ink or dye. Animals, birds and objects of humorous design will delight the children.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introductions

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When meeting a young man who expresses his pleasure at having met you, what is the proper reply?

2. I drove a friend of mine to church recently and by chance met her boy friend. When leaving he said, of course, that he was very pleased to have met me. What is the proper reply in this case, to old or young?

C.

1. First we say "Thank you" when a person makes this pleasant comment. Then, since this seems a little unfinished, a little as if we acknowledge that the pleasure is only on the part of the other person, we add, "I am very glad to meet you too, Mr. Baldwin," or "It is a great pleasure to have met you too," or "Thank you. It has been such a joy to talk with you about California (or some topic on which perhaps you have had special chat)."

Shower Plans

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

If you have a friend who was married secretly and you are the only person who knows it, and then she makes up her mind for you to announce it, do you invite her closest friends? Not knowing many of her closest friends, would it be proper to send them invitations?

M.

It would seem that, since you were the friend who was entrusted with this special secret, it would be most appropriate for you to be the one to plan the shower, if you wish to give one. It would be proper for you to invite the bride's close friends, but I suggest that you do not let your list become too inclusive, for showers really should be given only for groups of intimate friends.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Obeys Dicky's Command to 'Tell All'

If it had not been for the touch of whimsicality belying the sternness of Dicky's eyes, I do not think I could have mustered up the courage to answer his command to "come clean with the dope on the old Chink's predilection for you." Even as it was, I was sufficiently panic-stricken to hide behind evasion.

"What would you like me to say?" I asked demurely, forcing a smile.

"None of that!" he retorted. "There's some reason for the old boy's acting up this way, and I want it."

Suddenly it was given me to know that anything less than the whole truth as I had learned it would be futile, as well as unworthy of me. I raised my eyes and looked at my husband steadily.

"You won't like it when I tell you the reason, it's so perfectly fantastic," I said. "I loathed it, but I can't help an ignorant Oriental's viewpoint."

Dicky's eyebrows narrowed into a frown.

"I think I can guess what his viewpoint is," he said unpleasantly. "But I have a fancy for hearing it. I always did have a yen for rubbing salt into my wounds. So, out with it!"

"You asked for it, remember," I said, "and I don't think you ought to hold me responsible for it."

HUMOR TRIUMPHS

"Don't stall," he said irritably. "I'm not holding you responsible for anything. All I want is to get a slant on this old lad's mental processes. He has some sort of bee in his bonnet, and I'd like to interpret the buzzing."

I gathered up my courage, feeling a bit as if I were about to dive into an icy pool.

"I can best tell you in the man's own words," I said. "He said that he would only translate the letter to the 'plitty lady who belongs to boss man Lee Chow.'"

My courage oozed away with the utterance of the last word and, to my horror, I felt my cheeks burning and my voice trembling. How I managed to keep my eyes steadily fixed upon him I do not know, for the temptation to look almost anywhere else was almost overpowering. But, fortunately, my glance did not waver and I caught the full force of the fierce, jealous anger which leaped to Dicky's eyes.

"What! He dared—? You—? Well! I'll be——" His voice was raucous, spluttering, but at his last words the anger suddenly died out of it, and I realized that even as my humiliation, when first hearing the ridiculous speech of the Chinese, had given place to amusement, so was his keen sense of humor triumphing over his justifiable anger.

Prudently I made no attempt to answer him. I simply focused my will power upon the well-nigh impossible task of keeping my eyes fixed upon his, and bringing into them a faint glimmer to show in his own frankness—that had been the card I had played. I must pin my faith to it; must not weaken my play by hedging.

It seemed hours that I waited, with my eyes looking steadily into his; but in reality it was only a few seconds before the stern lines around Dicky's mouth relaxed and his lips quirked into a grin.

AMUSED EXASPERATION

"It's lucky for you," he said, "that you married a man with a funny bone in his elbow. Many wives have been beaten up with thoroughness and dispatch upon less provocation than is mine in this spiel of Lee Chow's henchman—'Plitty lady b'long Lee Chow boss man!'" His voice dripped amused exasperation as he added, "If that isn't a pleasant line for a loving husband's ears, then I've never heard one."

"Look here!" His voice was suddenly stern again. "Do you think that's this chap's own pet delusion, or does Lee Chow share the same fond belief and did he pass it on to the goof?"

"You ought to be ashamed of that speech," I told him hotly. "If you'll think it out, you'll remember that this wounded man was Lee Chow's messenger when he came to me with the news of Hugh's disappearance. As you know very well, Lee Chow only sent him because he knew of no other friend of Hugh's, and he dared not trust Hugh's family."

LILLIAN CALLS

"Lucky he had that much sense, or Hugh wouldn't be alive today," Dicky commented, with an evident remembrance of the villainy that Hugh's stepmother had planned, and which had been thwarted by the trip that Lillian and I made in search of the missing man.

"Well," he went on with another reluctant grin, "I suppose all this originated in this aboriginal brain across the hall, and I'm a fool for letting it get under my skin. But let me warn you, woman! When Lee Chow and his boss man get here, don't let me—"

Katie's voice shrilled an interruption to his half humorous threat. In our absorption we had paid no attention to the telephone, although we heard it ringing. But my little maid's message compelled my immediate attention.

"Missis Graham, Missis Graham," she said breathlessly, as she came up to us. "Missis Underwood, she on long distance, vant spik to you right off qveeck."

MONESSEN CUTS LIGHT COSTS

MONESSEN, Pa., June 24.—Monessen wants to save money. The latest economy move here was announced when two traffic lights were turned off for an indefinite period. Chief of Police John W. Luksich said there were two reasons, one for economy's sake and the other, for lack of traffic.

The lights are located at the Monessen highway junction and Schoonmaker avenue and the other at Ninth street and Knox avenue.

Other economy measures instituted here during the past month included half-time for the city engineer, street commissioner and a second 10 per cent reduction in salaries from Mayor Carl Woodward and councilmen to street department laborers.

BROKER SCALDS TO DEATH IN TUB

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Raymond H. Allen, 54, clubman and broker, died yesterday from burns suffered when he fell into a tub of hot water in the apartment of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Van Riper.

At the Allen apartment, servants said that Mrs. Allen was prostrated by the death of her husband. An advertisement signed with Allen's name appeared Wednesday in which it was stated the broker would not be responsible for further debts contracted by his wife.

Allen was a member of the firm of Allen & Carstens, brokers for Logan & Co., and maintained offices at 42 Broadway. Employes of the firm refused to discuss his death.

Mine Students Cancel Trip to Kentucky

Pittsburgh members of the Pittsburgh chapter of the Students Bureau for Miners Relief have been too "hard hit" by present economic struggles to join the national student coal conference in Harlan County, Ky., scheduled for Saturday, according to Howard Oshry, Carnegie Tech student and executive secretary of the group.

Oshry made this statement today in explaining why plans for a Pittsburgh group to participate in the conference, were dropped.

PHILLIES LEAD ALL IN SERIES WINS

WHILE BURT SHOTTON'S Phillies were furnishing the real surprise of the National League's latest intersectional series by winning more games than any other club of either the East or West, the Pirates, though merely breaking even in 12 contests, made a better showing than any rival Western outfit on the Eastern cruise. The Cardinals won five and lost seven on the journey ended yesterday, the Cubs won six and lost eight, and the Reds won seven and lost 10. Of the Eastern clubs, which won the series 31 games to 24, the Phillies won 11 and lost six, the Giants won nine and lost four, the Dodgers won eight and lost five, and the Braves won three and lost nine.

Burt Shotton

With three Eastern clubs—the Yankees, Athletics and Senators—representing the class of the American League, it's rather surprising to find the West winning an intersectional series, but that was the outcome of the one just completed. The West took the honors, 34 games to 31, the success of the three strong Eastern teams winning 29 out of 49 games being offset by the feeble showing of the Red Sox, who lost 14 games while winning only two. The Yanks won 11 and lost five, to lead all, the A's won 10 and lost seven, and the Senators won eight and lost eight. The Browns topped the West with 11 won and six lost, the Tigers won nine and lost seven, the Indians broke even in 16, and the White Sox won six and lost 10.

THE FATE OF the Pirates, in the opinion of Manager George Gibson, is in the hands of three youngsters—Earl Grace, Tony Piet and Floyd Vaughan. Every championship club must have a good catcher and a good combination around the midway, and the Bucs, strangely, have new men in all three positions.

Gibby's view is that if Piet and Vaughan develop into a good combination and Grace continues to improve until he has established himself as a first-class catcher, there will be a chance for the Bucs to finish not merely in the first division, but very close to the top.

THE PIRATE SKIPPER is greatly pleased at the way all three players have performed so far. He says they have improved steadily, and points to that as one of the big reasons why the Bucs have climbed so high after being in the cellar.

The improvement of Vaughan and Piet in particular is gratifying to Gibson, and considering the vast difference between the kind of competition they knew in the Western League just a year ago and the kind they are up against now, he says they can't be given too much credit for what they have done for the Bucs.

THEIR SECOND ROUND of success against the Western clubs of the American League, this time away from home on the trip just completed, has left the Yankees more confident than ever that they will be able to hold first place to the finish. Joe McCarthy's dope at the start was that to win the flag the Yanks' task would be to hold the Senators and A's even and beat the Western teams. How capably the New Yorkers have attended to that job may be judged from the fact that against the Macks and Johnsons they have won 14 while losing 13, and that against the West they have won 20 out of 25, besides taking nine out of 10 from the Red Sox. Only a complete form reversal can keep the Yanks from going right on through.

Floyd Vaughan

THAT FLOYD VAUGHAN will be the best shortstop in the National League in one more year is the opinion expressed by Max Carey, Brooklyn manager. Veteran Dodgers agree with him. "He's not the best shortstop in our league now," Carey said, "but if he isn't the best next season I'll miss my guess.

"All that Vaughan lacks is experience. He has form, is fast, can field, and has a powerful throwing arm. He strikes me as the kind of player that will improve in batting, and when he does he'll be the best shortstop in the National League. He's going up to the top of the list, and I do not think anything will stop him."

THOUGH IT IS with no great pride that the questionable decision given to Jack Sharkey over Max Schmeling is added to the list, that makes a total of six victories for American fighters against six defeats and two draws in 14 international battles for the heavyweight championship.

The first was in 1860, when John C. Heenan, American, fought 42 rounds to a draw with Tom Sayers, of England. Two years later, Heenan was defeated by Tom King, of England, in 24 rounds.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN, American, fought Charley Mitchell, of England, 39 rounds to a draw, in 1889. All of these fights were bare-knuckle affairs. The first international battle for the championship with gloves, following the dethronement of Sullivan by another American, came in 1894, when Jim Corbett, American, stopped Charley Mitchell, of England, in the third round. In 1897, Bob Fitzsimmons, England and Australia, knocked out Corbett in the fourteenth round, and in 1899, Fitzsimmons was stopped in the eleventh round by Jim Jeffries, American.

IN 1906, TOMMY BURNS, Canadian, defeated Marvin Hart, American, and a year later Burns also defeated Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, each in 20 rounds. In 1908, Jack Johnson, American, won over Burns, in 1914.

In 1921, Jack Dempsey, American, stopped Georges Carpentier, of France, in the fourth round, and in 1923, knocked out Luis Angel Firpo, Argentina, in the second round. In 1930, Max Schmeling, Germany, won against Jack Sharkey, American, on a foul in the fourth round, and in 1931, stopped Young Stribling, American, in 15 rounds.

THOUGH THINGS LOOK pretty safe for the United States in the Olympic high jump, with Howard Spencer, the Geneva College Negro star, and Bill O'Connor, of Columbia, backing up George Spitz, holder of the world record of 6 feet, 8¼ inches, the running broad jump threatens to be something else again.

Ed Hamm

The opposition to be encountered there is more than formidable. On the strength of comparative marks made to date, the odds would appear to be against this country's getting anything better than second place.

AMERICA HAS WON the running broad jump in every Olympic carnival except that of 1920, when it went to William Petterssen, of Sweden. Even the Olympic record is held by an American, as Ed Hamm set it at 25 feet, 4¼ inches in 1928. But rivals have come forward rapidly during the last year or two, particularly Japan. Chuhei Nambu, of that country, has done 26 feet 2½ inches and S. Caitor, of Haiti, has done 26 feet, ⅛ inch, and inasmuch as those marks are almost a foot better than Hamm's record, there would seem to be all kinds of trouble in store for Uncle Sam's broad jumpers, particularly as the best American showing made recently was Lambert Redd's 25 feet 6¾ inches in the National Collegiates. And there's other tough opposition in sight, too. Japan has two additional men capable of doing well over 24 feet, Germany has three, Hungary two, and Ireland, Argentina, Holland and Poland one each. Broad jumping has advanced. The mark of 24 feet, 5⅛ inches, with which De Hart Hubbard won in the 1924 Olympics, wouldn't even win a place this summer.

CLARK SECOND, CREAVY THIRD AT FLUSHING

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y., June 24. — (AP.) — Lighthorse Harry Cooper, veteran Chicago professional, staged a comeback in the second round of the United States open golf championship today, adding a 73, only three over par, to his initial 77 for a 36-hole total of 150.

CLARK, CREAVY RALLY

Showing even a bigger reversal of form, Tom Creavy, of Albany, N. Y., 21-year-old holder of the national professional championship, gave par a real battle and added a fine 71 to his first round 83 for a total of 154.

Clark and Creavy both staged magnificent comebacks after finishing the first round 10 and 14 strokes, respectively, back of the first round leader, Olin Dutra, of Brentwood, Cal., who had 69.

The favorites, all playing in the afternoon, were paced by Leo Diegel, whose 73 held second place yesterday. Gene Sarazen, Billy Burke, Jose Jurado, Walter Hagen and Dutra followed in that order.

PARKS, O'HARA TIE AT 159

Fine comebacks after faltering rounds yesterday indicated that Sam Parks, Jr., and Peter O'Hara, two Pittsburgh district stars, would be among the low 60 and ties who will be permitted to continue play in the last 36 holes tomorrow.

Parks, former Highland amateur star, now pro at Uniontown, Pa., added a 78 to his 81 of yesterday for a total of 159, and O'Hara, pro at Westmoreland, added a 76 to his first round 83 for 159.

Rader Jewett, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Jack Thompson, of Youngstown, O., shot themselves out of the tournament with totals of 166 and 169, respectively. Jewett had an 85 today, and Thompson had 82.

COURSE SHORTENED

While Bob MacDonald, of Chicago, was playing the last nine, telegraphic word was received that his mother had died in Dayton, O. Friends waited for him to finish before delivering the message.

The long, difficult fifth hole, where many hopes were sunk yesterday, was shortened from 578 to 506 yards by moving the tee well forward. This figured to cut strokes off most of the scores.

Under the conditions, the semi-official guess was that at least probably 160 and probably 162

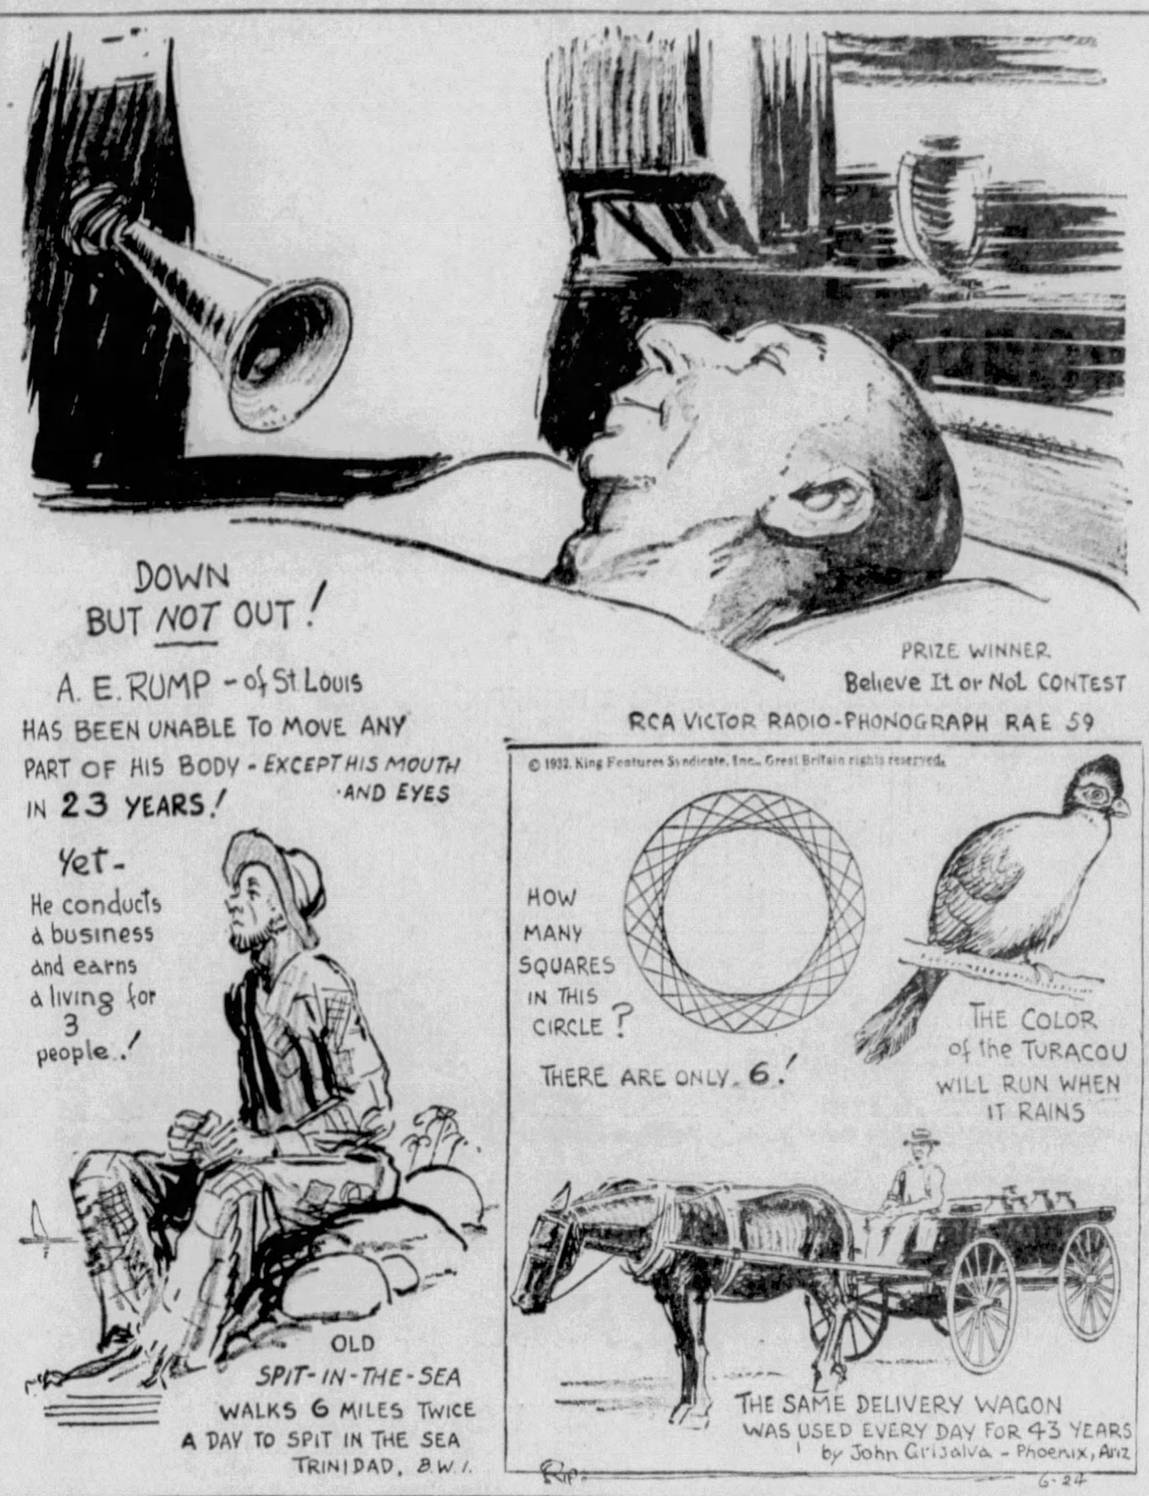
BELIEVE IT OR NOT

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

By RIPLEY

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)



EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE CHAMPION RICE WRITER—E. L. Blystone, of Ardara, Pa., broke all records and succeeded in writing 2,871 letters on a single grain of rice, winning a Rockne Six Sedan offered in the National "Believe It Or Not" contest. Blystone met with an accident on a railroad when he was 18 years old, breaking his hip, both pelvic bones, right arm and left ankle, and four fingers were amputated from his left hand. Doctors gave him only a few hours to live, but, slightly more than a month later, he walked from the hospital unassisted, and, a year later, he was playing baseball with an artificial hand of his own construction. A few years ago, Blystone broke the existing rice writing records by writing more than 1,200 letters on a single grain. Soon thereafter he set another record of 1,620 letters on a grain—the record contained in my second "Believe It or Not" book. Now he placed 2,871 letters on one grain by writing the word "coin" 707 times, his name and address and the year. The grain of rice and the pen and magnifying glass with which it was made are on exhibition in the "Believe It Or Not Odditorium." WHICH DO YOU PREFER, THREE ORANGES TWO INCHES IN DIAMETER OR ONE ORANGE THREE INCHES IN DIAMETER?—One orange three inches in diameter is larger than three oranges two inches in diameter.

TOMORROW: ANOTHER NATIONAL CONTEST PRIZE WINNER.

Wheeling May Get S. Bend Franchise

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 24.—(AP.)—Unless the South Bend Central League club pays back salaries amounting to $1,500 by tomorrow the club franchise will be transferred to Wheeling, W. Va., it has been stated by E. O. Miller, representing F. W. Howell, president of the league.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 24.—(AP.)—Wheeling baseball officials said today they have no information concerning a proposal to transfer the South Bend Central League franchise to Wheeling.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The tumult and the shouting die, and gradually sanity replaces hysteria in the fistic realm . . . Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, recants his charges that his fighter was robbed of the world heavyweight championship, moving pictures of the battle reveal the fact that Jack Sharkey, going away, actually outscored the charging German, and the scribes who saw Schmeling as the real victor and the radio listeners are wondering what it was all about over in Long Island City last Tuesday night.

There is this to be said about the radio description of the bout . . . The story told by Charles Francis Coe, a former boxer and a good writer of boxing fiction stories, was the best technical description of an important boxing bout ever heard over the air, a great improvement over any previous effort. . . . However, it seemingly erred in one respect, which was that it placed too much stress upon the fact that Schmeling was ever going forward, while Sharkey was breaking ground . . . Anyone familiar with the styles of the two men knows that Sharkey, an excellent boxer, can hit accurately, especially with his left hand, going away, while Schmeling, who constantly moves forward, does so in a weaving, bobbing manner, and does not hit until he gets to close quarters, and, as there admittedly was little clinching or close-range work in this fight, it may be readily appreciated that the German took a lot of punches and scored many fewer while chasing the retreating Sharkey . . . The movies of the battle are said to show Sharkey's superior scoring ability in no uncertain fashion.

Narrowed down, it would seem that the bout was decided by the tactics of the two men . . . All critics agree that Schmeling was boxing in better fashion than ever before . . . He was trying to outbox Sharkey, who is a master in this respect . . . In other bouts, in which he has been severely criticised for his strategy, Sharkey has dropped his boxing skill to try to outfight fighters . . . In Tuesday night's fight, he stuck strictly to his boxing knitting, and Schmeling foolishly tried to beat him at his own game . . . It is an old truth that the way to beat a boxer is to fight him and the way to beat a fighter is to box him . . . In other words, when the other fellow is a better boxer, fight him, and, if he is a better fighter, box him . . . When two fighters fight they slaughter each other, with the better fighter invariably winning, and when two boxers box the better boxer figures to win.

Schmeling added to his prestige no little when he ordered his loquacious manager, Joe Jacobs, to pipe down and quit squawking. Jacobs didn't have any standing in court with the fans, anyway. They remember that he took Schmeling away from the German manager who brought him to these shores and foul-claimed the title for Maxie in his first meeting with Sharkey and since has shown little regard for the rights of the fans. A manager is supposed to have sufficient diplomacy to smooth over the rough spots for his boxer, but in this case it ap-

DUKES, GENEVA SIGN PACT

By JESS CARVER

The Geneva-Duquesne football game, which has been one of the more tasty and financially worth while contests on the schedules of both institutions, is back in again for 1932 and will be played at Forbes Field Thanksgiving Day.

With the addition of Geneva to the card, the Dukes are confronted with a 10-game schedule, including major tussles with Pitt, West Virginia and Wash-Jeff. Five contests will be played at night, including the Westminister opener, the one with West Virginia, Grove City, Oglethorpe, W. Va. Wesleyan and Catholic University, the latter booked for Washington, D. C.

The Dukes and Covenanters have done the city a favor by getting themselves lined up for a Turkey Day clash for with the cancelling of the annual Pitt-Penn State fixture, due to Pitt's carding Stanford for the Saturday following, the folks here would have had to have gone without a collegiate ball game on the holiday, something the good burghers havn't had to do for y'ars and y'ars.

*September 16—Westminster College, here.
*September 23—West Virginia University, here.
*September 30—Grove City College, here.
October 8—University of Pittsburgh, Pitt Stadium.
*October 14—Oglethorpe University, here.
*October 21—West Virginia Wesleyan, here.
October 29—Permanently open.
November 5—Washington and Jefferson College, here.
November 11—South Dakota State College, here (Armistice Day).
*November 18—Catholic University at Washington, D. C.

*Indicates night games at Forbes Field.

MEINE, RIXEY MAY BATTLE ON MOUND

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Forbes Field will waft the welcome echo of baseball today after a long period of silence at the home of the Pirates. George Gibson's ambitious athletes will take on Dan Howley's Reds in a single contest this afternoon, the two clubs to offer a doubleheader tomorrow.

The Oaklanders gained some ground on the league-leading Cubs as the home boys relaxed yesterday. Chuck Klein and his Quaker playmates put the lads from Capone's home on the spot in the notorious Baker Bowl, and when the dust lifted the Bruins were sadly demoralized. Their defeat brought a full game gain for the runner-up Braves, who gained a victory over the Dodgers. The Pittsburgh host is only three games behind the Cubs.

CUB LEAD SMALL

It is worthy of note to mention that the Bears, in the honor position, have lost as many games as the Buccos. This situation means that their lead over the Freebooters is less than three games. To explain, if the Cubs lost three while the Pirates were winning three the home team would pass them. That's the kind of relativity the fan understands.

The greatest race in the National League's history is increasing in its intensity. The latest setback suffered by the leaders had a beneficial effect all along the line, the Cubs being but six and one-half games ahead of the cellar contenders from Cincinnati.

Heinie Meine is primed for the Reds this afternoon. The Prince of Luxemburg dealt off a classic in his last performance and he is expected to heckle the invaders as he tackles them on the home lot. Manager Howley sent all of his first string sharpshooters to Pittsburgh in advance of his barnstorming team. Eppa Rixey was among the pitchers forwarded post haste and the tall Virginian may get the assignment.

RIXEY BUC JINX

The lefthander of 20 years service has been a fly in the ointment for the Buccos. On two occasions he made our outfit look like a twilight league production. Eppa Jeppa seems to relish an offensive that features five lefthand batters, and he also gives the righthand boys plenty of trouble. If he makes a mess of us again today something ought to be done about it.

Indications point to a large turnout of children for the event of this afternoon. The Knothole Gang is expected to be out in full force. The inauguration of the idea was staged before the schools were dismissed, so that the occasion of today may be said to be the real thing.

Veteran Boxing Men Name Sharkey Victor

NEW YORK, June 24.—An interesting aftermath of the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling heavyweight championship fight of a few nights ago lies in the fact that although newspaper writers at the ringside were in a majority for Schmeling, veteran fight managers who witnessed the bout were almost unanimous that Sharkey had won. They pointed to the lefts he kept sticking into Schmeling's face, which, on the method of judging counted for as much as the harder blows the former champion drove to Jack's head.

This viewpoint apparently is borne out by the moving pictures of the fight, now being shown here, which show Sharkey scoring an amazing number of points in his retreating campaign against the ever boring-in Schmeling.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Well, folks, I've been studying that G. O. P. prohibition plank so hard they've got me writing with a pussy's foot myself.

Nick Altrock

So the way I dope the National League race is that I favor the Cards to cop, although the Brooklyns look like pennant winners to me, and it is my honest belief that nothing can stop the Cubs from landing the flag, whereas the Braves shouldn't finish lower than first place, but the Pirates are the best bet in the league.

Accordingly, I pick the Phillies to top the seven other clubs, with the Reds a cinch to sew up the pennant and the Giants my absolute choice as the National League champs. (That ought to satisfy all my constituents and get me renominated as a prophet.)

WOMEN SHARE GOLF LEAD AT ALLEGHENY

MISS FORDYCE, MISS M'KENZIE CARD 81S

By TOM BIRKS

Miss Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, O., and Miss Ada MacKenzie, of Toronto, Ontario, posted 18-hole scores of 81 each to pace early finishers in the seventh annual women's invitation golf tournament at the Allegheny Country Club today.

Miss Mary K. Browne, of Cleveland; Miss Fritzie Steifel, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Miss Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, nationally renowned stars regarded as title favorites, were tied at 83 for runner-up honors. Mrs. F. C. Letts, of Chicago, and Miss Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., other celebrated performers, had 86 and 84, respectively.

Miss Fordyce was extremely consistent as she went out in 40 and came home in 41. Her card:

Out ...4 5 4 5 5 4 6 4 3 5—40
In ....5 5 3 7 5 4 3 5 4—41—81

Miss MacKenzie was one stroke ahead of Miss Fordyce at the turn, but used up 42 strokes on the in nine. Her card:

Out ...4 6 4 4 4 6 4 4 3—39
In ....4 4 4 6 4 6 3 5 6—42—81

MRS. ROSE WITHDRAWS

Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, home club star, withdrew this morning when her physician decided that she was not sufficiently recovered from an attack of grip to engage in the competition.

The tournament will be concluded with a second 18-hole round tomorrow. The scores:

SHANNOPIN VICTOR

Shannopin regained possession of the coveted Grogan Cup yesterday by defeating Highland, 102 to 64 in the second-half of the annual two-match series for the trophy. Highland won the first half earlier in the campaign, but yesterday, over the Shannopin links, the home team erased the Highlanders lead and went on to win.

In the mixed foursome competition at South Hills, Enos Kirkpatrick and Mrs. H. C. Baxmeier led the field with a low gross score of 92-13—79. Updegraff and Miss May Graham had a low net of 95-20—75. John Graham and Mrs. Frank Hoffman had a low gross of 93, and Mrs. George Schwarzel and Jack Benson a tally of 94.

MARKS WINS MEDAL

GREENSBURG, June 24.—Billy Marks, of Kiski, Eastern intercollegiate champion, won the qualifying medal in the annual Westmoreland County golf championship tournament, which got under way here yesterday, with a fine 37-38—75. J. A. Robertshaw, of the Greensburg Country Club, trailed Marks by a stroke with two rounds of 38.

J. W. Crookston, former state and West Penn champion, finished third with 77.

Other qualifiers in the championship fight were:

J. F. Latterat, Greensburg, 78; Asa Taylor, Greensburg, 78; Paul Euwer, Greensburg, 80; L. Sasso, Hannastown, 84; H. L. Walley, Hillcrest, 85; H. P. Ryan, Greensburg, 86; Tom Underwood, Latrobe, 86; J. C. Rutherford, Greensburg, 87; E. A. McDonough, Greensburg, 88; L. B. Smith, Greensburg, 88.

School Net Finals Under Way Today

City scholastic tennis competition, which got under way June 13, will be concluded on the Pitt courts this afternoon, when R. Madden, of Schenley, and Hess, of Allerdice, meet in the senior final, and Hurst, of Allerdice, and Lambert, of South Hills, clash for the junior title.

ED BARNEY, FORMER PIRATE, NOW DORMONT POLICEMAN

A sergeant on the Dormont police force, Barney, former Pirate and member of other major and minor league clubs, takes time out to comment that baseball these days is too highly commercialized. He has been out of the sport for some time, but says they played harder for less in his time. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

When the boxers weighed in before the fight and it was discovered that Schmeling was below weight at 188 pounds and Sharkey overweight at 205, for a difference of 17 pounds between them, there were many expressions of misgiving for Schmeling . . . "He's overtrained," was the cry . . . Far from it . . . . Give me a lean and hungry or desperate fighter any time in preference to one who is fat and heavy and obviously too confident and well satisfied . . . . The lean, haggard fighter generally is the one who is on edge and ready for the fight of his life, while the overfed one is apt to be slow and dull . . . . That Schmeling was in fine condition at the weight is attested by the fact that following 15 rounds of dogged marching after his opponent he still was fresh and strong, while Sharkey, the winner, appeared, according to reports, to be tired and spent.

The lean, hungry Dempsey against the giant, fat Jess Willard, at Toledo, was a man-killer . . . . In no later fight, when he had plenty, did Dempsey ever show to the same advantage . . . . Willard himself when broke and desperate was a good fighter . . . . Later, when living a life of ease and luxury as champion, he was a tramp as a fighter . . . These are only two examples to prove the point . . . . There are many others that could be cited, and in all walks of life—HARRY KECK.

Paul Gets Close Win Over Milling

YANKEE HELENS ADVANCE AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24. — (AP.) — Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, seeking her fifth Wimbledon tennis singles title, advanced to the quarter-final round today with an easy 6-3, 6-0 victory over Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, a former great of the English courts. Mrs. Moody has not lost a set in her parade through the field.

Helen Jacobs, America's second ranking woman player, advanced to the last eight of the championships with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Mrs. C. H. Jameson, of England, in the fourth round.

Frank Shields, American Davis cup player and his South African partner, P. D. B. Spence, defeated the English pair of Nigel Sharpe and J. D. P. Wheatley, 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 in a first-round doubles match.

The former Wimbledon champions and United States cup doubles team of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn won their second-round match handily from A. Brown and R. K. Tinkler, of England, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Betty Nuthall, one of England's leading women players and a former American champion, defeated Sarah Palfrey, of the United States Wightman cup team, 8-6, 9-7, to advance to the quarter finals.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., and Gregory Mangin, representing the International Tennis Club, of New York, won a second round doubles match from the Spanish-English combination of Ernest Maier and H. F. Fisher, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Ellsworth Vines, Jr., American champion, defeated I. Aoki, Japanese Davis Cup team member, in a hard four set match in the fourth round, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

1933 Open Carded At Glen View, Ill

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y., June 24.—(INS.)—The 1933 national open golf championship will be held at the North Shore Golf Club, Glen View, Ill., H. H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association, announced today.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the executive committee last night. The date of the tournament will be decided later.

'CHASE ENTRY KILLED

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 24.—Bibu, blooded steeplechaser of the Gendarmes, Lieut. N. S. Scava's show organization, and his best bet in the steeplechase to be staged here over a two-mile course, July 4, was instantly killed last night. The animal was finishing a workout over the last four-foot hurdle, with Paul Defoor up, when he landed crooked, pitched headlong and broke his neck.

The steeplechase, with entries from Bradford, Ridgway, Indiana, Pittsburgh and Greensburg, will be run despite the loss of this valuable animal. The race is to be run under National Jockey Association rules, with a $500 purse to the winner.

Lou Gehrig Ties Joe Sewell's Mark

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—(AP.)—Lou Gehrig, New York Yankee first baseman, tied the second best major league record for long service yesterday when he played in his 1,103rd consecutive game for the Yankees. He still has more than a season to go before he can equal the record of Everett Scott of 1,307 games in succession made with the Red Sox and Yankees.

The record of 1,103 was set by Joe Sewell with Cleveland and the Yankees.

Goose Goslin played a big part in the Browns' 13-10 victory over the Yanks yesterday. The Goose hit three homers to account for seven runs. Babe Ruth hit his twenty-second and Gehrig his eighteenth in the same game.

BIEHL COPS MEDAL

PROBE DEMAND IN TITLE GO IGNORED

said that many outraged boxing fans had paid their compliments to the boxing commission in the form of telegrams and letters containing bitter accusations. Other receivers of the national squawk were the sixty-odd radio stations on the National Broadcasting Company's hookup Tuesday night.

A development was the silencing of the heavy conversational guns with which Jacobs has been thundering his alleged exposes of the methods by which Schmeling was "maneuvered" out of the title.

LOSER STOPS FUSS

It was at Schmeling's own request that his manager "piped down." During all the shouting the man who had the most to lose has preserved his sportsmanship. He says:

"I think I won, but it will do no good to make any fuss. I have asked Joe to stop complaining. It could be an honest mistake. I believe all three of the men who judged the fight were honest in their opinions."

Schmeling has decided to return to Germany as soon as he can straighten out his income tax account.

Gunboat Smith, the referee, and George Kelly, the judge under fire, could not be induced to make any detailed statements. They explained that there is a rule against boxing officials discussing their decisions. However, Smith was not under the collar and talked of hauling Jacobs up on libel charges.

RADIO CURB HINTED

Though not admitted by Gen. John J. Phelan, who spoke for the commission, it is probable that steps will be taken to restrict the ringside broadcasting of fights in New York to experts in such affairs, possibly licensed referees and judges who filled these roles during the early days of broadcasting.

Those who take the Sharkey side of the controversy insist that the weight of protest comes from out of town radio fans who were not given both sides of the ring picture. This faction contends that the 70,000 who saw the fight were about evenly divided in their opinions but that the vast radio audience got only one version.

Fight Results

SENATORS GAIN ON KNIGHTS

Charleston pulled up to within one game of the league-leading Beckley Black Knights in the Middle Atlantic League yesterday by defeating Huntington Boosters, 6 to 5, at Charleston. Meanwhile, Johnstown was turning the tables on the Knights, defeating them at Johnstown, 7 to 6.

In the third league fray, Clarksburg defeated Cumberland, 6 to 3.

"Aim Is Only 10% of Billiards"

"True aim is only the starting point of a billiard champion," says the wizard of 18.2 balkline. "Eye—to guide that aim; nerves—to keep it steady under stress; touch and timing—to control it; endurance—to combat fatigue; and above all, a chess brain—to see ahead and plan accordingly; all these are equally essential. To get your name in the record-book, you've got to have everything!"

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Latter-round hostilities in women's singles and men's, women's, and mixed doubles monopolize this afternoon's program of action in the forty-fourth annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships in progress since last Saturday on the courts of the Stanton Heights Golf Club.

In the feminine semi-final singles event, Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. star and defending titleholder, encounters Dorothy Jarvis, Allegheny Country Club contender and victor in the 1927 and 1930 tourneys, while Mrs. Jean Artzberger, twice winner of the Pittsburgh Public Parks crown, battles Dorothy Anderson, hard-hitting Butlerite.

Quarter-final jousting in men's doubles begins at 2:30 o'clock, though it'll be quite late before it is finished, as Drs. Billy McElroy and Dave O'Loughlin, 1931 premiers, and the Beaver Falls pair, Johnny Hecker and Stewart Snodgrass, are a round behind the field and must tangle at 3:30 o'clock for the right to meet the Rineharts at 4:30.

WOMEN TEAMS CLASH

A promising penultimate women's doubles affair is billed for 3 p. m., when Helen Carson and Catherine Cole, clever Greensburg Country Club duo, skirmish with Miss Jarvis and her clubmate, Nancy Lee Byers, for opportunity to contest for final honors tomorrow with Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown ace, and Miss Sullivan. Meanwhile, mixed doubles cavorting will be on the bill from 3:30 till the dinner hour.

Semi-finals in men's singles will be held over till tomorrow, when Champion Bill Haseltine, Philadelphia crack, tilts with Dr. John O'Loughlin, top ranking Pittsburgher, and R. F. Arkle, Wheeling flash, tries conclusions with Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, West Penn conqueror in 1925 and 1926. The summary:

Men's Singles.

Fifth round—William P. Haseltine defeated M. C. Rinehart, 7-5, 6-3; Dr. John L. O'Loughlin defeated Paul Barber, 6-0, 5-7, 6-0; R. F. Arkle defeated Leonard W. Reed, 6-1, 6-3; Dr. David L. O'Loughlin defeated Sam Harbison, 9-7, 2-6, 7-5.

Women's Singles.

Third round—Dorothy Anderson defeated Margaret Carspecken, 6-3, 7-5; Mrs. Jean Artzberger defeated Helen Carson, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4; Miriam E. Sullivan defeated Elda Jones, 6-0, 6-1; Dorothy Jarvis defeated Christine Ruoff, 6-1, 6-1.

Men's Doubles.

Second round, lower half—Dr. William R. McElroy and Dr. David L. O'Loughlin defeated Arthur J. Glaser and Jack Redmond, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3; John Hecker and Stewart Snodgrass defeated Robert C. Schmertz and Charles A. Woods, Jr., 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

Third round, upper half—R. F. Arkle and Dr. John L. O'Loughlin defeated John F. Brown and Neal G. Rumsey, 6-1, 6-3; Gilbert Morcroft and Crosby Leyda defeated Rugus Hartig and Ben Bloom, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4; Sam Harbison and Charles Lockhart defeated Harry Wald and Edgar Alcorn, 6-3, 6-3.

Lower half—M. C. Rinehart and H. M. Rinehart defeated George Buchanan and Don Fields, 6-1, 6-1; Leonard W. Reed and Frank S. Smith defeated W. McCook Reed and Paul DeF. Hicks, 6-4, 7-5; Dr. R. E. Peterson and James Slocum defeated John D. Beatty and William R. Spindler, 6-3, 8-6.

Women's Doubles.

Mixed Doubles.

First round, lower half—Helen Carson and E. T. Hammer won from Mrs. Jean Artzberger and Gilbert Morcroft by default.

Second round, upper half — Margaret Carspecken and R. F. Arkle defeated Caroline Churilla and Edgar Alcorn, 6-1, 6-2.

PETROLLE GETS TITLE SHOT

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—That title chance battle-scarred Billy Petrolle has been looking for finally has arrived.

The Duluth veteran, who takes on lightweights, junior welterweights and full-fledged welterweights with equal unconcern, has been matched for a 15-round bout against Tony Canzoneri in Madison Square Garden's new outdoor bowl, August 8, with Canzoneri's lightweight crown at stake.

George Lott Loses To Young Star

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP.)—Frankie Parker, Milwaukee's 16-year-old boy wonder of the clay courts, was still climbing the ladder of tennis fame today.

A great five-set victory over George Lott, of Chicago, the second ranking star of the United States in the quarter-finals of the Western singles championship yesterday was the latest notch in the Milwaukee youth's racquet. The triumph marked his second in three battles against Lott this year and marked him as one of the finest prospects since the boyhood romp of Vincent Richards.

Parker, playing in nickers and barelegged, amazed te gallery at the Western championships yesterday in upsetting Lott after a thrilling battle of wits and shots, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Court Rule Body To Adopt Changes

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Although it took a lot of discussion before a decision was reached, the executive committee of the Joint Basketball Rules Committee has decided to adhere to the changes made in the basketball rules made at the annual meeting last April.

The two disputed points, the 10-second rule and the curb on the so-called "block pivot play" will be incorporated in the basketball code for the 1932-33 season. Some six hours were given to consideration of various points brought up by coaches at yesterday's meeting.

Dallas Golf Stars Reach Semi-Finals

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 24.—(AP.)—Paced by Gus Moreland, twice amateur champion of Texas, a Dallas contingent of Moreland, Charles Dexter and Dave Goldman won its way to the semi-finals of the thirty-second annual Trans-Mississippi golf tournament here yesterday, along with little Paul Jackson, of Kansas City.

In overwhelming Pete Jordan, of Des Moines, 12 and 11, Moreland set a new course record of 63, seven under par. He meets the veteran Dexter for the first time in major tournament competition today.

U. S. Women Stars Lead Canuck Golfers

WINNIPEG, Manibota, June 24.—(AP.)—American golfers gave par a closer battle yesterday than Western Canadian women stars and the team of eight players from the United States mid-west won the first international series here. The Canadians cannot overcome the 16½ point lead now held by the visitors in the concluding singles matches today.

The women stars played against par, the U. S. team starting with a lead of 9 to 2½ obtained earlier in foursome matches.

WCAE to Broadcast Walker-Risko Bout

The Mickey Walker-Johnny Risko 12-round bout in Cleveland tonight will be broadcast by WCAE over a national hookup, beginning at 10:45 o'clock and continuing through 11:30.

James J. Long, sports columnist of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be heard in his weekly sports revue over WCAE at 7 p. m.

YALE, HARVARD SPLIT CREW RACES

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 24.—(AP.)—Yale and Harvard split even in the first two races of the seventieth regatta between the two famous universities on the Thames today.

Yale won the opening event, the freshman race, by three lengths, but Harvard came back to win the junior varsity by a length.

Both races were rowed over a course of a mile and a half, instead of the customary two miles, because of a stiff head wind that made for rough water conditions and forced delay in the morning program for nearly two hours. Harvard's junior varsity rowed a beautiful race against the Elis' second boat. The Crimson pulled into an early lead, but were overhauled by the Blue before the half mile post was reached.

Yale still was leading at the mile post, but a moment later the Harvard stroke stepped up the beat and the Crimson shell quickly pulled into the lead again.

When Harvard's advantage had reached a length the two crews raced the distance as one, and after the finish the cantabs still had their one length lead.

The unofficial time was 8 minutes, with Yale 4 seconds slower.

After the first quarter mile, Yale made a parade of the freshman race, the Elis assumed command before the mile post was reached and then pulled away rapidly from the Crimson in the last half mile.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Pittsburgh went on the federal tax system in boxing last night, when all holders of paid and complimentary tickets, including working newspapermen, and excepting employes of the club, had to begin paying 10 per cent revenue to help balance the national budget. The show was staged at Hickey Park, Millvale.

The crowd was small, but it got quite a kick out of seeing Employe No. 8, alias Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion of the world, knock out Employe No. 7, better known as Lee Sala, up-and-coming young middleweight, of Donora (until then, after which he became down and going), after only 1 minute 18 seconds of the opening round in the scheduled 10-round main bout.

Freeman has a date to box Roy Williams in the semi-final to the Mickey Walker-Johnny Risko battle in Cleveland tonight, and he was in no mood to dally around and shoot craps with the other employes last night. He sailed right into the fighting shoemaker at the clang of the gong with his awl and made it stick to the last.

BOUT ENDS IN HURRY

Freeman's first punch to the body hurt Lee, and Tommy continued the barrage with both fists in close, Sala being unable to block the blows. Then, as they squared off again, Tommy ended it with a left hook to the body that almost came out through the back, and Lee crumbled in a heap in midring for the full count. In fact, it was a couple of minutes later before he could be assisted to his corner, following the ministrations of seconds to relieve his agony. Having done the damage, Freeman, always the gentleman, stuck around to render valuable assistance.

It was Tommy's second victory in recent weeks in the Millvale ring. He defeated Buck McTiernan in 10 rounds there and is fighting in much better form than he did in his last days as a welterweight. He scaled 158½ pounds against Sala's 156¼.

CISNEROS BEATS WILSON

Employe No. 6, Chico Cisneros, of Cleveland, stablemate of Freeman, won the referee's decision over Jackie Wilson, speedy local Negro featherweight, Employe No. 5, in the first 10-rounder, a hard battle, which saw Jackie wilt under Chico's body pounding and forcing tactics after building up a lead in the early rounds.

Cisneros, fighting back from the handicap of a badly cut eye as the result of a bumping of heads at the very start, carried all of the last six rounds and had Jackie on the run and holding at every opportunity. The winner had a five-pound pull in the weights, plus greater experience.

Judge Jock Simco voted for Wilson as the winner and Judge Joe Zivic for Cisneros, leaving it up to Referee Red Robinson's verdict to decide the issue.

ANOTHER KNOCKOUT

Between Rounds

An open-air boxing show for the benefit of the needy of the community will be staged by St. Peter's A. A. in its arena in the St. Peter's School grounds, back of the North Side Police Station, tonight. Seven bouts are scheduled.

John P. Murphy is the new manager of Sammy Burns, Negro lightweight, of the Hill district, who has fought some good battles during his short professional career.

Johnny Hayes, who boxes Ted Yarosz at Hickey's Park, Millvale, next Thursday night, has met Billy Petrolle, Vince Dundee, Eddie Kan and other good ones and has been training here two weeks for a chance to break in.

Jules Beck, matchmaker for Greenlee Field, is at work on his preliminary card for his Lew Massey-Ray Miller show next Wednesday night. Tony Herren meets Eddie (Kid) Wolfe and Battling Gizzy opposes Lew Feldman in 10-rounders at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night. The Herrera-Wolfe battle being a return engagement.

Seeded Stars Lose In Greensburg Play

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 24.—Upsets of seeded players featured the quarter finals in the annual Greater Greensburg tennis tournament yesterday, four falling by the wayside.

Ralph Kelly won over Al Peacox, seeded No. 1, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, and Theodore Hammer defeated D. R. Hixon, seeded No. 2, 0-6, 6-3, 6-2. Bill Seiders, seeded No. 4, lost to Ora Fox, 8-6, 11-9. Don Snyder, seeded No. 3, was the only favorite to win, defeating Bob Kneedler, 6-3, 6-4. Semi-final matches in the singles will be played today. Yesterday's doubles matches follow:

Thomas-Brunet defeated Rodgers-Keefner, 6-3, 7-5; Keely-S. Hibbs defeated W. Hibbs-Ehrenfeld, 6-2, 6-1; Fox-Shupe defeated Page-Mash, 6-3, 6-4; Snyder-Hixon defeated Dursline-Gill, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

INDIANS GET STADIUM

CLEVELAND, June 24.—(AP.)—Leasing of the Cleveland Municipal Stadium to the Cleveland American League baseball team was approved by the City Council last night, but doubt remained whether the Indians will play there this season. The lease failed to get a two-thirds vote, hence will not take effect for 40 days.

The OLYMPIC GAMES

By Lawson Robertson
Head Coach American Olympic Teams

Following the Olympic Games in the track and field events, which will be completed on Sunday, August 7, the American athletes will keep in training for the dual meet between the United States and the British Empire, which takes place at San Francisco on Sunday, August 14.

This will be the fifth meeting of these two great English-speaking countries. In each of the four previous clashes, America has won handily. Three of these meets were held in London—one in 1920, following the seventh Olympiad at Antwerp, another following the Paris Olympics and the third one week after the games at Amsterdam. The fourth took place in Chicago in 1930 at Soldier Field and the invaders again were repulsed.

TEAM EVENTS AND RELAYS

The British empire on each occasion put forth its full strength in her best athletes from Great Britain, Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. And while the competition always has been keen in the running races, the United States always has had a distinct edge in the field events.

The competition is unique in that the races are team events or relays, and so also are the events for jumpers and throwers. For example, in 1928 in London, America won the high jump with an aggregate score of 18 feet 9 inches, which meant that our three jumpers averaged 6 feet 3 inches as against the empire leapers, who chalked up 18 feet 5 inches. In a similar manner, the broad jumpers from the United States scored a win in their specialty with 71 feet 9 inches, an average of nearly 24 feet per man.

This team competition provides an element which makes for more interest in groups rather than contesting in individual championships in each event for each nation.

WORLD RECORDS BEATEN

Several world records have fallen at these great meetings and at the conclusion of the games a joint banquet is held and friendly relationships are established.

The events which already have comprised the program are as follows: Four hundred-yard relay race (four men from each country), one-mile relay (four men); two-mile relay, four-mile relay, shuttle high hurdles relay and two-mile steeplechase relay. And for the field events, in which each nation is allowed three men, the following complete the program: Shot put, javelin throw, hammer throw, pole vault, high jump and broad jump.

The British Empire always has shared honors in the track races, but has fared poorly in the throwing and jumping.

VENZKE GRADUATES

GRAYS BATTLE CRAWFORDS TODAY

The Books, Crawfords and Homestead Grays dominate the action in the local sandlot baseball campaign this evening. The Books, leading the City League by a comfortable margin, practically "in" as first half champs, take on the regenerated Homewood nine on the latter's diamond, while at Greenlee Field the Grays and Crawfords resume their colorful series, with the Grays seeking to even matters for the series to date.

Homewood's fine showing against Dormont last Sunday has given East End fans the impression that Hank Daly's classy outfit may be due to take the Book aggregation for a ride, but this will be a tough job.

The Grays and Crawfords will put in a big crowd at Greenlee Field. There is a natural rivalry between the clubs that appeals to the fans. The clubs are equally balanced. Gus Greenlee has added some new pitchers to his squad who will make a big difference in a short series.

The teams will meeting a double-header here tomorrow.

The Books turned back Dormont's final challenge in the first half of the City League chase last evening, defeating the defending champions, 7 to 4. Homewood continued its fast pace by beating the North Siders, 11 to 8, and the Geislers won over the Ferris nine, 6 to 5. J. L. Thomas downed Reliance Life, 4 to 3.

The Homestead Grays won over the Oilers in Newark, O., 14 to 12, in a slugfest.

A no-run, no-hit game was turned in by Kramer, hurling for the Baltzhoover Merchants against the J. Scott Morgans at Frick Park last evening. The Merchants won the game, 6 to 0.

HERE ARE THE FACTS

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

In its recent confession the Gillette Safety Razor Company told you that, under the stress of introducing a new razor and blade, uniformity had suffered; and told you how our efforts to correct the trouble had resulted in the development of a far superior product.

Several readers have asked us how we can make the bold, positive statement that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades we have ever produced. This is a fair question, and here is our reply: A marvelous new testing machine, recently developed, scientifically proves that these blades have never before been approached in keenness.

We cannot discuss the nature or details of this machine because it is being patented. But we can tell you that it measures microscopic dimensions with unfailing accuracy — revealing with mathematic exactness, actual degrees of razor-blade sharpness. So when we state that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest we have ever made we are basing our assertion upon fact. We know we are right and can prove it.

Further than this—everyone knows that a razor blade must be able to bend without cracking when tightened in the holder. This requires steel of a certain temper not suitable for a keen cutting edge. The problem is to permit flexing and yet have a hard edge that can be ground and stropped for proper shaving performance. Gillette has achieved the solution of this problem in the manufacture of its slotted blades.* These blades are made by a special tempering process that makes the edges exceptionally hard, while the center, of a different temper, flexes easily.

We urge you to try today's Gillette blades—the regular blade in the familiar green package or the BLUE SUPER-BLADE in its blue package, Cellophane wrapped. Do so without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades you have ever used, return the package and your dealer will refund your money.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package, Cellophane wrapped.

Wanamaker Estate Finally Adjusted

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—(AP.)—After pending for nearly 10 years, the adjudication of the estate of John Wanamaker was completed yesterday by Judge John M. Gest in Orphans' Court, showing a balance for distribution of $2,066,343. Prior to his death in December, 1922, Wanamaker transferred his department store interests to his son, Rodman, who has since died. The transfer, involving $43,177,901, was the subject of litigation by the state and federal government.

Lip Reading Urged For Slightly Deaf

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—(AP.)—Lip reading as an aid to persons whose hearing is only slightly impaired, was urged at the concluding session of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing here today. Miss Marie K. Mason, special lecturer in phonetics and visual hearing at Ohio State University, said more than 600 students at the university had been found to be suffering from impaired hearing.

Bombs of Police Hurled Back; Strategy Wins

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Twenty-two policemen stood outside a house in Brooklyn yesterday tossing tear gas bombs at Stanley Caroli, 26, holding forth inside with a butcher knife, only to see them tossed back again.

Finally one of the officers had a bright idea. He yelled:

"Throw out the knife, too."

Caroli did, and from then on it was simple.

Gangsters Wound 2 At Gas Station

GARFIELD, N. J., June 24.—(AP.)—A hoodlum machine gun crew wounded two gasoline station attendants here yesterday. Police theorized the bullets were intended for two alleged racketeers who were waiting at the station for repairs to a flat tire. William Schlegel, 20, fell with 18 slugs in his body when a machine gunner opened fire from a passing automobile. Leo Breda, 25, the proprietor, was less seriously wounded.

Iron, Steel Men Close Convention

The eighth annual convention of the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers, in session since Monday, closed with the annual reception in the William Penn Hotel last night. J. J. Booth, retiring president, presided.

Speakers at yesterday's sessions were W. B. Shirk, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; C. C. Pecu, of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Walter D. Hodson, Chicago, and A. J. Schmitt, of Newark, Del.

SOUP KITCHEN CLOSED, PASTOR FACES QUIZ

Minister, Aides Accused Of Solicitation Without Obtaining City Permit

The South Side Soup Kitchen, operated in the National Catholic Church of North America, was ordered closed today by Magistrate John J. Sweeney. He continued the hearing of the Rev. F. J. Klos, of 2417 Carson street, pastor of the church, and operator of the kitchen, who, with two aides, was arrested charged with soliciting funds for the kitchen's operation without permission of the City Welfare Department. The aides arrested are Edward Rosenberg, of Hobart and Wightman streets, and B. Hirsh, of 2619 Tilbury street.

The Rev. Mr. Klos was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Enoch Rauh, Director of Public Welfare, after she said reports had been made that solicitation was being made without the approval of the welfare department.

NAMES USED

Police said solicitation was made both by phone and letter. The letterheads bore the name of several prominent South Side business and professional men, she said, including Police Inspector Hennessey and Roy O. Eichleay.

The Rev. Mr. Klos said he had one woman and four men working on telephone calls and subscriptions. Rosenberg admitted that he made approximately $25 a week on commissions as a collector. Hirsh made about the same amount, it was testified. The woman who made collections after phone calls earned $15, it was testified.

COLLECTION BOOK

Magistrate Sweeney said the Booth & Flinn Co. had notified him that a call had been received by a person representing himself as Inspector Dennis Hennessey, of the South Side, and asked for a $10 contribution.

Sweeney said:

"Pittsburgh is becoming a mecca of the United States for bums."

He ordered the kitchen closed today, after the food supply has been exhausted, and continued the hearing until Monday.

The Rev. Klos said they fed about 230 persons daily.

THREE MEN HELD

Arthur Gorman, of 914 Ramsey street, Wilkinsburg; Fred Meyers, of 5140 Penn avenue, and William Newbit, of 940 Wallace street, Wilkinsburg, were held for court by Magistrate Sweeney, charged with false pretense, in connection with a solicitation for an alleged relief movement in Aspinwall.

Gorman, the alleged collector, was arrested with Meyers in Carrick and later police arrested Nesbit, Blawnox printer, who had printed the stationery bearing names of Aspinwall officials, police said.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Absent-Minded North

It is rare, indeed, that a Bridge player profits by his own absent-mindedness. Usually fate exacts a tribute from this as for other errors of omission and commission at the bridge table. However, today's story hinges about an absent-minded North, who forgot that he had opened the bidding and, in consequence, reached a Grand Slam contract, which was made, according to the hapless East, through only seven lucky breaks in the bidding and play:

North—Dealer
Neither side vulnerable

North: ♠AK5 ♡AK10732 ◇1093 ♣Q
West: ♠742 ♡94 ◇52 ♣AK10762
East: ♠J98 ♡Q8 ◇KJ74 ♣J43
South: ♠Q1063 ♡J65 ◇AQ86 ♣95

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2♡	Pass	1♡	Pass
3♡	Pass	2♡	Pass
Pass	Pass	7♡	Pass

In explanation of the bidding, it should be stated that North, after picking up his cards, and bidding one heart, was called to the telephone. Returning to the table, the first thing he heard was South's bid of two diamonds. Regarding this as an Opening Forcing bid, he responded with two hearts, and South, unable to rebid the diamonds, and having trump support for the rebid suit, decided to give North another chance by bidding three hearts, whereupon North, now convinced that he faced a hand containing all the Aces and Kings in the deck, closed the contracting with a bid of seven hearts.

The contract was made, whereupon, East made the following woeful inventory of the stuff this Grand Slam was made of:

1. North's call to the telephone and subsequent lapse of memory.
2. South's decision to give North another chance, with his weak hand, by bidding three hearts.
3. West's failure to bid clubs at any time.
5. Finding an even division in the spade suit.
6. The fortunate location for the Declarer of the adversely held diamond honors.
7. An even division of the trump suit.

South is Dealer.
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1NT	Double	Redouble	2♠

What should South bid, holding: ♠A75 ♡KJ8 ◇QJ64 ♣KJ2

Answer: Pass. North's Redouble has requested South to leave the next decision up to him. The only bid that South can make at this point is a Double, which is not advisable on account of his weak trump holding. Whatever move North decides to make, South should not pass until the bidding has reached game, unless North doubles some adverse bid.

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a two-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

Spitale and Bitz Cleared in Killing

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Salvatore Spitale and Irvin Bitz, the underworld figures who tried to get Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's baby back, have convinced police they know nothing of the killing of Vannie Higgins, beer overlord, who was assassinated last Sunday.

They visited Brooklyn police last night and presented alibis. Neither was held. Owen Madden, a "big shot" on Broadway and reputed racketeer king, also cleared himself.

BOROUGHS END SESSIONS

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—A special committee report proposing changes in public utilities legislation, was returned to the committee for further study at the twenty-second annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs concluded yesterday.

The report suggested investing the Public Service Commission with authority to prevent any company from changing rates until decision was made by the commission.

T. F. Chrostwaite, of Hanover, was re-elected president; Homer Swaney, of Beaver Falls, was named vice president, and A. D. Davidson, of Tarentum, financial secretary.

BACK TAX BILL FOR ASSESSOR

Collection of back taxes from J. E. Yedele, tax assessor in Dormont, on a garage, was directed in a resolution of the Commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

Yedele, recently furloughed from the county service, built a $1,000 three-car garage at 2975 Mattern avenue in September, 1928, according to a report made by Harry C. Workmaster, chief assessor, but never assessed it. He rented the garage at $10 a day, during elections, to the county, according to Workmaster, and when asked why it was never assessed said he had an understanding with C. J. McBride, former secretary of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes.

Rule 1

FOR BETTER MOTORING

ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH

It's a good rule to follow... always. Go with ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. Then you will get supreme performance at regular-gas price. • Check over the list of qualities of this great super-fuel. Test them out, one by one, in your own automobile. Flashing pick-up. Tremendous reserve power. Unusual economy. Dependability. Quick starting. • You want them all, don't you? Why sacrifice a single one . . . when you get them all in ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH at no extra cost! • Back of every gallon of ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH is this sincere ideal: to give you a better product, and greater value, than your gasoline-money has ever bought before. • That's Reason 1 for Rule 1: Go with ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH.

Better in a dozen ways

FLASHING PICK-UP
Your car leaps from 4 to 40 like a startled deer.

EXTRA POWER

MAXIMUM MILEAGE

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ALWAYS DEPENDABLE

COOLER PERFORMANCE

QUICKER STARTING

NO UNPLEASANT ODOR
No sulphurous or other fumes to spoil your motoring-pleasure.

ALL-ROUND ECONOMY

SCIENTIFIC FORMULA

HIGH ANTI-KNOCK RATING

CRYSTAL CLEAR

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCK LEADERS HIT NEW LOW GROUND

Demand Fades as Prices Give on Light Offerings; Steel Common Under 24

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—The general level of share prices came close to the cyclical low of June 1, as demand all but disappeared from the market today, and prices gave way under meager offerings.

The list had a momentary upturn at the start, presumably in response to the cut in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate, but softness of American Can, quickly followed by slumps in Santa Fe and Atchison, soon pulled the market down. Some of the leaders plunged through their previous resistance levels into new low ground.

Santa Fe dropped 3 points to the lowest price since 1900, and Allied Chemical lost as much, registering a new low since 1921. American Can dipped nearly 2 points, to the lowest since it was spilt up six years ago. American Telephone duplicated its previous low with a similar drop. United States Steel common went off more than a point to a new low under 24, and the preferred went under 57 for a 3-point loss. Union Pacific lost 3, and issues off a point or so included Consolidated Gas, National Biscuit, American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers "B," Drug, Du Pont, Continental Can and others. A few issues, including Telephone and the Tobaccos, were up a point or so for a time in the first hour.

The market appeared to be unsettled primarily by the approach of dividend action on Santa Fe, American Can and Allied Chemical shares. Directors of these three corporations are slated to meet on Tuesday. Also the prolongation of the session of Congress by the knotty and controversial problem of relief legislation, and the prospect that the Democratic platform would take an important stand on economic problems, added to uncertainties.

The market showed no sign of relief at the announcement that the Senate hearings in connection with its investigation of stock trading had been adjourned for the summer. As a matter of fact, these hearings have not appeared to have any appreciable effect upon the market, since the anti-short selling agitation died down. In fact, some quarters in Wall street lean to the view that the investigation may bring reforms of lasting benefit to investor and financier alike.

The Lausanne conference was closely watched in Wall street for constructive developments, and banking quarters were inclined to express satisfaction with the temporate tenor of the conversations. Also, bankers here felt that a general understanding among the various delegates of the severity of the situation in Central Europe augured well for some at least temporarily workable agreement.

COTTON PRICES EASE OFF

NEW YORK, June 24.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 2 higher on steadier Liverpool cables and buying by trade interests, but gains were small, owing to the favorable weather in the South.

Except for the July liquidation and switching from near to late months, trading continued quiet after the opening and orders appeared to be evenly divided. Crop advices from the southwest were less favorable and tended to check selling on the better weather advices. A report from Dallas said high temperatures, while mostly beneficial, had caused some damage in areas rapidly becoming too dry, with shedding in parts of South Texas. July contracts were holding around 5.21, and December 5.61 at the end of the first half hour, or about 2 points net higher.

The market remained very quiet later in the morning, but prices sagged slightly following reactions in the stock market. At midday active months were a point or two under yesterday's closing quotations with July selling at 5.18 and December at 5.57.

LIVERPOOL, June 24.—Cotton—Receipts, 36,000 bales, including 27,500 American; spot small business done; prices 3 points higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 4.91; good middling, 4.51; strict middling, 4.46; middling, 4.41; strict low middling, 4.31; low middling, 4.21; strict good ordinary, 4.01 good ordinary, 3.71. Futures opened steady: July, 4.09; October, 4.09; December, 4.13; January, 4.15; March, 4.21; May, 4.26.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Telautograph Corporation reports for five months ended May 31 net profit of $138,874, after all charges, compared to $152,440 in the like 1931 period.

Fairbanks Corporation reports for four months ended April 30 net loss of $100,363, after all charges, compared with net loss of $88,910 in the first four months of 1931.

Havana Electric and Utilities Company, controlled by American and Foreign Power, had net income of $4,153,238 in 1931 compared with $5,991,166 in 1930.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Raw sugar was firmer early today. Futures opened at 4 to 8 points on higher active covering and buying by houses with Cuban producing and banking connections, promoted by reports that a pool had been formed in Cuba to segregate 800,000 tons of Cuban sugar from this year's allotment until the price reached 1½ cents cost and freight. The upturn carried July contracts up to .88 and January to 1.04, but around these levels there was considerable realizing and reactions followed. The general market at midday was up 1 to 4 points net.

Refined prices were unchanged, but the undertone was firm. Prices were listed at 3.90 for fine granulated, with a good withdrawal demand, but new business light.

Some Helpful Developments Now Recorded

—By B. C. FORBES—

MANY PEOPLE have begun to feel less discouraged.

Men who have returned from extensive trips throughout the United States tell me that acute nervousness has subsided, that here and there businessmen report slightly better demand, that bankers no longer lie awake o' nights fearful of runs on their institutions.

B. C. Forbes

In the highest financial circles sentiment assuredly has improved. The strictly banking situation no longer occasions alarm. The steadiness exhibited by the bond market since the New York Bond-Buying Corporation was formed, has greatly encouraged heavyweight individual investors, savings bankers, insurance executives and other important owners of bonds.

The shrinkage in stock trading to the smallest volume in eight years or more is interpreted as meaning that necessitous liquidation has dried up, at least unless market values should shrink still further.

While doings in Congress are still watched very closely, apprehension over disastrous legislative action has distinctly subsided.

Foreign conditions still excite concern in influential circles. But even in this direction hope has developed that something short of the worst may eventuate. President Hoover's latest armament-reducing plan is not expected to produce far-reaching, tangible results.

WHEREAS THE disposition heretofore has been to pay attention only to unfavorable happenings, such as dividend reductions, unfavorable corporation reports, dwindling railway traffic, unemployment increases, receiverships and the like, there has arisen readiness to take cognizance of favorable developments.

While most of these are not of superlative importance, and far from supplying convincing testimony that the turn has definitely come, nevertheless it is something that there are stray facts and figures not discouraging. For example:

America this week has gained, not lost, gold.

Mr. Dawes is not the only notable who has lately voiced the opinion that the worst is over.

Westinghouse sends this wire: "Our employes' sales campaign, originated and conducted by them to put men back to work, has topped the $2,000,000 mark, with 10 days yet to go. Many corporations in allied and unrelated lines are following the Westinghouse employes' splendid example."

ENTERPRISE: H. Gordon Selfridge, Marshall Field-trained merchant, writes that he has installed a seismograph in his huge London department store, part of the equipment of his bureau of information.

JUST WHEN the rubber industry, long afflicted by ruinous price-cutting, had planned to obtain more reasonable prices for its product, along came a large mail order house and knocked this constructive movement on the head.

Western Pacific Gets Third Loan

WASHINGTON, June 24. — (AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved a loan of $2,264,000 by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Western Pacific Railroad Company.

This is the third approved, the road having previously borrowed $2,102,000 to assist in meeting its fixed charges and to pay expenses.

OIL INDUSTRY NOW MAKING PROFIT

Beaty Accomplished Much Since Assuming Direction Of A. P. I. Last November

By BERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
(Universal Service.)

NEW YORK, June 24.—The oil industry as a whole has turned the corner and is now out of the red, according to Judge Amos L. Beaty, president of the American Petroleum Institute.

If the improvement in the direction of earning moderate profits since April is maintained, one of the most dangerous sore-spots on the American economic scene will have been healed. Curiously enough, the betterment has occurred in the face of the first significant decline in gasoline consumption since the depression started. Up to the present year, domestic gasoline consumption held up remarkably well, but experts in the industry forecast a decline in domestic consumption and exports for the last nine months of 1932, ranging between 6.6 per cent and 15 per cent.

Mr. Rukeyser

FAVORS CURTAILMENT

Judge Beatty, who was formerly executive head of the Texas Corporation, has quietly and unostentatiously done a remarkable job since taking over his new work last November at a time when the industry was not only greatly depressed but highly chaotic. Instead of seeking to cover up troubles, Judge Beaty, at the December meeting of the directors of the institute in St. Louis, focussed attention on the seriousness of the problem. The industry had again reverted to the serious stage which had been temporarily improved some months earlier by militia efforts to reduce production of crude oil in Texas and Oklahoma.

The head of the American Petroleum Institute now feels that the position of the industry could further be strengthened by a further curtailment of 8 to 10 per cent in crude oil production. He said that the objective is not to make large profits under existing conditions, but simply to make sure that the industry can carry on through hard times and not get smashed.

Whether the industry now is overproducing of course depends on whether the minimum or maximum projected decline in consumption of gasoline is realized. Instead of standing by and wondering, the petroleum industry could doubtless stimulate consumption by a co-operative advertising campaign, supported by all the principal companies, which would depict the joys of motoring, even in an obsolete model.

OFFERS SOLUTION

The expected decline in consumption is tied up with the setback of 3.6 per cent in registrations of cars and trucks in 43 states and the District of Columbia in the first quarter of the year. Consumption of gasoline by trucks has been greatly reduced by the business depression, Judge Beaty told me. However, in general, he feels that gasoline consumption has shown far greater steadiness than the general run of products.

In connection with the recently announced plan of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) for dividing work through shortening the work week, Judge Beaty said that most of the industry is aroused to the problem of unemployment, though each company is handling the situation in its own way. For some time most of the small companies in the mid-continent field have been shortening working hours. Phillips Petroleum, Barnsdall, Midcontinent and Continental Oil are all proceeding in this direction.

Judge Beaty has been agitating for concerted action in the direction of dividing work. He remarked:

"I think it's a crime for responsible leaders of industry not to put their shoulders to the wheel and do something about unemployment."

In a recent address the executive wisely said:

"If the 10,000,000 workers of this country now unemployed were more profitably at work, the budget would soon balance itself.

"I submit that we should not only do something at once within this industry, but that we should inaugurate a movement and get behind it to a man, having in view a policy for all industries and business in the United States. We can at least set an example. It would be helpful to us and might encourage others."

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Bond Market felt a little better today. There was a brisk upturn in United States Government issues as a result of the reduction of the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate to 2½ per cent. British 5½s again came into popularity, advancing to 102. German 7s were slightly higher and the 5½s eased. French bonds steadied, as did some loans of Japan which have been weak recently in sympathy with the declining yen. The Brazilians and Colombians continued to record fair gains.

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Shepard Is Angered When He Sees Attorney and Lynn Together

CHAPTER XV.

"He's not nearly so good-looking as Tom," Lynn said absently, and wondered where Tom was and if he were having a good time. She'd danced with him a little earlier. The orchestra was playing some old hits, by request, "I Can't Give You Anything but Love, Baby," Tom had sung, holding her close. "And that's no idle jest," he had added abruptly; "there won't be any penthouses for a long time, Lynn."

"As if I cared!"

"You do care—for me?"

"Idiot!" And she had looked up at him, gray eyes shining between the dusky lashes, lips curved in reproach.

"I want like the devil to kiss you." Tom had told her savagely and a sharp tremor of emotion troubled her pulses and sang in her veins and weakened her knees, very sweet, very disturbing. And she had swayed closer and murmured, her breath catching, "Don't look at me that way, Tom. I can't bear it."

A moment of pure desire, pure and perfect anguish, pure and ecstatic happiness...Then Fane had cut in.

But something of that pleasant trouble, something of that burden of languor and painful frustrated delight remained with her now, as she stood on the terrace with Dwight beside her.

Inside, they were now playing one of Gwen's songs and she was singing to it, husky, sweet voice drifting over the brassy yearning of the saxophones:

"When my man's away, there ain't no peace,
I dunno what to do—
Feelin' so dog-goned blue.
When my man's away, I just sit and pray,
God, bring him back to me.
There ain't no peace for me."

TRUTH REMAINS

Trivial words and an important truth. The husky voice made magic of the dragging music; invested with the eternal glamour of human longing the tinsel, tawdry lyric. Only the truth remained, heart-breaking.

"Hokum," commented Dwight, at Lynn's side, "but like most hokum so infernally veracious."

She said, in a dreaming voice, "It's—lovely. So real."

"Women feel that way, I suppose, and believe it or not, some men."

"Yes." Lynn clasped her hands on the wall in front of her and stared out into the darkness.

"It's a pity things have to be so complicated," Dwight said. "A pity that love's so willful. Other women's men, other men's girls—we don't stop to think of that, do we?"

"I suppose not." She remembered Mara, and spoke of her. "A girl I know," she said, confident that he would understand.

When she had told the little there was to tell he said slowly, looking out to the velvet arch of the heavens:

"You can't do anything. Isn't she like most of us, caught in a trap of her own contrivance, struggling, hurting herself, trying to manufacture happiness, escape? She calls it 'having a good time.' I spoke to you the other night of the skyscrapers, didn't I?

TREMENDOUS TRAPS

"Sometimes I see them from another angle. Tremendous traps, opening and closing on time signals. I watch the girls and women come out of the doors, evenings, hurrying to their homes, happy or unhappy, but always preoccupied with the fear of losing their economic independence—if it is independence; leading such disseminated lives—the life of the skyscraper, ordered, patterned; the life of the home—whether it is an apartment or a furnished room; whether it contains the family unit of parents, fraternal relations, or husbands and children.

"Possibly your friend is disregarding the red light in order to make her life more bearable; possibly she is simply trying to bend one of the oldest forces in the world to her own small ends—in short, she accepts invitations from a man who may be able to guarantee her job to her. Yet perhaps she is only escaping. As for her husband, she probably loves him. But love, the strongest thing in the world, the poets say, is a delicate thing. It bruises with ease; it shatters at a touch.

"Love in a walk-up," he laughed, "with lovers trying to budget love the way they budget finances, with little wives working, and coming home disheartened and tired, with bills to think about and a run in the last pair of stockings; with grouchy husbands; with the smell of cabbage and laundry soap; with babies crying. Love nourished upon occasional routine embraces and stereotyped kisses. Love has to be stronger than I believe it is to rise above all that."

PATERNAL EMOTIONS

Lynn drew a deep breath. "I suppose you're right. I hate to think you're right. I won't believe it. Tom—Tom and I are different. We must be different. Waiting's hard," she said with unconscious cruelty, "when you're young and love each other. Sometimes I don't know what to think. We'd be crazy to marry—now. Perhaps we'd be crazy to marry even if I kept on working. Yet I can't give up my work. And Tom doesn't want me, married and working."

Dwight said, with deliberate lightness, "If I were Tom, I'd want you at any price and at any risk. But possibly he's right." He touched her hand. He said, on a deepened note, "Lynn, you're such a dear person." He felt her hand move under his, a startled gesture. In the darkness his mouth was ironic.

He went on smoothly, "If I had a daughter—" That was funny, too. He repeated it, savoring its comedy. He had a daughter. Two of them. Large, raw-boned girls who disapproved of him. "A daughter like you."

There he stopped, his voice effectively breaking. And why not? For a moment he visualized himself indulging only in anxious, benevolent, paternal emotions.

Now he laughed, withdrawing his hand. He said simply, "I wish you belonged to me."

She said she perfect thing, turning to look at him, her face pale, red-lipped, glamorous in the dim lighting of the terrace: "But you're far too young to have a daughter like me."

She thought of her own father, gray, stooped. Suddenly she was homesick.

"I'd like you to feel that I am your friend, your very good friend; that there is nothing I would not do for you. If you won't permit me a vicarious paternity—how about an avuncular interest?"

TOM GETS PEEVED

She said sweetly, "I'd like a friend best of all."

"You can always count on me," he told her, not asking himself upon what she could count; not really knowing.

She put her hand in his. This was what she had wanted all along. He said, the control breaking a little, the veneer cracking, knowing himself on dangerous ground but risking the consequences.

"A bargain, then? And to seal it?" He bent toward her. "You will not misunderstand, dear Lynn."

Still, he dared not risk too much. He kissed her lightly upon the white forehead she presented to him, his lips glancing over the dark and subtle arrow of the widow's peak. "I point the way," said the arrow, "to sweeter contacts."

She was not afraid; not even warned. She smiled faintly, and stood apart from him; not that his arms had been about her, simply that she had moved close to him with the instinct of the animal seeking affection?

Tom, in the doorway looking for her, saw them. He had not seen the kiss, so absurdly, so delicately chaste. He saw Lynn move away. She was white in the glow of the lanterns, white face, white dress, the banked fire of garnets flickering at her ears and throat and wrists, he knew, though he could not see them clearly.

But she had been too close to Dwight.

Tom went back into the room; and poured himself a drink; two drinks; three. Jennie conducting a small but entertaining affair with Manners, the illustrator, cocked a knowing blue eye at him. Sore about something, probably Lynn; going to drink the cellar dry. She then thought, I must tip Lynn off.

She did so later. She said confidentially, "I'm tight, but I can still walk. Why not? It isn't often I have a chance to get lit expensively. But Tom's had enough. He's peeved about something. Watch your step."

Dwight had gone over to a group of his guests. Lynn watched him a moment with grateful, friendly eyes. He was a dear. He did understand.

"It's late, Tom," she said.

"Oh, but I do. I'm tired! Let's go home now," she coaxed.

"It's all the same to me," he agreed, without looking at her, more than a little drunk, but his voice still unthickened, his eyes clear, his step steady, marked, perhaps, by a more pronounced swagger. Yet so different a Tom from the one who had held her close and sung, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

He couldn't. That was what ate at him now.

Gloomily he watched Lynn slip back across the room to draw Dwight aside. Her lips moved. She was saying, "We must go now, really." And Dwight was reminding her, "Tomorrow's Sunday. Little girls can sleep. Must you go?"

She must, she said; and he smiled at her without, it seemed, a regret.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, young and pretty, is ambitious for a career in the Seacoast Bank and Trust Company. She loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the vice presidents, but will not marry him, feeling they both must make their careers first. Then Lynn meets David Dwight, a prominent lawyer, through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Twenty years ago he had been Sarah's fiance. When he married a woman of wealth and position, Sarah was broken-hearted, but she finally found contentment in her work. Dwight is attracted to Lynn and invites her and Sarah to his apartment for dinner. Lynn's roommate, Jennie Le Grande, a model, warns her that Dwight is dangerous. Later Dwight meets Lynn and asks her to lunch just as Tom appears. Dwight is relieved to learn that Lynn is not planning on an early marriage. He plans a party and invites Lynn and Tom. Lynn is surprised when Tom accepts. At the party Tom is not at ease. Dwight breaks in while Lynn is dancing with one of his guests and leads her out onto the terrace.

Now Go On

"I'd l you to feel that I am your friend," said Dwight.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Thousands of boy and girl members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club are expected to attend the regular meetings tomorrow at the 17 Warner theaters. Each youngster will receive the second in the series of tickets for the rides at Kennywood Park on the day of the Junior Komic Club picnic—July 14.

At the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, the members will be entertained by the newly organized Junior Komic Club Orchestra under the direction of John Gilbert.

CHAPLIN CONTEST

The Enright Theater will show the movie, taken last Saturday, of the members of the Junior Komic Club and will also have a Charley Chaplin contest. The youngster giving the best impersonation of this world famous motion picture star will be presented with a valuable prize.

Joe Murdock, manager of the Memorial Theater, McKeesport, will hold the first annual Junior Komic Club dog and "mut" show, with prizes for the tallest, shortest, ugliest, prettiest, dirtiest and cleanest dog brought to the meeting.

If you are not a member of the Junior Komic Club, go to the manager of any of the theaters listed below before the meetings start tomorrow, and join. You will receive a membership card and button free.

Rate Study Starts

Public Service Commission Launches Investigation of Power Charges Levied in Pittsburgh.

The Public Service Commission was scheduled to start its inquiry into the rates of electric companies this morning. The commission decided to take this step several months ago following widespread agitation against the charges made by utility companies in this state. Accountants have completed examination of the books of the Duquesne Light Company and the West Penn Power Company. Commissioners Samuel Walker and George W. Woodruff, who are to make the study, were to hear the views of company officials at today's conference.

In view of the disclosures recently made by the New York Public Service Commission, which charged that holding companies in the Associated Gas and Electric group were used to increase the apparent expenses of operating companies by making excessive charges for engineering and supervision, it is to be hoped that this angle will not be neglected in the study here.

The commission's action may be considered a move of historical significance for this state. It represents one of the few times that this body has taken the initiative in determining the reasonableness of power rates. In the past it has been the commission's policy to take no action unless a formal complaint was made. This left rates practically to the discretion of the companies, since the expense of a rate case is usually prohibitive.

To save expense for itself as well as for the companies, the commission has not opened a formal case, but is holding private conferences in the hope that agreements can be reached by negotiations if its studies of the power producers' books indicate that rate cuts are warranted.

In view of the mounting profits of the power companies for many years and the fact that domestic rates in Pittsburgh are higher than most other cities of comparable size, it does not seem likely that the commissioners will have a hard time finding justification for demanding lower charges.

Admirable Work

District Attorney Negley, of Butler County, has been giving prosecuting officials a splendid example of what can be done to protect the sanctity of our courts.

Mr. Negley first showed the vigor with which he could act when reports arose concerning alleged attempts to "fix" prospective jurors called to try Mayor Charles H. Kline and his deposed Director of Supplies, Bertram L. Succop. Nine persons were arrested. The cases of eight persons have been disposed of. One was convicted, five pleaded no defense, one was acquitted but ordered to pay the costs. One case was dropped. The ninth defendant has asked a change of venue.

"If there ever was a time the people should stand four square for the administration of justice it is now. Thwart the attempt to buy justice in the courts. Say by your verdict no one can debase them."

Farmers Do Eat

Agriculture Not Rosy, but it Does Seem to Offer Independence of Sort.

The "back-to-the-soil" proposal, which has found considerable support among those who see in such a movement an opportunity to render many persons self-supporting, has caused a North Side reader of the Sun-Telegraph to write a protest. He points out that farms not in use were not abandoned without reason, but usually because unproductive soil made it impossible to wrest a living from the land.

He states that the necessity of fertilization and the cost of equipment would be a big handicap, and details all the many reasons why he thinks failure is certain to come from any such a movement. We quote an extract:

"Some people have the foolish idea that a farmer can grow all he needs. Salt, sugar, tea, coffee, flour, meat, fruit, clothes are only some of the things he must buy. His team must be shod, he will want newspapers and magazines, he must have fertilizer."

Let's leave this correspondent for a time and take up another pessimistic communication to the editor of the Sun-Telegraph. This one is from a tenant farmer at Smithton, Pa., and he incloses a credit slip for milk shipped to a Pittsburgh delivering dairy for the month of May.

It shows that he delivered 5,847 pounds of milk, the total value of which was $43.15, against which was charged $17.33 for hauling, leaving the net proceeds $25.82.

Now, while $17.33 appears to be a disproportionate hauling charge, and less than one-half cent per pound for milk seems ridiculous, considering the retail price of milk in Pittsburgh, nevertheless $25.82 is SOME money. It is more than many people in Pittsburgh have received (except through charity) in a year, say nothing of one month.

Of course, it is a pittance out of which to pay farm rent, feed stock, etc., but still it is some money. Eggs are another commodity that is potential money—not much, perhaps, but some.

Then, in opposition to this discouraging side of "back-to-the-soil" we read about an experience in Butler County. It may be a solitary instance that we cite, nevertheless it is an example. A miner, native of Ukrainia, got tired of seeing most of his earnings going to the company store, so he made a small payment on a 50-acre farm. In two years he was able to add 10 acres to it, and just two weeks ago—in this "hard times" period—he had become sufficiently affluent to purchase 38 additional acres.

The farmer is having a tough time—no doubt of it, and so is everybody else, but the farmer still has this advantage, to quote a pun credited to a farmer's wife when asked how the family existed:

"We sell what we can, can what we can't, and eat what we can't can."

Another Noble Experiment! -:- -:- By George E. Phair

Behind the wheel of a roaring car
He ranges fast and he ranges far
  Like a Juggernaut accurst.
His victims die as he passes by,
Raising the gangsters' battlecry:
  "Women and Children First!"

As free as the air he goes his way,
And never a hand is raised to stay
  The murderer's mad career.

Unchecked he travels a ruthless road
And knows no rule but the gangsters' code,
  No law but the law of fear.

For he is the spawn of a dry regime,
Waxing fat on the Volstead scheme,
  Breeding on discontent.
So why not ruin the lowly breed
By wrecking the trough were gangsters feed
  As a noble experiment?

Life's Little Traffic Lights

Platonic friendship used to be the shortest cut to marriage—but nowadays when you offer to be "just a good little pal" a man is so likely to take you at your word.

Most men are like persimmons. They may respond a little to the sun of a come-hither smile; but it takes a touch of frost to make them sweet and tender.

The first thing a bride should learn is how to listen with an expression of rapt interest when her husband begins telling her what a remarkable man she married. After that the sailing is always smooth.

Middle age is the point at which a woman moves the mirror a little farther away from the window and puts heavily frosted bulbs under the drawing room lamp shades.

After a few girls have made the usual fuss over him and he has recovered from one baby-grand passion, the average young man feels that he knows more about the female species than Einstein knows about Relativity. Later, he begins to "learn about women" in the old Kipling manner.

King Solomon's seven hundred wives seemed to be perfectly satisfied with just a fraction of a man's attentions and a parking space in his affections; but a modern girl wants exclusive rights and is not anxious to be just one of the ensemble.

Now that we can run our houses by touching an electric button, do our love-making and our fighting by telephone, and order our divorces by mail, nothing remains to make life a bed of roses, except to discover a way of getting our vitamins without eating the spinach.

Wisdom

Do not ask me: "Is it wise?"
With that wonder in your eyes.
Some day wisdom dwells apart
From the folly of the heart,
From the sweet and simple things
Which man's daily living brings;
Wisdom is to go alone
Into realms that few have known,
Seeking on those lonely heights
Solemn joys and rare delights.

Yet for me scant gladness lies
In such lofty destinies,
And the wisdom I would choose
Is the lore the humble use;
Bluebirds' lyrics through the day,
Children's laughter at their play,
Every homely joy and bliss;
What have sages more than this?
Wisdom I most highly prize
Is the magic of your eyes.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 24.—Thoughts while strolling: Those "Rooms to Let" ads on fashionable East Side homes. I. Klein and O. Soglow, the caricaturists, are pals from Ghetto days. Where's Peter Arno by the way? Mrs. E. W. Hutton has Garbo tootsies. Dr. Bolling Lee—in a cottage by the sea, tee-dum-te-dee.

A flying kite always makes me think of kicking up dust on a country road. Tony Balcom, who sculpts in tin cans. And has a clientele among yacht owners, if any. Overheard: "That Morning Glory Fizz has made the world dandy again." I'm always getting Ben Ami and Paul Muni mixed.

Henry L. Doherty, a Columbus, O., boy, who made good in the city. And "out-smarted" Wall street for years. There's a resemblance somehow between Katherine Brush and Claudette Colbert. George Collins, the Mayor's cousin and constant companion. One-word description of Amelia Earhart—exciting.

Ely Culbertson looks like a third baseman. What I could do to a beefsteak and kidney pie. Who remembers cushion mats for the front porch? Leon Errol has had a six months joust with a match-burned hand. He forgot to tuck in the flap. Mrs. Ed Wynn—Frank Keenan's daughter.

Don Herold got his style of cartooning from his 4-year-old daughter. Those youthful, sporty detectives who hang around cabarets. One of my favorite people—Herb Roth, Edmund Lowe's perfect profile. S. Jay Kaufman, the first Broadway columnist. Whose gossip was kindly.

Nobody shows so much stage nervousness as Helen Morgan. As I live and breathe—a flapper wearing only one-half sock. Percy Hammond always seems in indignant glow. And everybody I know appears to be at the end of the rope. But I'm going to tie a knot in mine—and hold on.

* * *

Robert Benchley is the glossarian of "The Wayward Press" under a pseudonym, "Guy Fawkes," in a weekly periodical. He holds up the frailties of journalism and belabours its inefficiency. As Benchley's contact with the newspaper roar has been chiefly in the remoteness of book reviewing, his irony is regarded by many of the guild as a trifle strained. As one of the humbler assessors of journalistic valuations, I think the dailies put on a far better show than the weeklies. And with less holier-than-thou.

* * *

There are many, too, who are irritated by trade-mark lines of stage and radio stars. Yet the most successful have employed such accretions for years. Jimmy Durante is known for his rasping: "I got a million of 'em." Al Jolson has his: "You ain't heard nothin' yet." Ted Lewis: "Is everybody happy?" And Tony Wons never omits his: "Are you listenin'?"

* * *

At breakfast I talked to a fairly well established poet. He was indulging a quick twinge of pity, not over the state of the world, but his increasing years. He believes all poetry after 30 is strained and the richest imagery ever given to mankind was by Keats, who died so young. Among other things he recalled the mournful lament of the late Elinor Wylie: "When I was 40, and two feathers sprung like crescents silver-curved from either temple."

* * *

All my life I have had a weakness for arcades and tunnels. To me they are always a succession of amazements, especially arcades—from old Emery's in Cincinnati to the Burlington in London. From a gentleman who knows something of psychiatry I learn this is an invariable yearning among those with a slight neurosis toward the open spaces. He must be right, for even movies of great wastes such as the Sahara give me sinking spells.

* * *

On Forty-ninth street a crowd of school children in home-going animation, stiffened suddenly into phantom stillness along the sidewalk. Then as suddenly they began to scream and applaud. The object of their emotionalisms was Floyd Gibbons, walking toward the Hotel Winthrop, his home, clad in a suit as white as his famous eye patch. Nor have I ever seen Gibbons quite so pleased.

* * *

Harry Silvey and I dropped into a taxi dance hall near Broadway last evening. Overwhelmed by a lunatic seizure, I decided to hell around in an old-fashioned waltz with a blonde temptress. After about three circles of the floor she warned rather brusquely: "Don't dance so fast and you won't sweat so much." And romance, pulling a cap over its outstanding ears, took it on the lam.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Yes; I know.

Every day letters come, saying that; hundreds of letters, telling of wrecked dreams—

Letters from youngsters who had planned to be married this year; but where's the money? Letters from men who were going to make good, at last; tired men who thought they'd climbed the hill, and now—what's ahead? Letters from mothers who can't believe it yet—can't believe that Mary must give up her school; that Jimmy's got to quit and take a job; that there isn't money enough to pay for an operation for baby Rose!

Frantic young lovers, desperate mothers and fathers, all of them watching dreams go glimmering; all of them rebelling, crying out: "What's the use of it all? Why has it happened? How can we bear it? What can we do?"

Frantic, rebellious, sometimes I too can't bear it. Can't stand the misery of reading another word. Push them all away—those hundreds of pleading letters, those hundreds of clinging hands. Put my head down on my arms; close my eyes.

Close my eyes and through the long, lonely darkness, remember—

Remember a girl who stood as helpless, as rebellious, 30 years ago, looking down at a tiny baby in her arms. Such a tiny body! Such a shining dream! And now, in an hour, to have found that it never could be; to have found that life must become, for both of them, a long, slow lesson in patience and in pain.

And then, to her frantic sobbing, an old voice saying gently: "Don't be too desperate, child. 'They also serve who only stand and wait.'"

What did he mean? What sort of an answer was that, when everything had gone wrong?

And so the old man told the girl of Milton. What life must have meant to him, that great poet, seeing his visions of Heaven and Hell, writing them down in thundering words that shook the world!

Our little dreams, our small ambitions, how small they seem beside a vision such as his. Often he must have felt he ruled that world he shook; was master of all heavens and all hells. A proud, young, ruthless man, striding on in the splendor of his dreams!

And then, suddenly, the splendor was dimmed and the dream had crumbled. Milton crouched in darkness. Milton had gone blind.

Blind! Never more to glimpse the loveliness of dawn; the mystery of the stars! Never more to behold that dark, bright drama of life that leaped, to his reading, from the faces of men! Never more to see words forming beneath his fingers!

Blind! Oh, the awful despair, the frantic bitterness, breaking out in a great cry! Trembling, his daughter wrote the words, not daring to look at that convulsed face:

"When I consider how my light is spent,
"Ere half my days, in this dark world and wide,
"And that one Talent which is death to hide,
"Lodg'd with me useless—"

Back and forth, back and forth, he walked in his darkness, hammering against the darkness with terrible incoherent words.

Then gradually he slowed. The hoarse, sobbing voice grew gentle. The working face grew silent. Slowly the light that had forsaken Milton's eyes dawned in his heart, and he whispered in wonder, in wisdom and peace:

"—— God doth not need
"Either man's work or his own gifts.
"THEY ALSO SERVE WHO ONLY STAND AND WAIT!"

Dreams gone glimmering? Life standing still? Don't lose heart, my dear. Hope on, and still be proud. The cripple, sometimes, wins the grimmest fight. The bright star shines within the darkest night.

"THEY ALSO SERVE WHO ONLY STAND AND WAIT!"

Wadsworth Interprets The Convention

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Former Senator Wadsworth interprets the action of the Republican convention on prohibition as a manifestation of the imperialistic trend in government in this country. By this he means a disposition, more and more, to centralize power in Washington.

This is the danger foreseen by the enemies of the Federalists 150 years ago; and it was because of this danger that Jefferson and Madison organized their party of opposition.

But it is scarcely true that the convention was disposed to adopt the imperialistic or centralized plan which went into the platform. But for the pressure brought to bear by Mr. Hoover and his agents and official retainers among the delegates, a more decentralizing plank would have been adopted.

There were two reasons for the imperialistic trend of the convention. One was that it was bound to nominate as its leader a man who temperamentally is an imperialist. Mr. Hoover really believes in centralization and the concentration of power in the executive, in the national capital. Instinctively he is an autocrat. Without possessing the qualities of a dictator he would like to be one.

* * *

A Numerous and Brave Array

But notwithstanding this fact, the convention still would have refused to bow to his dictation but for the strength he had in the army of federal officeholders among the delegates. These made a numerous and brave array. An astonishing number went from New York and two of these were members of the cabinet. And one of these members of the cabinet was in active, open charge of the fight to force the dictation of the President upon the convention.

Regardless of their individual views, these retainers of the President were forced to bend their backs to the lash of the administration. It was liberally applied. There was no little bulldozing. The delegation from Louisiana knows all about it. An Assistant Secretary laid down the law to them. And so it ran through all the delegations.

These men were not free agents. They moved under the rod of intimidation. To deny the intimidation is an absurdity in view of the amazing action of the First Assistant Postmaster General in openly threatening postmasters with the invitation to send in their resignations if they were not inclined to dedicate themselves to Mr. Hoover's political interest.

* * *

Mr. Hoover Is Different

Twenty-eight years ago, when Roosevelt was President and seeking renomination in the convention of 1904, he set himself four-square against federal office holders going as delegates to the party pow-wow. It was a fine gesture, a sincere one, and there was justice in it. Many years later Calvin Coolidge expressed his disapproval of dominating conventions through men who are dependents of the President.

But Mr. Hoover is different. He thinks in terms of imperialism and autocracy. He wanted as many retainers in the convention as could possibly be packed in. He got them in. And they were the determining factor in the framing of the platform and in the renomination of Mr. Curtis for second place on the ticket.

This has come to be a menace and something of a scandal. With the expansion of federal activities into almost all the affairs of men, the army of federal office holders has increased alarmingly. It is estimated that today one man in 10 in this country holds some federal job.

If public opinion and the law permits this vast army to mobolize for common purposes in politics under the dictation of the appointing power, it will only be a matter of time until we have an autocracy of the most dangerous sort. In the case of a strongly dominant party it would go a long way toward perpetuating a regime in power.

* * *

No Free Will At the Convention

I do not know to what extent this scandal can be ended by law; it can be ended by a protesting public sentiment; and should be ended by the political parties.

Otherwise it will be impossible to reflect the free will of a party in a convention. There was no free will last week in Chicago. The convention moved under the Cossacks' whips. It was a bulldozed convention.

But for that, Mr. Curtis would not have been renominated — and should not have been. Personally popular, in no way offensive, no one would suggest that he possesses the qualities for the Presidency in a crisis.

In equipment he is no Elihu Root. In normal times he would be a safe vice president; for ordinary he merely presides over the Senate and eats his way through his term. But the next four years will be critical, and Mr. Curtis will be in his seventies when the next Administration begins.

That was the reason, reflecting in no way upon Mr. Curtis personally, that the sentiment of the convention was against his renomination.

But Mr. Hoover and his corps of office holders in the convention, tremblingly doing the bidding of Ogden Mills, literally were forced to renominate Curtis.

* * *

Why Curtis Was Named

There were two reasons for Mr. Hoover's dictation of the renomination of his running mate—and thereon hangs a tale. Some months ago, Mr. Curtis was more than dubious about the re-election of the national ticket. In conversation with some political friends he avowed his skepticism and announced his intention of making a survey in Kansas with the view to seeking the Senatorial nomination should he find the prospects brighter there. He made the survey.

Just what he found we do not know. About this time he was given assurances in administration circles regarding a renomination.

But he himself in conversation with a correspondent, during the time of the rising tide against his renomination in the convention, offered another explanation. Here again prohibition enters. He thought the opposition was due to the fact that he is bone dry, an ardent prohibitionist who stands four-square for the Eighteenth Amendment and all its fruits.

It also enters into the explanation of the grim determination of Mr. Hoover and the federal officers' corps in the convention that he should be named again.

* * *

A Welcome Innovation

But the Republican convention is now over. There is more bitter resentment than enthusiasm over the results.

Now the public mind is turning to the Democratic convention which will be a free agent. Whether the spirit of individualism and independence there will be so uncompromising as to split the party into segments and give Mr. Hoover a fighting chance is still on the lap of the gods.

Just now the leaders appear to be concentrating on the platform in the hope of making it no longer than a thousand words. This would be a welcome innovation. The franker it is, the shorter it will be. It requires many words to confuse the public mind. Since a platform should present policies and principles and not statutes, the party's position on every question can be condensed into a clear strong paragraph. It is in the effort to straddle and confuse that a platform lengthens.

This year the issues go to the fundamentals of government. These fundamentals were long since set forth by Jefferson. It is now conceded by Nicholas Murray Butler that the preservation of our institutions demand a return to Jeffersonian principles. Why not a brief restatement of these principles with a sharp application to the outstanding questions of the hour?

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Do you know:

1. What possibility for the Presidency said that he "did not choose to run?"
2. What empire was called the "sick man of Europe?"
3. When did Arnold Bennett die?
4. In what century did Edmund Burke live?
5. When was the dime novel popular?
6. What industry does "The Jungle," by Upton Sinclair, portray?
7. What famous cartoon did Franklin print in the eighteenth century?
8. What two people were driven out of Massachusetts and established Rhode Island?
9. Who were the three outstanding American artists up to the Civil War?
10. Who achieved great success in the title role of O'Neill's "Emperor Jones?"

11. Delaware	the Panhandle State.
12. Georgia	Blue Hen State.
13. West Virginia	Hawkeye State.
14. Iowa	Hoosier State.
15. Indiana	Cracker State.

1. Calvin Coolidge. 2. Ottoman Empire. 3. March 27, 1931. 4. Eighteenth. 5. Civil War period. 6. Meat packing industry. 7. "Join or Die." New York Gazette, May 13, 1754. 8. Roger Williams and Ann Hutchinson. 9. John Copley, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart. 10. Charles Gilpin. 11. Blue Hen State. 12. Cracker State. 13. The Panhandle State. 14. Hawkeye State. 15. Hoosier State.
